

漫画人

JAPANESE
POP CULTURE
& LANGUAGE LEARNING

$4.95

MANGAJIN

No. 30

JAPANESE HOTELS: the inns and outs

BREAKFAST IN AMERICA,
Japanese style?

CONTENTS

FEATURES

特集

tokushū

page 7

7 Political Cartoon

Politicians and bureaucrats couldn't help the Japanese rice farmer this year.

10 Japanese Hotels: the Inns and Outs

From capsule hotels to love hotels to temple lodgings, Japan offers accommodations to suit every need and every budget.

22 Using MANGAJIN in Class

MANGAJIN is finding its way into a variety of classrooms in the US and Japan.

24 Results of the 1993 Babel Translation Contest

The winning entry, along with a judge's comments.

DEPARTMENTS

連載/コラム

rensai/koramu

4 Letters The readers write.

5 Brand News The sale of salt in Japan has been privatized and packaging has taken on a bit more flavor.

14 A Taste of Culture, by Elizabeth Andoh Some American hotels make an effort, but there is more to a Japanese-style breakfast than just fish and rice.

18 Book Review Lois Peak's Learning to Go to School in Japan examines the transition from the indulgence of childhood at home to the constraints of school life.

28 Basic Japanese: Maitta

If you give up, if you're in a fix, if you're at a loss — here's a word for you.

80 Vocabulary Summary

82 MANGAJIN • MONO Get your holiday cheer here!

86 Classifieds

page 10

MANGA

漫画

manga

26 Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson

34 Selected Works of Ishii Hisaichi • いしいひさいち選集

36 Garcia-kun • ガルシアくん, by Takeuchi Akira

38 Sarari-kun • サラリくん, by Nishimura Sō

40 Obatarian • オバタリアン, by Hotta Katsuhiko

42 After Zero • アフター0, by Okazaki Jirō

51 HOTEL (Part I) • by Ishinomori Shōtarō

page 51

MANGAJIN is a made-up word combining manga ("comic/cartoon") and jin ("person/people"). It sounds almost like the English word "magazine" as rendered in Japanese—magajin. All of the Japanese manga in MANGAJIN were created in Japan, by Japanese cartoonists, for Japanese readers.

漫画人

MANGAJIN

Editor & Publisher
Vaughan P. Simmons

Translation Editor
Wayne Lammers

Advising & Contributing Editors
Peter Goodman, Karen Sandness
Frederik L. Schott, Jack Seward

Contributing Writers/Editors
Elizabeth Andoh, Douglas Horn,
Okuyama Ikuko, Chris Perius, Mark Schilling, Shinoda Tomohito & Gretchen

Associate Editor
Ben Beishline

Editorial Assistant
Virginia Murray

Art & Graphics
Ashizawa Kazuko

Business Manager
Kathy Saitas
Tel. 404-590-0092 Fax 404-590-0690

Subscription/Office Manager
Mary Ann Beech
Tel. 404-590-0091

Marketing Manager
Greg Tenhover
Tel. 404-590-0270

Advisory Board
Doug Reynolds,
John Steed, William Yamaguchi

Cover by Kazuko

Printed in U.S.A.

Editor's Note

Those of you who have been with MANGAJIN from the beginning will recognize our feature manga in this issue, Hotel, by Ishinomori Shōtarō, as the title we started with in issues No. 1 and 2. Ishinomori is probably best known in the US for Japan, Inc., the English translation of Nihon Keizai Nyūmon ("An Introduction to Japanese Economics"), and he is one of the few manga artists known here outside action manga and animation fan circles. Japan, Inc. was published in 1988, the year I began developing prototypes of MANGAJIN, and I was hopeful that it would help increase awareness in the US that manga could be more than just "kid stuff."

As one of the heirs, if not the heir to the late Tezuka Osamu, Japan's Manga no Kami-sama ("God of Manga"), Ishinomori is uniquely qualified to comment on manga and the directions of Japanese pop culture, and we will feature an interview with him in the next issue. (We plan to publish the interview in tai-yaku style—with the original Japanese facing the English translation.)

A bit of good news: Shūeisha, one of the "big three" Japanese publishers (along with Shōgakukan and Kōdansha), has finally decided to grant us reprint rights for some of their manga material. This means that in 1994 we should be able to bring you the delightful Dr. Slump, and the intriguing Happy People.

According to our last survey, 13% of our US readers are educators. If you're in the Japanese teaching biz, you might want to take a look at page 20 where we report on what some of your peers are doing with MANGAJIN in the classroom. We hope our new book, Basic Japanese Through Comics (a collection of material from our first 24 Basic Japanese columns), will also make life a little easier for Japanese instructors everywhere.

MANGAJIN (ISSN 1051-8177) is published 10 times a year, monthly except January and July, by: Mangajin, Inc., 200 N. Cobb Pkwy., Suite 421, Marietta, GA 30062.

Second class postage paid at Marietta, GA 30060 and additional offices. Postmaster: Send address changes to: MANGAJIN, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. USPS # 006137.

Subscription prices:
$35/year in US, $50/year in Canada.
Overseas (except Japan) subscriptions:
$75/year
Exclusive agent in Japan:
Sakai Shuppan Kenkyu Center,
Minami Aoyama 2-18-9, Minato-ku, Tokyo
Tel. 03-3479-4434, Fax 03-3479-5047.
Subscriptions in Japan: ¥9,000 and ¥8,000/year

The name MANGAJIN is registered in the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office.

Copyright © 1993 by MANGAJIN, Inc. All rights reserved.

- Calvin and Hobbes, by Bill Watterson, from The Authoritative Calvin and Hobbes, copyright ©1990 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, NY.
- Obatarian, by Hotta Katsuhiko, first published in Japan in 1990 by Take Shobō, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Take Shobō.
- Ishii Hisaichi Senshū, by Ishii Hisaichi, first published in Japan in 1992 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha.
- Garcia-kun, by Takeuchi Akira, first published in Japan in 1992 by Futabasha, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Futabasha.
- Sarari-kun, by Nishimura Sō. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Nishimura Sō.
- After Zero, by Okazaki Jirō, first published in Japan in 1990 by Shogakukan, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Shogakukan.
- HOTEL, by Ishinomori Shōtarō, first published in Japan in 1992 by Shogakukan, Tokyo. Publication in MANGAJIN arranged through Shogakukan.

Japan And The Art Of Landing Feet First.

The Daruma Doll is a Japanese good luck symbol, believed to be a way to find first fortune. To make a wish, you paint in one of the eyes. When the wish comes true you gratefully paint the other eye. This is the non-traditional side of Japan you need to know in order to understand its business side. All the books you need to fully know the real Japan are now at KINOKUNIYA (Kin-oh-koo-nee-yah)—for both English and Japanese.

KINOKUNIYA BOOKSTORES

The Largest Japanese Bookstore Chain in The U.S. and Japan

San Francisco
(415) 567-7625

San Jose
(408) 252-1300

Los Angeles
(213) 687-4280

Torrance
(310) 327-6577

Costa Mesa
(714) 434-9900

Seattle
(206) 547-2477

New York
(212) 775-1461

New Jersey
(201) 541-7500

© 1991 Kinokuniya Company Ltd. All rights reserved. Kinokuniya is a registered trademark of Kinokuniya Company Ltd.

3 1/2" X 4" PADDED CALENDAR
FITS MOST DAY PLANNERS

A-KANJI-A-DAY

1994 Daily Calendar

by MARJORIE E. HEY

Featuring:

- Kanji used in newspapers
- ON-KUN readings
- Stroke order
- Sample compounds

$11.50* Gift Boxed

add $3.00 shipping and handling (USA only)

*CA residents add 8.25% sales tax

ALSO AVAILABLE:

- Weekly and Monthly Kanji Calendars
- Japanese Software
- Personalized in Japanese/English: Business cards, Note Pads, Labels, Book Plates, Rubber Stamps, Tiles, Photo Mugs, Luggage Tags, Shirts, Keychains, and Magnets
- Japanese Typesetting

Call or write for your FREE Gift Catalog

HEY PUBLISHING CO.

28150 Avenue Crocker, Unit 201

Valencia, California 91355

(805) 295-5905

On-line Info Service

Gateway Japan

Enjoy immediate access to a wealth of information on Japan. GJ On-line:

- is user friendly
- features full-text search and retrieval
- requires no experience
- provides personalized assistance & technical support
- has LOW rates and no hidden costs

Information available includes:

- government releases
- policy, business & research reports
- joint venture activities
- statistics & export/trade "how tos"
- news clips & bios
- opinions & perceptions
- exchanges, fellowships & grants
- details on organizations—including: Focus Japan: A Resource Guide to Japan-Oriented Organizations (see MANGAJIN classifieds for more information)

For FREE brochure call: 202-265-7685

Gateway Japan/NPA
1424 16th St., NW, #700
Washington, D.C. 20036

Letters

Letters to the Editor

MANGAJIN welcomes comments by letter or fax, although we reserve the right to edit for clarity or length. Please address correspondence to: Editor, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119. Fax: 404-590-0890

日本語の技術も大歓迎です。日本在住の方は世界翻訳研究センターへ送っていただいて結構です。〒107東京都港区南青山2-18-9, Fax: 03-3479-4436

Computer confusion

I was happy to see the article in issue No. 27 about a software for Japanese from Apple called Japanese Language Kit. I thought "great," and bought the software last week. According to your article, it looked like I wouldn't need anything else to work the software, but I found I need some kind of application that has WorldScript in it. Is there a chance that I can get my regular US software (MS Word, MS Works, PageMaker 5.1, Aldus Freehand, Superpaint, Print Shop, McDraw, etc.) to work with the Japanese Language Kit?

SUMI GUILDAY
Sacramento, CA

Douglas Horn, author of the article, responds: The Japanese Language Kit from Apple Computer is an operating system, so it requires software applications designed for it. Currently, there are two classes of Japanese-enabled Macintosh software—those designed to run entirely in Japanese, and those designed to run in English, with the capability of adding language modules through WorldScript. For example, WordPerfect for Mac (English version) will handle Japanese when the Japanese Language Kit is running, but does not have the Japanese-specific functions of the Japanese version of WordPerfect. The JLK will run either type of application, but normally cannot put Japanese into a program not enabled for Japanese or WorldScript.

Unfortunately, all of the applications you've listed have Japanese versions—usually indicated by a J after the program name and version number. It is unlikely that you will be able to satisfactorily incorporate Japanese into documents created with these programs.

I am sorry for any confusion, but as the article stated, the purpose of the JLK is to allow users to run Japanese applications.

Searching for an answer

As I am still a novice in my study of kanji, I continue to have some difficulty accepting the tenuous link between many of the characters and their pronunciations. In your issue No. 27, page 31, the character 探 is used as the root of the verb sagasu, "search." Turning to my trusty Nelson's [Japanese-English Character Dictionary], I find that this character is to be pronounced saguru (with the same meaning of "search"), and sagasu should be written with the character 捜. Is the choice of kanji here merely a matter of style or individual preference, or is one of them correct and use of the other something of a "misspelling?"

ROBERT JORDAN
APO

Our Translation Editor, Wayne Lammers, responds: There has never been a perfect match between Japanese, the language, and kanji as part of the Japanese writing system, and the relationship between the two will always be a fluid one. The Japanese Ministry of Education attempted to instill some method to the madness after World War II when it issued the Tōyō Kanji ("Kanji for Daily Use") list, which designated 1,850 "standard" characters along with the accepted readings for them. In actual use, the list proved to be too restrictive, and in 1973 a new list was issued accepting previously disapproved readings. The reading saga(su) for the kanji 探 was among those officially approved at that time. Further adjustments were made in the official list in 1981, when the new Jōyō Kanji Hyō ("Chart of Kanji for Common Use") was issued containing 1,945 characters.

Since the reading saga(su) for 探 was not officially sanctioned until 1973, using that kanji for sagasu could have been called a "misspelling" until then. It's

(continued on page 39)

BRAND NEWS

Innovative uses of the Japanese language

さしすせそと Sa-shi-su-se Soruto "Sa-shi-su-se Salt"

Until 1985, the sale of salt in Japan was controlled by a government monopoly, the 日本専売公社 (Nihon Senbai Kōsha, known in English as the Japan Tobacco & Salt Public Corporation). Salt came in a plain package with no brand name, and was simply labeled 塩 (shio). Nihon Senbai Kōsha has now been privatized as Nihon Tobacco Co., Ltd., and Japanese salt packaging has taken on a bit more flavor. Sa-shi-su-se-Soruto is really just ordinary salt, but it comes in a snappy 500 gm. plastic box with a measuring spoon (and it costs about four times what salt in a plain package used to cost). The name uses the sounds from the "S-row" of the Japanese "alphabet" (actually a syllabary) to lead up to the word soruto — the English word "salt," rendered in the Japanese phonetic system. (This is something like saying, "A, B, C-you tomorrow.") Since the word soruto is taken from English, it would normally be written in katakana (ソルト) instead of hiragana (そると). The hiragana used here might be intended to give a more "Japanese" feeling to the product, or it may have just looked better from a design perspective.

Send us your examples of creative product names or slogans (with some kind of documentation). If we publish your example, we'll send you a MANGAJIN T-shirt to wear on your next shopping trip. In case of duplicate entries, earliest postmark gets the shirt. BRAND NEWS, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

OLD! from MANGAJIN

MANGAJIN's BASIC JAPANESE through comics

The next best thing to a complete set of MANGAJIN back issues!

Only $14.95/¥2500 in Japan
Softcover—160 pgs.—8 1/4 by 10 1/4

BASIC JAPANESE through comics

The first 24 Basic Japanese Lessons from MANGAJIN, compiled in book form! Each lesson takes a specific concept of basic Japanese—a phrase, word, or hard-to-grasp idiom—and carefully examines and explains it using examples from real manga. The lessons cover a wide array of expressions and illustrate usage and cultural context, conveying important points quickly and memorably. Beginners will find the concepts and explanations easy to understand and immediately useful, while old pros can pick up tidbits that add depth to their knowledge.

CONTENTS

- |  |                               |                            |
|--|-------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1. Yoroshiku...                        | 8. Dōmo, the All-Purpose Word | 17. Baby Talk              |
| 2. Sumimasen                           | 9. Dōzo                       | 18. Informal Politeness    |
| 3. Hiragana & Katakana in Manga        | 10. Baka, the Basic Insult    | 19. Introductions          |
| 4. Feminine Speech                     | 11. Shitsurei                 | 20. "—sama" Words          |
| 5. Gaijin Bloopers                     | 12. Ai, the "Good" Word       | 21. Hesitating with Anō    |
| 6. Ohayō gozaimasu & Omedetō gozaimasu | 13. Yatta! the Exclamation    | 22. The Wide World of Desu |
| 7. Creative Kanji Readings             | 14. Saying Goodbye            | 23. Hai                    |
|  | 15. The Concept of Komaru     | 24. Hai (Part 2)           |
|  | 16. Counters and Classifiers  |                            |

In the U.S., order through MANGAJIN...Tel: 800-552-3206 Fax: 404-590-0890
In Japan*, order through SSKC...Tel: 03-3479-4434 Fax: 03-3479-5047
*available in Japan in November, 1993

Weatherhill

PUBLISHERS OF FINE BOOKS ON ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

Tengu Books

A NEW WEATHERHILL COMPANY

BUTTERFLIES OF THE NIGHT MAMA-SANS, GEISHA STRIPPERS, AND THE JAPANESE MEN THEY SERVE by Lisa Louis

A fascinating tour of Japan's infamous mita shōjo—the nightlife industry that caters to the sensual needs of Japanese men. From cabarets to the most refined geisha houses, Lisa Louis exposes a complete portrait of Japanese nightlife. Wide-ranging interviews paint a surprising picture of the women of this world, the men they serve, the mob connections, and the mita shōjo's crucial role in Japanese life and business.

224 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0249-X $19.95 (HARD)

JAPANESE STREET SLANG

by Peter Constantine

The only comprehensive compendium of Japanese slang as it is used on the streets of Japan today. A useful tool to help non-native speakers of Japanese understand the forceful and colorful twists and turns of "street" Japanese, which also offers the general reader amusing and informative insights into Japanese thought and speech.

246 pp. 5 1/4 x 8 ISBN 0-8348-0350-3 $9.95 (SOFT)

ESSENTIAL KANJI by P.G. O'Neill

The classic guide to learning kanji, rigorously tested and refined by years of use in university classes. An integrated course for learning to read and write the 2,000 basic Japanese characters now in everyday use, a mastery of which makes it possible to read most modern Japanese.

328 pp. 5 x 7 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0222-6 $18.95 (SOFT)

漢字をどう読むか the practical kanji
[na] 実用 [na] 61 JO
English-Japanese
Eigo-JIS 24persol
Japanese-Japanese
Nihon-go 日本語 24
Dictionary/辞書
jiten 辞書 jiten 辞
Noah S. Braunen
Noa Ess Braunen
ア・エ・ブ・ラ・ン

THE PRACTICAL ENGLISH-JAPANESE DICTIONARY by Noah S. Braunen

A pocket-sized dictionary containing nearly 8,000 entries both in romanization and Japanese characters. Introduces up-to-date, colloquial, and natural-sounding expressions to meet the needs of students, residents of Japan, and visitors. Includes a guide to Japanese grammar and pronunciation, a date conversion table, a listing of suffixes used in counting, and verb conjugation tables.

412 pp. 3 1/4 x 6 ISBN 0-8348-0687-6 Appendices $12.95 (SOFT)

Japan's Modern Myth

天 地
人 神 鬼 魔 妖
怪 精
霊
怪
獣
怪
人
怪 異
怪
談
怪 話
怪 文
怪
画
怪 劇
怪 作
怪 話
怪 文
怪 画
怪 劇
怪
作

JAPANESE NAMES by P.G. O'Neill

The problems of reading Japanese names sometimes confound even the Japanese themselves. Japanese Names is a comprehensive dictionary of some 36,000 Japanese names by character and reading. "Indispensable. Easy to read and commendably exhaustive."—Times Literary Supplement

376 pp. 5 x 7 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0225-2 $22.50 (SOFT)

JAPAN'S MODERN MYTH

The Language and Beyond by Roy Andrew Miller

Professor Miller analyzes the Japanese through their language and the myths and misconceptions they have built up around it. "A spirited new exploration of the Japanese obsession with their language—provocative, amusing, and in the end disturbing."—Asian Wall Street Journal

312 pp. 6 1/4 x 9 1/4 ISBN 0-8348-0168-X Selected Bibliography, Index $22.50 (HARD)

420 Madison Avenue, 15th Floor, New York, New York 10017-1107 Tel: 212-223-3008 Fax: 212-223-2584

To receive a catalogue or place an order: 300 Long Beach Blvd., Stratford, CT 06497 1-800-437-7840

POLITICAL CARTOON

From the Asahi Shinbun (朝日新聞)

An unusually cool summer has hurt rice crops in Japan this year, and it looks like the resulting shortage will force Japan to actually import rice. Japan's ban on rice imports has been the target of considerable criticism from the international community, and the current shortage has led to calls for liberalization even from within Japan. Although the imports will be a one-time emergency measure, foreign rice traders see this as an opportunity to pry open Japan's rice market permanently.

Japanese farmers have used their disproportionate political power to keep foreign rice out of Japan so far, even though importing would mean much lower prices for consumers. All of the political parties in Japan, from the JSP and Kōmeito, to the Communist Party (and especially the LDP), strongly support restriction of rice imports in order to protect the farmers.

The character on the right in the cartoon represents the Food Control Law which assures farmers that the rice they produce will be purchased by the government at a "reasonable" price. This law also regulates distribution and retail pricing, and while its primary objective was to provide a continuous supply of rice at a stable price, it has turned into a form of protection for farmers of all kinds.

Concerning the reference to scarecrows in the caption, Japanese farmers apparently consider scarecrows to be of limited value, but under the current circumstances, politicians and the legal system are even "more useless."

Cloud: 冷夏
Reika
Cool Summer

Man on left: 農政
Nōsei
Agricultural Policy

一粒 たりとも...
hitatsubu tari to mo
1 grain even if it be
"(Not) even a single grain..."

Man on right: 食管法
Shokkanhō
Food Control Law

Rice Farmer: カカシ より役に立たなかったネ。
Kakashi yori yaku ni tatanakatta ne.
scarecrow more than were not useful (colloq.)
They were more useless than a scarecrow.
"They were not even as useful as a scarecrow." (PL2)

(Artist) 小島 功
Kojima Kō
(The given name 功 would usually be read Tsutomu, but Kō is written in katakana over the signature on the lower right.)

- reika (冷夏) is written with kanji meaning "cold/cool" and "summer." This "word" is more of a shorthand notation and would not normally be read out loud.
- tari to mo is an archaic equivalent of de atte mo, "even if it be," used for emphasis. The negative comes from the context: "Even if it be a single grain, (we will not allow it to be imported)."
- Nōsei (農政) is short for nōgyō seisaku (農業政策), "agricultural policy."
- Shokkanhō (食管法) is short for Shokuryō Kanri-hō (食料管理法), "Food Control Law."
- yaku ni tatanakatta is the plain negative past of yaku ni tatsu, "be of use/come in handy."

Do you need to work in Japanese on your computer but don't know where to start?

Japanese Software Solutions

For Apple Macintosh Computers

EGWord

Fast, powerful word processing software.
By Ergosoft Japan.

EGWord Classic

Economical, yet capable.
EGWord's little brother.
By Ergosoft Japan.

CONTEXT/EDF

File conversion software.
Distributed by Ergosoft Japan.

Japanese Language Kit

Affordable Japanese capability on your Macintosh.
By Apple Computer, Inc.

KanjiTalk 7.1

The standard Macintosh operating system in Japan.
By Apple Computer, Inc.

Well, wonder no more. CCIC has the products and the expertise to help you reach your goals. To give you the competitive edge. To give you the creative edge. When you buy from CCIC, you can expect to get great values and service for your money. We carry a wide selection of products from companies such as Adobe, Aldus, Apple, Claris, Ergosoft, and Microsoft. Our courteous and knowledgeable staff will be glad to help you before and after your purchase.

EGWord is the word processor of choice for many users who write in Japanese. Why? It has powerful features to tackle any wordprocessing task. Create complex tables? Do English spell-checking in your Japanese document? Import graphics into your document in formats like MacPaint, PICT, and EPS? Print Japanese in vertical format? EGWord can do all of these things and more.

複雑な表の作成や、大量の文書作成も楽にこなせる日本語ワープロソフトです。文書作成のあらゆるシーンを想定した、きめ細かな文書作成機能をはじめ、操作性や応答性についても最高水準を実現しています。初心者の方はもちろん、パワーユーザーをも満足させる快適な文書作成環境を提供。

EGWord Classic is the economical, efficient, and simple to use word processor for people who don't need the extensive feature set found in its big brother, EGWord. It has many of the basic features required for simple, daily wordprocessing chores. Documents created with EGWord Classic are compatible with EGWord so that if you decide to upgrade in the future to EGWord, you won't be left out in the cold.

Macintoshのエントリーレベルモデルに最適なワープロソフトです。機能はワープロとして必要最小限に厳選されていますが、パーソナルから一般のビジネス文書作成まで、十分に対応できる仕様となっています。EGWordとのデータ互換性も保証されているので、将来アップグレードする場合も、文書資産を無駄にすることがありません。

CONTEXT/EDF is a handy and indispensable tool for working with the Japanese word processor Ichitaro (一太郎) and EGWord. This tool is capable of converting EGWord documents to Ichitaro version 3 format as well as converting Ichitaro documents for compatibility with EGWord. This product is a must for cross-platform computing.

一太郎Ver.3形式の文書とEGWordのEDF形式文書を双方向で変換します。表紙情報や書式情報、文字属性も最適に変換。高価した文書資産をソフトの環境を超えて、有効に活用することができます。

Apple's Japanese Language Kit is the answer to affordable Japanese computing on the Macintosh. Just by installing the Language Kit in your Macintosh running System 7.1, you'll be able to run many Japanese applications and print beautiful Japanese text on any Macintosh-compatible printer using the included Kanji TrueType outline fonts.

Japanese Language Kitを使えば、システム7.1英語版上で日本語アプリケーションを使用できます。日本語TrueTypeフォント付属。

Now available in the United States!! KanjiTalk 7.1 is the standard operating system software for many Macintosh users in Japan. A must for expert and professional users. Comes with floppies and a CD-ROM for easy installation.

あの時の漢字Talk 7.1がアメリカに上陸! Macintoshのエキスパートユーザ、完璧日本語環境が必要なユーザの必須です。

For IBM PC Compatibles

Products by Microsoft Corporation

MS-DOS 5.0/V

IBM PC System C

Windows 3.11

Windows 3.11

Word 5.0

Word 5.0

Excel 4.0

Excel 4.0

DOS/V gives your IBM PC compatible the ability to work with Japanese applications. Since it's based on MS-DOS, you can use familiar DOS commands to access the world of Japanese computing.

DOS/VはIBM PCコンパチブルに日本語環境を提供するソフトです。

The Windows operating system software enhances MS-DOS to make your IBM PC compatible easier to use. Features like an easy to use graphical interface, TrueType outline fonts, and multimedia capabilities makes Windows the logical choice for DOS users.

Windowsは、誰にでも簡単にコンピュータが操作できる画期的なオペレーティングシステムです。上級者にも初心者にも高度な機能が使えます。

Word is the Japanese wordprocessor of choice for Windows 3.11 users. An easy to use graphical user interface and a wealth of word processing features makes it the best choice for people with serious word processing needs.

このプログラム一つでワープロのニーズを全て満たすことができます。優れたユーザーインターフェースで操作も簡単。

Excel is a powerful integrated spreadsheet software with a comprehensive suite of financial analysis tools and charting functions. Excel takes full advantage of Windows 3.11's ease of use and Japanese language capability. No business should be without it!

エクセルはとってもしばりなスプレッドシートです。分析ツールやチャート機能がついてビジネスに必須。

Call us at 510.843.5626 for more information.

605 Addison Street
Suite A
Berkeley
California
94710
Tel: 510.843.5626
Fax: 510.843.5173

LogoVista

ロ ゴ ヴ ィ ス タ

TRANSLATION SUPPORT SYSTEM

English to Japanese Translation Software

Growing ties between the United States and Japan have created a great demand for the translation of English-Japanese documents into Japanese, yet translators are in short supply and their cost is rising. Recognizing this need to decrease the expense and reduce the cost of translation, Language Engineering Corporation has developed LogoVista E to J.

LogoVista E to J can be used to translate a variety of English-language documents into Japanese products including word processing files, news, and correspondence. By using LogoVista E to J, translators can produce more accurate and ensure consistency of terminology.

Comprehensive, State-of-the-Art Dictionaries

High-quality on-line translation dictionaries superior to other ones. Drawing on authoritative references such as the Oxford English Dictionary and Webster's International Thesaurus, LogoVista E to J's Main Dictionary includes more than 100,000 entries covering the most frequently used English words.

The Main Dictionary can be supplemented by Technical Dictionaries and User Dictionaries. Nineteen Technical Dictionaries, which contain a total of over 115,000 business, scientific, and technical terms, are currently available. Users can also add their own User Dictionaries to meet their individual needs.

Broad Grammatical Coverage

LogoVista E to J draws on an extensive tradition of translation system development — over thirty years of pioneering research. Working together closely, a team of Japanese and American linguists has incorporated the latest advances in English analysis and Japanese synthesis into LogoVista E to J.

The Ability to Learn

LogoVista E to J's Translate Interactive feature allows users to choose an alternative translation of a word, a phrase, or an entire sentence. The system records the choices made by users through the Translate Interactive feature and uses that information to influence future translations. In this way, the system is customized as it is used.

An Easy-to-Use Interface

LogoVista E to J's basic functions can be learned quickly. Pull-down menus and a comprehensive help function reduce the need to refer to manuals.

Hardware and Software Compatibility

Versions of LogoVista E to J are available for the Macintosh, for Windows, and for UNIX workstations. LogoVista E to J can be used in conjunction with English and Japanese word processing software on both personal computers and UNIX workstations.

Language Engineering Corporation

3-5 Glenmont Avenue, Belmont, MA 02178

Tel. (617) 269-4000 Fax (617) 269-3355

JAPANESE HOTELS: the inns and outs

by Mark Schilling

Newcomers to Japan often imagine the ryokan (旅館, "Japanese inn") as an earthly paradise where one's every whim is indulged in an atmosphere of Oriental grace, refinement and beauty. At this idealized ryokan, guests are greeted at the door by the smiling staff and escorted to a room that overlooks a Japanese garden (until recently a garden was a legal requirement for classification as a ryokan). Then after tea and cakes and a very hot bath, guests are treated to a banquet of local delicacies. Soothed and sated, they finally drift off to sleep in fluffy, fresh futon, as the cicadas chirp outside.

By now a travel writing cliché, this experience, or something close to it, is still available at better ryokan throughout Japan. It is sometimes overlooked, however, that the experience comes at a price. A one-night stay at a first-class ryokan, including the banquet, can approach the $1,000 mark. Also, some of the more exclusive ryokan will not accommodate a stranger, foreign or Japanese, without a proper introduction.

Finally, not all of Japan's 80,000 ryokan are the paradises of the travel magazines. Some are crowded with school or company groups who party boisterously until the wee hours of the morning. Others are virtually indistinguishable from minshuku (民宿), inexpensive, often family-run inns where the facilities are more spartan and the service less personal than at a first-class ryokan. (At a minshuku, the maid will usually not pour your tea or lay out your futon. She will, however, roust you out of bed at 7:00 in the morning so that she can put the futon away).

Fortunately, the tradition of hospitality in Japan is still alive at a wide variety of other establishments. Though Japan has its share of standard-brand international hotels, it offers visitors a range of accommodations and experiences that they will find nowhere else. How about a night in an Edo-era thatched-roofed cottage, a temple that has been sheltering pilgrims since the days of Murasaki Shikibu, or a love hotel whose rooms are decorated in the style of Versailles Palace?

Japanese inns once welcomed pilgrims on their way to temples, tradesmen on their way to market and samurai on their way to battle. They may have been as hospitable as they are now, but accommodations were usually more functional than fancy. Then, early in the 16th century, the Tokugawa Shogunate ordered the country's daimyō (大名, feudal lords) to spend alternative years in the capital, Edo, under the government's watchful eye. By keeping the daimyō, along with hundreds of their retainers, on the road for lengthy periods of time, the bakufu (幕府, shogunal government) unwittingly gave rise to a new class of

A room in the first-class ryokan Kagaya

Located in the famous Wakura hot springs area on the Japan Sea side of Honshū, the Kagaya has been host to the Showa Emperor and Empress.

A room in a typical minshuku

The Hamayū is a small minshuku on the Izu Peninsula, not as luxurious as the Kagaya (above), but much more affordable.

• legal requirement = 法計、定められた必要条項 hōrei de yakumerareta hitsuyō jōken • travel writing cliché = 旅行案内の常套句 ryokō案内 no jōrōku
• without proper introduction = (馴染み客などの) しかるべき介なく (ajirami kyaku nado no) shikarubeki shōkai naku • boisterously 騒々しく sōjōshuku
• wee hours (of the morning) = 早朝 sāchō • thatched-roofed = わらぶき屋根の warabuki yane no • pilgrims = 巡礼者 junreisha • retainers = 家来 kera luxury inn, called honjin 本陣, which evolved to accommodate the lords and their closest retainers. Lower-ranking retainers stayed in what were called waki honjin ("side-honjin"), more like the inns that catered to regular travelers.

When the Tokugawa-enforced policy of national isolation ended and Western visitors began arriving in the 1850s, inns had long been providing high-class service to well-heeled travelers. But foreigners had needs that Japanese-style inns could not easily satisfy (few, for example, could provide a roast beef dinner, after-dinner brandy or decent billiards table).

The first Western-style hotel or hoteru ホテル, as they are called in Japanese, was the Edo, a 102-room hotel built in Tsukiji, Tokyo in 1868. The best-known is probably the Imperial Hotel, which was opened in 1890 as a government-sponsored hotel for foreign dignitaries and rebuilt in 1923 by Frank Lloyd Wright, just in time to survive the Great Kanto Earthquake. Wright's Imperial did not survive progress, however: in 1968 it was removed to make way for the current structure.

There are now nearly 400 Western-style hotels in Tokyo alone and 1,000 nationwide. Several, including the Imperial and Hotel Okura, are truly world class, and the rooms resemble their counterparts in Paris or New York. Japanese traveling on business apparently favor Western-style lodgings and as a result, in downtown Tokyo and other major commercial centers, it is difficult to find deluxe Japanese-style inns.

Photo courtesy of Kiyosuke In (キヨスクイン), Tokyo.

But for foreigners whose currencies have been plunging against the yen, the price of Western-style luxury comes high. At the Hotel Okura, where Bill and Hillary Clinton stayed during this year's Tokyo Summit, singles start at ¥28,000 and a night in the Presidential Suite costs a deficit-ballooning ¥150,000. The Presidential Suite, however, is outranked by the Imperial Suite, which requires a royal outlay of ¥500,000.

Hit by endaka (円高, "high yen"), hotel room occupancy rates have fallen about 10 percent compared with 1992. Also, the percentage of foreign guests is declining. "About 10 years ago, nearly 80 percent of our guests were foreign," said a spokeswoman for the Imperial Hotel. "Now it is closer to 50 percent." To lure guests back, hotels are reducing room rates and offering special package deals. But even with breakfast thrown in, a single room under the Okura's Business Plan costs ¥33,000 ($317).

The budget-minded and the adventurous need not despair, however. Japan offers a wide variety of relatively low-priced accommodations. Among the most common are:

- Business Hotels (ビジネスホテル, hijinesu hoteru). These are no-frills hotels for the business traveler. The rooms are often broom-closet small, the walls paper thin and, instead of ringing for room service, the guest explores the contents of the tiny fridge or pads down the hall to the vending machine. Business hotels are cheap (about ¥5,000 for a single room) and are readily available (you usually don't have worry about getting turned down for a room because of

A room in a "love hotel" (photo and verse from promotional brochure of the Aine Hotel). Other rooms feature names such as "Jimmy Detective Office," "Bago Bago," "Lady White Story," "Wa Ha Ha," and "Sugar Sugar."

以王バック

星達のささやきが 聞こえてくるこんな日は
世界中の夜空を君にあげたい...

The verse reads:

Hoshi-tachi no sasayaki ga kikoete-kuru konna hi wa, sekai-ju no yozora o kimi ni agetai

"On a day like this when you can hear the whispering of the stars. I want to give you the night skies from all over the world!"

• well-heeled = 裕福な yafuku-na • foreign dignitaries = 外国の要人 gokoku no seifu kikan • plunging against the yen = 円に対して価値が下落している en ni taishite kachi ga geraku shiteiru • deficit-ballooning = 赤字を増大 akaji o zoudai saseru • budget-minded = 経費が気になる (旅行客) keifu ga ki ni naru (rinkyaku) • no-frills = 余分なサービスのない yobun ni seirui ni nai • explores = 探検する tanken suru/suguru

Haiku Translated in the MANGAJIN Style

300 Poems by Seishi Yamaguchi,
Japan's Master of Modern Haiku

This is the first large-scale translation of modern Japanese haiku to be published outside Japan.

Breaking free from centuries of poetry limited to nature themes, Seishi has modernized haiku while at the same time retaining the elegant beauty of the classics.

Translated by Kikaku Takashi and Alfred H. Mark, The Essence of Modern Haiku is both a practical learning experience as well as an artistic milestone.

For Poetry lovers and students of Japanese alike:

日本語 全五巻 白鳥

— Seishi's original Japanese

Higher than the moon,
the white swan came down flying through the sky.

— Romaji transliteration

— English translation underlining the concise 5-7-5 syllabic pattern of the original

~~~~~

— Seishi's own notes help readers see how a poem is constructed, enabling the aspiring haiku writer to see how a modern master creates.

~~~~~

— Translator's notes provide vocabulary as well as cultural and linguistic insights, adding new dimensions to the reader's Japanese understanding.

Available from Mangajin—

362 pages: $24.95 Hardcover/$19.95 Paperback
¥3000 in Japan. Call 1-800-552-3206 in the U.S.

or 03-3479-4434 in Japan.

Call to order your copy today!

an upcoming summit or cardiologists' convention).

• Capsule Hotels (カプセルホテル, kapuseru hoteru): The target of much tongue-in-cheek foreign media coverage, capsule hotels offer drunk or late-working salarymen a place to crash until the morning trains start running. They supply the usual amenities, including TV, yukata (cotton "bathrobe") and toothbrush, with a "capsule" that is the immobile equivalent of a sleeper berth. The lack of privacy, security and sound-proofing may be drawbacks (there is no barrier between you and the snoring of your sodden neighbor in the next capsule), but some regulars develop a sense of camaraderie (perhaps they are nostalgic for dorm life). Often found near amusement districts, capsule hotels rates are somewhat lower than business hotel rates. Some offer special mid-day rates for stressed-out businessmen in need of a snooze.

• Love Hotels (ラブホテル, rabu hoteru): The hot bed hotels of lubricious legend, these are also found in or near amusement districts. The rates, and often pictures of the rooms, are displayed out front, making it easy to companion shop (a lighted picture indicates that the room is available). Also, the hotels are discreet, money and room keys are usually passed through a slot that eliminates the chance of eye contact between staff and guests. Given current mores, however, this discretion is becoming unnecessary: some young couples come as double dates and chatter away with each other while waiting their turn.

The fancier hotels go in for "theme" design (Cinderella Castle exteriors, Polynesian village decor in the rooms), but nearly all supply the basics: music console, bedside condoms, porn on the tube. Two-hour rates vary, depending on the quality and type of accommodations (S&M equipment or revolving beds tend to cost more), but average about ¥4,000 to ¥6,000. All-night rates are not much higher, making love hotels an option for the single budget traveler who is either desperate or in the mood for something different.

• Minshuku (民宿): As mentioned above, minshuku are considered a step down from ryokan. The original minshuku were private homes that provided lodging and meals to travelers—something like "bed and breakfast" accommodations. Now, they are more likely to be simply small, inexpensive ryokan. Self-service is the rule and the menu can be monotonous (after seeing the same rubbery takuan pickle, raw egg and burnt fish morning after morning, some minshuku regulars have been known to cry at the thought of an Egg McMuffin). At the better ones, however, the service is friendly, the food excellent and the accommodations more than adequate. At some you can become part of the family, sipping sake around the kotatsu with the master and getting an earful of local lore. Minshuku can be found in nearly all tourist areas. Like ryokan, some are reluctant to accommodate foreign travelers, not because they are in any way exclusive, but because they are concerned about language and behavior problems (soaping up in the bath, walking across the tatami in bathroom slippers). Four hundred or so

• cardiologists' convention = 心臓科医学会 shinzōkai no gakkai
• tongue-in-cheek foreign media coverage = 皮肉な外国のマスコミの報道
• funika-na guikoku no masutōma no hōdō • sleeper berth = (船や列車の) 寝台 ne-tai • wa reshiu no shindai • camaraderie = 仲間意識 友情 nakama ishiki/yūjō • lubricious legend = わいせつな伝説 waitsen-na densetsu
• discretion = discretion 判断力 hantoku • wa itteiru (present tense of wa iru) wa itteiru ga yakudōshi-iru • go in for = 取り入れる torireru • local lore = 地元の話 jimoto no hanashi

unreluctant ones can be found on a list compiled by the Japan Minshuku Center (81-3-3218-6558). Rates per person, including a Japanese-style breakfast and dinner, average about ¥5,000.

• Pensions (ペンション, Pension): These might be described as Westernized minshuku. Found around ski slopes and other sporty resort areas, pensions are often run by urban escapees who try to provide their guests with a friendly, but trendier and more Westernized experience than the typical minshuku. The architecture may be terminally cutesy Swiss chalet, but the food—often Western cuisine using local ingredients with a personal flair—can be excellent and the jazz sounds coming over the Bose speakers, of concert hall quality. Also, there is often more to do at pensions than soak in the tub; biking, hiking, tennis and skiing are some of the usual options. Average per person rates are slightly higher than for minshuku.

• Youth Hostels (ユースホステル, yūsu hositeru): With their mandatory meetings, institutional food, early lights out and separate sleeping quarters for the sexes, including married couples, youth hostels were once places to experience the worst of the Japanese "group spirit." In recent years, faced with a steady drop in visitors, some hostels from hell have relaxed rules and improved service. Even so, the atmosphere at many is still reminiscent of a YMCA camp or Salvation Army flop. The main virtue of the hostels remains price—about ¥2,000 per person—and the opportunity to meet young Japanese (you can begin by trading hostel stories).

(continued on page 93)

Pension Silverstone, in fashionable Kanizawa, features a European exterior and mostly Western-style rooms. The wheels hanging outside reflect the owner's interest in motorcycles.

• cutesy = かわいらしい kawairashii • Bose speakers = ボーセ製のスピーカー bo:se-shu sei no supika • mandatory meetings = 参加が強制されたミーティング sanka ga kyōsei sareta mitingu • institutional food = 食堂食 shokudō-ke • hostels from hell = 地獄から来たような(極めてサービスの悪い) ユースホステル jigoku kara kita yō-nai (kawamete sebasu no yōmei) yūsu hositeru • reminiscent of = を連想させる o renshō saaseru

雙橋 Twin Bridge Multi-Lingual Screen for Windows

Breaks The Language Barrier

Learn Chinese & Japanese with Ease

Twin Bridge Newsletter

クニドクニ

日本語ソフト印刷資料

!! Chinese & Japanese made easy !!

REGEXAWARE

1000 Chinese Characters & 1000 Japanese Characters

1000 Chinese Words & 1000 Japanese Words

1000 Chinese Sentences & 1000 Japanese Sentences

1000 Chinese Grammar & 1000 Japanese Grammar

1000 Chinese Reading & 1000 Japanese Reading

1000 Chinese Writing & 1000 Japanese Writing

1000 Chinese Listening & 1000 Japanese Listening

1000 Chinese Speaking & 1000 Japanese Speaking

CHARACTER LANGUAGE RESOURCES

1000 Chinese Characters & 1000 Japanese Characters

1000 Chinese Words & 1000 Japanese Words

1000 Chinese Sentences & 1000 Japanese Sentences

1000 Chinese Grammar & 1000 Japanese Grammar

1000 Chinese Reading & 1000 Japanese Reading

1000 Chinese Writing & 1000 Japanese Writing

1000 Chinese Listening & 1000 Japanese Listening

1000 Chinese Speaking & 1000 Japanese Speaking

ツインブリッジ

BREAKFAST IN AMERICA

Some American hotels make an effort, but a Japanese-style breakfast is more than just fish and rice.

by Elizabeth Andoh

Even those people with the most adventurous tastes can find exotic meals difficult to stomach early in the day. That's why breakfast often becomes the focus of culinary "homesickness" when traveling overseas. Since familiar foods on a hotel restaurant menu can make foreign visitors feel at home in their temporary surroundings, it's not surprising that so many American hotels now offer a special breakfast menu for their Japanese guests. Unfortunately, these good intentions do not always yield the sought-after result.

At the heart (or should I say, stomach?) of the matter is the issue of familiarity. In order for the food to be comforting to the culture-shocked, jet-lagged visitor, it must first be recognized as familiar: in other words, authentic. And, the food must be appealing: in other words, appropriate, which is not the same thing as elaborate or fancy. This may sound obvious, but it's difficult to do. First, you must choose the right foods to serve. Then the taste, texture and temperature of the food must be what your foreign guests are accustomed to having in their own country. In addition, the way in which you present each dish, the sequence in which you serve the courses, and the way in which you set the table must also follow the dictates of their culture, not yours.

The complex set of rules governing

"correct" American eating habits may seem less enigmatic than those rules regarding Japanese cuisine, but that's only because, as Americans, we share certain presumptions about our food. For example, we expect pumpkin pie on a Thanksgiving menu, but on the Fourth of July we think an apple or blueberry pie would be a more patriotic choice. And, of course, we expect pie of any kind to be served for dessert, at the end of the meal. All Americans expect the table to be set with forks to the left, and spoons and knives to the right of the main plate. Indeed, we would find it very disconcerting to have these positions reversed or otherwise tampered with.

Because these, and myriad other, "rules" concerning mealtime are part of our own upbringing and daily experience, we tend to assume that they are self-evident to everyone. But culinary habits are a product of culture in the same way that dress, speech, and mannerisms are; they are learned behaviors with their own intrinsic, often intricate, logic. So, in order to provide a suitable Japanese menu in an American hotel setting, Japanese mealtime "rules" must be understood and accommodated.

Often, problems begin with choosing the wrong food to serve. Although it's true that most Americans like hot dogs and ice cream, I've never seen a breakfast menu in the United States with either item on it. Choosing popular foods, per se, is not always the best answer. So, what do most Japanese eat for breakfast?

There are several prototypes: the traditional morning meal, with its miso-flavored soup, steamed rice, and pickles; the more contemporary version, with thick, pureed vegetable soup (potage), buttered toast, and tossed green salad; and a newly popular urban coffee shop menu, appropriately called "Morning Service," usually consisting of buttered toast, hard-boiled egg, and coffee or tea. This last type is the Japanese equivalent of a continental breakfast.

Comparing these Japanese prototypes to typical American breakfast patterns, there are several striking differences. One such difference is that savory flavors predominate over sweet in the Japanese morning meal. Although Americans regularly eat sugar-coated cereals, sweet rolls, doughnuts, and muffins in the morning, Japanese prefer salty and sour foods such as crisp sheets of pressed seaweed and pickled plums for breakfast. While American breakfasts tend to favor fruit—orange juice, and sliced bananas or berries on cereal—Japanese breakfast menus feature savory marine and terrestrial vegetables.

Another notable difference is the importance of soup to a Japanese meal, even (or especially) at breakfast time. While Americans might welcome a corn chowder or thick potato soup at mid or late day, most would think it strange to have first thing in the morning. To the Japanese, however, who expect every complete meal to include soup, it is entirely logical, and highly satisfying, to have a hearty vegetable soup or miso-flavored broth at daybreak.

• enigmatic = 不思議, 不可解 fushigi/fukaku • presumption = 推定 zentei • tamper with = みだりに変化する mudari ni henkai suru • intrinsic = 固有の konryū no • intricate = 細かい, 複雑な komai/itsuwakushi/atsun-na • per se = それ自体 sore jitai • pureed vegetable = 煮て煮ごした野菜 nite utagoshi shita yasai • savory = 塩味のきいた, 旨くない shio-aji no hitatamakana • terrestrial vegetable = 陸生の野菜 rikusei no yasai

Rice is the staple grain in the traditional Japanese diet, and many modern households still eat rice three times a day. However, the number of Japanese who regularly eat bread instead of rice is steadily growing. When bread replaces rice on the breakfast menu, it is usually in the form of thick (half inch or more) slices of toast made from what the Japanese call shokupan (食パン), a kind of white, pullman loaf. In Japan, a single portion usually consists of one slice of toast cut in half in a rather distinctive manner (creating two pieces that are neither triangles nor rectangles, but unusual trapezoids instead, see the illustration on the following page)

Knowing what to serve is important, of course, but so is knowing how to serve it. "Comfort food" can reassure the visitor from abroad only when it is immediately familiar, and that means it has to look right, too. Take the example of the toast mentioned above: The thickness of the bread, the slant at which it is cut, and the angle at which it is arranged on the plate all contribute to the sense of familiarity Japanese will feel when the order of toast is brought to their table.

But appearances extend well beyond how food is placed on a plate. The choice of garnishes, the selection of tableware, and the way in which the table is set, impart an important cultural context for the meal. Imagine the unsettling effect of a Christmas color scheme in mid-summer, or an American flag motif decorating a Halloween party table. Think about pecan pie served as an appetizer instead of dessert, coffee being served in soup bowls and "eaten" with a spoon, or a dollop of whipped cream garnishing a plate of spanish olives and dill pickles. Pretty strange, eh? No more so than a washoku breakfast menu I was recently served at a prominent New York hotel

Can you find 10 mistakes in this "Japanese breakfast"? (answers on page 17)

On the morning in question, my Japanese guest and I were served the following meal: In a shallow, wide soup bowl, wakame (わかめ), a sea vegetable often used in Japanese soups and salads) drifted in a muddy broth (obviously, something went wrong with the miso and I suspect the cubes of tofu and chopped scallions were forgotten at the last minute); this soup course was served first. Next came a large, round dinner plate. On it lay a mound of long-grain rice, molded by an ice cream scooper, next to an enormous portion of grilled salmon garnished with strips of yellow squash that had been sautéed in olive oil. Fresh strawberries and grapes shared a bread-and-butter plate with pickled eggplant (shita-zuke) and radish (takuan). A green tea bag dangled from an American coffee cup into which hot water had been poured. When you add to this bizarre assortment and procession of foods the fact that the table was set incorrectly (by Japanese standards, that is), the result has to be massive culinary confusion for anyone brought up in a Japanese household. It was certainly a bewildering sight for my guest!

The problem is usually twofold: trying too hard, and working in a cultural vacuum. In reality, the simplest menu is often the best. After all, think how welcome a make-it-yourself peanut butter and jelly sandwich would be to an American traveler abroad who had eaten nothing but exotic local delicacies for several weeks. American notions of hospitality are such that opportunities to "do-it-yourself" are often more appreciated than the fawning attentions of hotel staff (not so for the Japanese, who generally feel that as guests they should be served by their hosts—in this case, the staff of the hotel).

Although consultants like myself and other professionals in the food-service and hospitality industry are occasionally called upon by restaurants and hotels in the United States to develop menus, and train their staff to prepare and serve them, most establishments embark upon Japanese breakfast service in a more casual way. Often, some respected Japanese business or community leader is asked to advise the local hotel's executive chef. Such was the case at the Cincinnati Hotel, where Don Lanyi, Director of Food and Beverage, described to me the valuable assistance of Dr. Tanaka Kinji of the Japan Research Center in Cincinnati. This type of partnership works to everyone's advantage when the informant, typically a Japanese with no specific training in the culinary arts, is acutely aware of, and can easily articulate, the cultural details associated with Japanese meals.

• hearty (vegetable soup) = ホリユ ム/菜羹のホリユ ム / horimurind no umu vasa no sūpu • trapezoid = 台形 dekari • sushi = 寿司 keisha • garnish = つけ合わせ tsuke awase • scallion = わけき/ねぎ wakegi/nigai • processor = 料理機 gyōretsu • was bewildered = 驚かされた tōwaku shita • delicacies = おいしい物 oshii mono/chawan • fawning = こむ kohimetsuru • embark upon = 乗り出す noridasu

Another popular approach taken by many American resorts and hotels is to train their staff by video. One commercially successful venture, Chef San, has sold its videotapes to a long list of American institutions including Disneyland Ho-

The "morning service" is an alternative Japanese breakfast that may be easier for American food-service people to handle.

els and Holiday Inn. Ms. Roni Agachi, President of Chef-San and Executive Producer of "The Japanese Breakfast" video, is passionate about the subject of authenticity. She is deeply distressed by many of the mistakes made by untrained chefs in America. So distressed, in fact, that with the purchase of her video comes a telephone hotline to call for further, free-of-charge, consultation. As she pointed out to me in a telephone interview, just because feedback from Japanese guests is difficult to obtain and interpret doesn't mean they haven't formed strong impressions and opinions that can affect your business. Unlike American customers who readily, and promptly, share their dissatisfaction with hotel or restaurant management, most Japanese guests will not make a fuss when something goes wrong. When confronted, most Japanese will typically murmur some noncommittal statement. But among themselves, the Japanese will talk, and often stop patronizing the establishment in question.

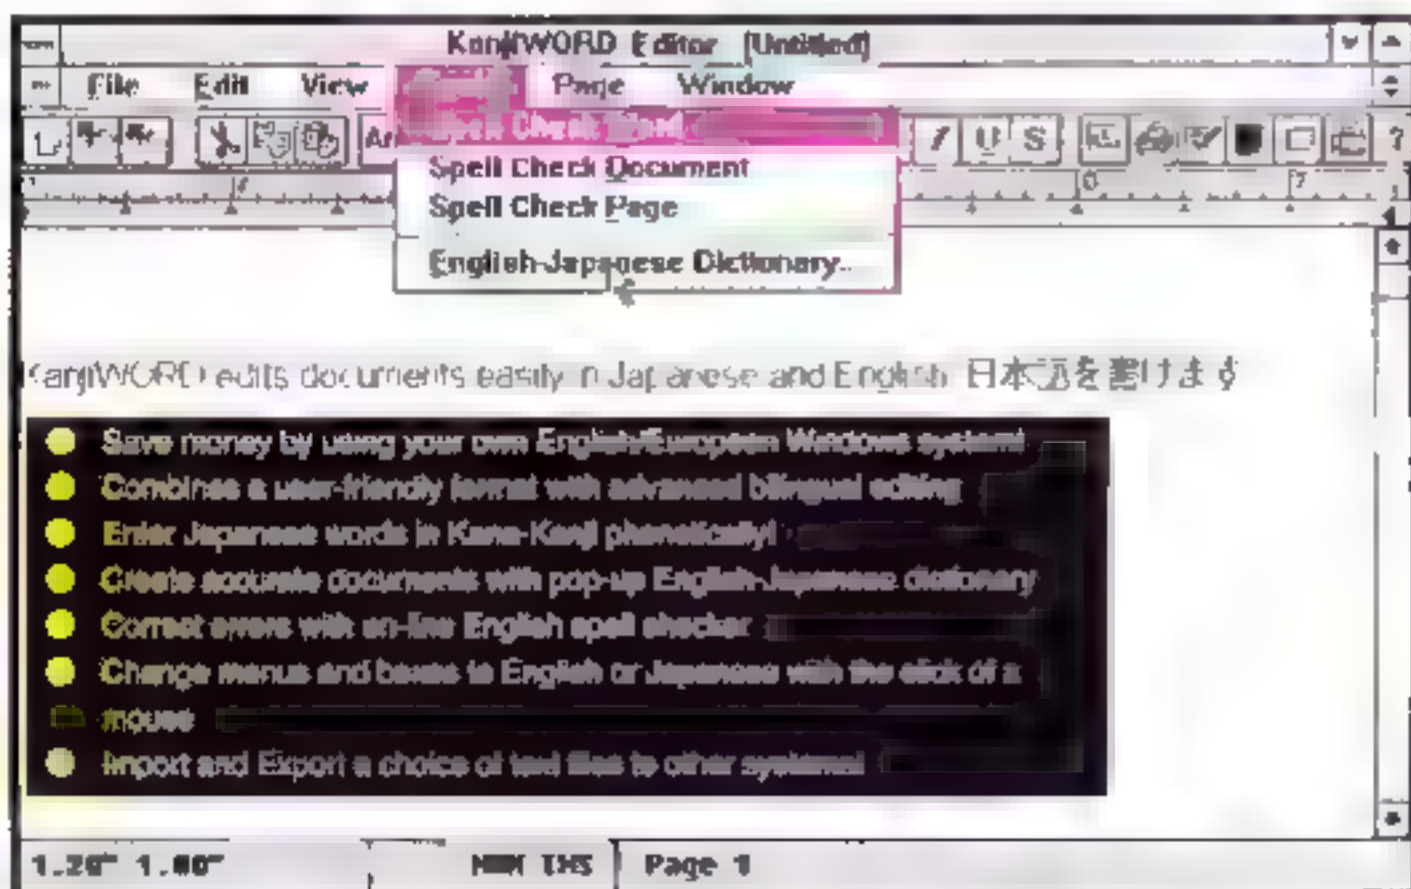

The mistakes in the breakfast on page 14 are listed on the facing page, along with some general tips about serving a Japanese breakfast.

Correspondence to: Elizabeth Andoh, c/o MANGAJIN, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119

• make a fuss • 大げさな言動をする • 大言壮語
• 大言壮語 • 大言壮語 • 大言壮語 • 大言壮語
• 大言壮語 • 大言壮語 • 大言壮語 • 大言壮語

KanjiWORD™ for Windows

Introductory Price
$199.00

To order contact
Pacific Software
Publishing Inc.
2737 77th Ave. SE
Mercer Island WA
98040 USA
Tel 206 232 3989
Fax 206 236 8102

KanjiWORD is a trademark of Pacific Software Publishing Inc.
© 1994 Pacific Software Publishing Inc.
All rights reserved.

Mistakes in the "Japanese breakfast" on page 15 (not necessarily in order of offensiveness).

- 1. Scoops of rice on plate. Rice should be served in a separate bowl, gently mounded (not ice-cream scooped). Serve extra rice from the kitchen as needed, or provide a hdded rice "tub" on the table.
- 2. Chopsticks facing the wrong direction. Points should face left, and they should be aligned and parallel. If disposable wooden chopsticks in a paper sheath are used, a chopstick rest is not needed.
- 3. Whole block of tofu in miso soup. Tofu in soup should be cut into cubes approximately 1/4" square. Wakame (seaweed) in the soup should be cut to 1" lengths.
- 4. Fours are forbidden. The number four is bad luck and should always be avoided. Here the rule is violated twice, with the banana slices and the squash.
- 5. Inappropriate utensils. A Japanese breakfast requires Japanese-style utensils. Miso soup should be served in a rimless bowl with a lid - no under plate or spoon needed. Rice should be in a rice bowl, tea in teacup with no handle, with separate small dishes or bowls for everything else.
- 6. Fish is grossly oversized. A smaller piece would be more appropriate for breakfast. If the head is still attached, it should be pointed to the left.
- 7. Tea bag in coffee cup. Ocha should be served in teapot, then poured into Japanese style teacup (no handle) with no saucer.
- 8. There is no yaki-nori (seaweed) or soy sauce. These are essentials for the rice-based breakfast. Yaki-nori should be served in a separate box or small flat plate. Soy sauce should be in a small, slender pourer (shoyu vashi).
- 9. Pickles (takuan) should be sliced into half-moon shapes and should not be on the same plate with sliced banana. This is a tricky one since the takuan looks like peach in the photo.
- 10. Placement of dishes is wrong. Soup should be on lower right, rice (in separate bowl) should be on lower left.

Other points:

- An authentic Japanese breakfast would probably be served on a tray.
- Japanese breakfasters would probably consider both the bananas and the squash to be odd breakfast choices.
- There is a lack of variety in color. A good Japanese meal achieves a pleasing array of color and texture.

COMPUTER ENGINEERS • FINANCIAL SPECIALISTS • MARKETERS • BIOLOGISTS

Where do Japan-related companies go to meet talented, qualified people to fill their needs?

DISCO's International Career Forums

When the world's sharpest young minds meet the world's most successful companies, connections are bound to be formed. At DISCO International Career Forums, international companies connect with the pick of the year's brightest Japanese-speaking university graduates. These same university graduates connect with companies that have a need for talented bilingual people with engineering, business, accounting or research skills.

DISCO, Development of Information Services for Career Opportunities, has been bringing great minds together for nearly 20 years. Through our renowned Nikkei Placement Guide series and international job fairs, we specialize in bringing Japan-affiliated companies and bilingual job seekers together. To find out how you or your company can participate in an International Career Forum, please call the DISCO office nearest you.

NEW YORK
Tel: 212-489-2040

BERLIN
Tel: 030-893-23-24

LONDON
Tel: 071 493-1533

The 4th Annual International Career Forum
in Berlin
October 30-31, 1993

The 4th Annual International Career Forum
in Boston
November 5-7, 1993

The 4th Annual International Career Forum
in San Francisco
February 25-27, 1994

DISCO

2-12 Shimomiyabi-cho
Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo 162
Tel: 03-5228-0262
Fax: 03-5228-0324

CHEMISTS • TELECOMMUNICATIONS SPECIALISTS • TRANSLATORS • PHYSICISTS

LEARNING TO GO TO SCHOOL IN JAPAN

The Transition from Home to Preschool Life

Lois Peak. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1991.
224 pages, $32.00 (hardcover).

reviewed by Christopher Pernus

Japanese society is often described as group-centered, but how do Japanese learn to get along in the group? By looking at the Japanese child's first encounter with shūdan seikatsu (集団生活, "group life"), Lois Peak sheds considerable light on this question. Through several months of observations at a Buddhist preschool in Nagano and shorter observations at preschools in Nagano and Tokyo, interviews with teachers and parents, and reviews of both Japanese and US literature on the subject, she shows how Japanese children make the transition from an "indulgent" home life to an obedient school life.

Peak quickly refutes several stereotypes of the "exam hell" variety before moving on to the larger misconception—that home training prepares the child for good school behavior. In fact, the uchi, ("inside," or "home") where the child can indulge in amae, or childishly dependent behavior, is in constant tension with the soto, ("outside"), where properly disciplined group behavior is expected. Unlike most US parents, Japanese mothers do not feel responsible for training their children by requiring polite behavior at home; this training is undertaken by the schools. A revealing explication of this extremely sophisticated training process in the preschool is the achievement of this book.

The family is not shūdan seikatsu, although we conceive of it as a "group" in English. In the home (the uchi), amae is expected. There is no fear that "indulging" the child at home will make him or her spoiled outside the home. A lot of amae at home is thought to be a good thing, if not the whole point of the home. It is consciously considered to be an outlet for the frustrations of children and husbands who return from their stressful schools and offices and demand to be served. However, amae is not at all acceptable in group life. The goal of the preschool training, then, is to get the children to understand the distinction between the two spheres.

The activities of the preschool are themselves grounded on a similar kind of stress/release tension. Again and again in the schools' statements of goals, in the words of the teachers, and in their trade magazines, it is asserted that the primary activity of the preschool is asobu (遊ぶ

"play"). And do they play! Children like my younger brother, who was asked to leave his (U.S.) preschool and "try again next year" because he liked to run on the tables, are praised for their genki-ness. Screaming, dancing on tables, berserk games of tag are all accepted as normal, and teachers cheerfully raise their voices just above the din. They rarely direct the play, but subtle guidance does go on, for example, schools are often deliberately short of toys so students will have to share, negotiate, and interact more. But interspersed between these periods of uninhibited play are formal rituals marking the transitions from one activity to another.

These rituals are like those that mark transitions all through the life of a Japanese. For each of these ritual situations, and every other group activity, such as changing clothes or arranging desks for meals, the teacher emphasizes that there is only one right way, and the ability to master these kata (形, "set form/style") comprises much of the formal education. Slight attention is given to counting or reading and writing. Managing the three-year-olds' transit from boisterous play to sitting with hands folded quietly and reciting "itadakimasu" in unison before a meal requires considerable skill from the teachers, the unfailingly cheerful and insightful heroes of this book.

Japanese preschool teachers, 99 percent young, junior-college educated women, strive to inculcate a group awareness in students rather than obedience to the teacher as an authority figure. It is a common sense notion of Japanese pop psychology that the child has to want to behave properly, or efforts at discipline will be futile. Peak explores the various, mainly unconscious techniques that Japanese teachers use to minimize the need for direct discipline. One great difference here between the more authoritarian US style is that "good" behavior in Japanese schools is consistently referred to as jōzu (上手, "skillful"). The "bad" child is one who just hasn't mastered the skill yet, so even if he clearly won't, the teachers always say he can't. The child "behaves" so as not to be considered "unable" to do the task.

The "problem child" (monshu-ji 問題児) in the Japanese preschool, then, is one who doesn't take part in group activities, or relies too much on the teacher. When

• shed considerable light = 相対的に 照らす shōtai ni kaometaru • indulgent = 甘やかす amayakashu • refute = 反駁する hanbaku suru
• explication = 説明 kaimei • berserk = 乱暴な/発狂 sanbo-naru/rappru • din = 騒音 • 丁寧な遊び teinana asobi • genyagawa asobu goro • rituals = 儀式
式儀式化 shiki shiki • gishaku/gishaku shita utaku • boisterous = 騒々しい • jozu • inculcate = 教える oshiekuru

she asked about children who genuinely prefer quiet, solitary pursuits, Peak was told that such children don't exist, they just "don't yet understand the fun of being together with others." Independence (jishu 自主) and self reliance (jiritsu 自立) are paradoxically listed in the statements of goals of most preschools as well as the Monbushō's official list. They do not signify autonomy or doing your own thing, rather, as the opposite of amae, they mean taking responsibility as a member of the group, not letting the group down. The teacher will make everyone wait until all the students arrange their lunch boxes correctly—the delay is presented as a consequence of students' inabilities, not of the teacher's will. With authority subtly transferred to the group which also consists of one's close playmates, Japanese children (and adults) who resist the norm find themselves surrounded by "an army of friendly shadows," an image that recalls Abe Kobo's play, Tomodachi.

In line with the definition of "good"

(yōzu), even the child who hits other children is not punished; in fact, his behavior is often ignored. Fights are tolerated as a way to learn social skills, and are often made a part of class discussion sometime later. Peak provides many compelling field notes, and one especially memorable one illustrated her somewhat shocked realization that the child she thought was "bullying" her with constant kicks was in fact inviting her to play in his clumsy way. The teacher, who had not disciplined the kicker, had thought that the one with the behavioral problem was Peak for rudely not responding! When she did respond by chasing him, the kicking stopped.

Finally, I found myself wanting to know more about the mothers. In the equations of performance outside and amae at home, she gets to play only one part. And while the schools encourage mothers' participation (by joining the PTA, regularly meeting with teachers, etc.), in practical terms this often translates into a lot of careful preparation of supplies and lunch boxes which "when the child removes the lid, his mother's love and feeling for him should pop out" (advice of Tokyo Preschool Director). Unfortunately, the mothers are reluctant to voice concerns, even when it is their child who is being hit daily, and they are not really encouraged to. Dialogue between parents and teachers is kept at a superficial level, and the feeling seems to be clearly one of "leave it to us." Ijime (いじめ, "bullying") can be a very serious problem in later years, but mothers seem to learn to stay out of "school matters" in these early years. It's a problem that asks for less newspaper sensationalism and more investigation of the kind Peak has carried out.

Scholarly yet written in smooth and often entertaining prose, the insights provided by this arresting book will intrigue not only educators and parents, but all students of Japan.

Christopher Pernus is a free-lance writer/translator now living in North Carolina.

* signify = 意味する imai suru • autonomy = 自立 jiritsu • compelling = 注目を引く chūmoku ni ataru yuraku/chōmoku oezu ni okanai • bully = いじめる ijimeru • in the equations of = の等式におい、 no tōshiki ni oite • superficial = 表面的な hyōmenteeki na

Employment

Help Wanted in Japan ..... 100

Help Wanted
In Japan ..... 100

Teach In Japan

Bi-Lingual Language Institute of Japan is an innovative member of the English language instruction industry. All of our schools offer a full range of English conversation programs for adults in private, semiprivate and group classes. The courses are structured programs using Bi-Lingual's unrivaled teaching methods.

We are currently accepting applications from enthusiastic college graduates for a rewarding opportunity to teach English in Japan. Successful applicants must complete an intensive training program in our New York office before taking a position in one of our twenty-two schools across Japan. Teaching contracts are for one full year, renewable upon completion.

Teaching and business experience are preferred but not mandatory. Bi-Lingual instructors are professional, conscientious, organized and self-motivated. Japanese language ability is not required.

Send your resume along with three letters of reference to:

BI-LINGUAL USA CORPORATION
Dept. Teach English in Japan
500 Fifth Avenue, Ste. 2140
New York, N.Y. 10110-2196

MANGAJIN

in the Classroom

We have known for some time now that MANGAJIN was being used in the classroom. We hear occasionally from teachers who use xerox copies of certain parts of MANGAJIN to help explain or illustrate some of the stickier points of the Japanese language or Japanese culture. As long as it is done in moderation, we have no problem with this. We should point out, however, that while the English language translations, notes, and feature material in the magazine belong to MANGAJIN, the manga material is reprinted through arrangements with the original Japanese publishers, and we have only one-time reprint rights. Thus, permission to reprint the manga material from MANGAJIN is really not ours to give. The Japanese publishers are reasonable people though, and as long as it's for use in the classroom, they give their tacit OK.

Partly because the explanations in MANGAJIN are fairly complete (as complete as space allows), it really seems more suited for use as supplemental reading or individual study, but recently several cases have come to our attention in which MANGAJIN was actually used in a class, or in conjunction with a class.

• Washington, DC: This past summer, MANGAJIN was used in two experimental 5-week "fun classes" for intermediate-level students at the Japan-America Society of Washington. The students were largely business people, government employees, and lawyers. In this case, MANGAJIN was used something like a textbook, that is, the class went through manga stories and picked out colloquial expressions. These were repeated by the class, and the instructor expanded on these by giving other similar usage examples. Reactions to the class were very positive, but this fall, there seemed to be more interest in conventional textbook classes. The MANGAJIN class will be offered again, and MANGAJIN will be kept on hand and made available to students in all classes as supplementary reading.

• Springfield, MO: Parkview High School received a small grant for Japanese language teaching materials, and the instructor Carol Lund decided to use part of this to purchase subscriptions for all the 2nd through 4th year Japanese students. The Japanese program at Parkview is in its fifth year, and while the 1st year students are put in separate classes, the 2nd through 4th year students wind up together in one class. In this kind of mixed-level class, Ms. Lund feels MANGAJIN will be useful for individual study. The cultural background and feature material will be as important as the language content, and the magazine will be a supplement and "fun activity" for the quicker students, providing a type of vocabulary not found in the standard textbooks. Perhaps most important is the fact that "the kids love it."

• Los Angeles, CA: MANGAJIN magazine was on the reading list for Prof. Miriam Silverberg's class on Japanese Popular Culture in spring of 1993. Students were required to subscribe, and there were two optional questions on the exam that came from the issues. Our subscription manager reports that toward the end of the semester there were a number of frantic calls for subscriptions accompanied by requests for back issues.

• Ann Arbor, MI: George Darling, a biophysicist with a special interest in languages, is in the process of assembling materials for a 12-week "Introduction to Japanese" course. MANGAJIN will be used for the cultural/feature material as much as the language content, but the course is designed to dispel the notion that Japanese is an impossible language.

• Tokyo, Japan: One of the more interesting uses of MANGAJIN is being planned at the ZEL S Institute of Languages, Shinjuku branch. The class (for intermediate students and above) will not be concerned so much with the language content, but will focus on the cultural background and what it is that makes the manga funny. The objective is to give the students an understanding of the Japanese sense of humor so that they will be able to enjoy reading other manga on their own. This class, scheduled to begin in January 1994, was conceptualized by ZEL S president Mori Koji.

On the flip side, a surprising number of instructors are using MANGAJIN as a teaching aid for Japanese students of English.

• Glenview, IL: Private ESL instructor Susan Gavin uses the American comics (Calvin & Hobbes, The Far Side, etc.) to help students learn idioms and slang. After discussing the meaning, students read the Japanese translations to confirm their comprehension of the content. Ms. Gavin finds that the Japanese manga are equally useful as a springboard for discussing culture, customs, and language.

• Osaka, Japan: Hanawa Kikuo-sensei uses MANGAJIN in his English classes at Osaka Kyōiku Daigaku. He says that MANGAJIN is helpful because it shows how everyday Japanese can be expressed in English.

• Tokyo, Japan: MANGAJIN is also being used in English classes by Prof. Yoshimi Fumiko at Tamagawa Gakuen Daigaku, by Prof. Igarashi Masako at Seikei Daigaku, and by Prof. Kanehiro Shōnosuke at Ōsima Women's University.

Anyone else? If you're using MANGAJIN in the classroom, drop us a line so we can share your experiences with other readers. MANGAJIN in Class, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065

SystemSoft is Your One-Stop Source For Japanese Software on Macintosh and Windows Computers

We Support and Stock:

Apple JLK, Kanji-Talk 7.1
 Adobe Fonts & Apps • Aldus Apps
 Ambassador, Shasta
 Claris Apps • Deltagraph Pro
 Deneba Canvas • ErgoSoft Apps
 Microsoft • Nisus
 Quark ExpressJ • Turbowriter
 Macromedia Director
 Various software Upgrades... and much, much more.

For our full range of products see Mangajin's
 "Definitive Guide to Japanese Application Software in the U.S." in this issue.

The SystemSoft Advantage:

- Great prices.
- Full support for all of the products we sell.
- Bilingual support staff.
- Most packages available immediately.

Call SystemSoft for more information on these and other Japanese software products, or for the dealer nearest you.

SystemSoft
1-800-882-8856

*Contains every character in daily use, with pronunciations, meanings,
 compounds,
 stroke orders,
 self-tester,
 and flashcard printer*

Now, get all 2,000 kanji on screen! Great for review and testing!

MacSUNRISE Script by Wolfgang Hadamitzky

- Contains all the hiragana and katakana
- Uses a unique grapheme search screen
- Creates customized "kanji sets"

Are you serious about learning Japanese? Get MacSUNRISE Script, the most flexible and comprehensive kanji program available. It includes readings, meanings, compounds, recorded pronunciations, note windows, stroke orders, a browser, a quiz button, a kanji finder, and a flashcard printer, plus an easy-to-use customizer for creating "kanji sets" in any order or combination. Works on Macs with HyperCard 2.+. Send $5 for a demo disk (applies to purchase). Prices: 100 kanji, $99 • 500 kanji, $249 • 2,000 kanji, $499. Site licensing available. Credit cards and purchase orders gladly accepted.

for a free brochure or further information, contact—

USE OUR NEW TOLL-FREE NUMBER!

STONE BRIDGE PRESS, P.O. BOX 8208, BERKELEY, CA 94707 • TEL 800-947 7271 • FAX 510-524-8711

The symbolic spirit of hanko

The Japanese use hanko ("seals/stamps") throughout their lives. Owning one often begins in the crib. As soon as a grandchild is born, the grandparents look for a memorable present. Grandparents are often said to adore their grandchildren even more than their own children. After all, their grown-up children don't listen to their parents like they once did, but a baby grandson or granddaughter cuddled in their arms looks back with bright eyes, agreeing with every word. A seal makes a good gift for this new life.

A seal (or another popular gift, a bank book issued in the child's name) is most appreciated not by the newborn baby but by his or her parents. Of course the child will also be glad to have it as he or she grows older. Thus the grandparents have made a good investment with a gift that is enjoyed twice over. The child (and the parents) will always be enthralled by the value of the seal or numbers in the bank book. However, in giving something as symbolic as a seal, the grandparents not only gain their children's and grandchildren's appreciation, but they also make a wish that their descendants will have few obstacles in life and will continue flourishing for many generations.

A sense of adulthood

An individual doesn't actually need a seal until reaching adulthood at age 20. Before then, a parent's seal can take care of everything. To have one's own seal implies a readiness to take full responsibility for one's actions, that one has become a full-fledged member of society. Seals don't have much meaning while still a minor.

Except for ready-made "three penny" ones, seals are made by professional seal engravers. More than 60 percent of seals for people in their 20s are ordered by their parents. By presenting their young adult children with a seal, parents are encouraging their sense of adulthood. A high-quality seal can cost from ¥30,000 to ¥40,000—a high price, but not too expensive if it stimulates the user's awareness of his social rights and responsibilities. When people enter their 30s, they are likely to order a seal of their own. This is a period when one begins career advancement or starts a business, so at this age a person needs a seal with prestige. Japanese people amass seals as they earn promotions and gain status, and attain various professional or social titles.

The double-edged sword

The seal represents a person or organization's rights, responsibilities, and ownership, as well as social and economic standing. This remarkable power of the seal is a double-edged sword. One must think decisions out carefully before putting seals on papers. A stamp executed prudently protects one's rights, but a stamp done rashly ruins everything.

People have long been aware of the dangers of a misapplied seal. There is a saying dating from the Edo Period, when seals came in to common use, which exemplifies this concern: "The seal's impression can make heads fly." Powerful merchants of the time had this warning included in their code of regulations: "To apply one's seal is an important formality to be undertaken each time with the greatest care."

Seals have different purposes. The most important seals are ones with impressions officially registered for verification. (City Hall issues a certificate with a copy of the seal impression in case stamped documents need to be authenticated.) Some have a white or black dot indented on the side so that the user can tell which way is "up" without turning the seal over. This mark reduces the risk of stamping seals upside down. Registered stamps, which are always required for important matters, do not usually have these indentations—fortunately for the user. One needs to have considered all sides of an issue before putting a registered stamp on papers. Turning the seal over to see if it is right-side-up gives the user has a moment to reflect on whether he or she has made a wise decision.

A word to the wise

It is dangerous to affix one's seal on documents without reading them first. A blind seal can "chop one's head off," so strong caution is needed.

"He asked me for a seal of approval when I wasn't really paying much attention. I didn't know I would end up owing millions."

"I put my stamp on the documents out of obligation. That act cost me my entire estate."

These are not uncommon tragedies.

by Sawane Fumitoshi

イ・エス教育財団 と ロセノス

EUROCENTRES

INTERNATIONAL FOUNDATION OF LANGUAGE AND EDUCATIONAL CENTRES

暮らしで知る日本の発展

金沢で日本語と日本文化

Eurocentres courses receive the generous support and close cooperation of the Ishikawa prefectural Board of Education.

The programme provides opportunities to experience Japanese culture, history and tradition along with intensive language instruction.

Optional programmes include calligraphy, zen practice, industrial/cultural visits and weekend excursions—to name a few. Learn Japanese ways of life while staying with a Japanese family.

Eurocentre Kanazawa is a small cosmopolitan world with participants from many countries. Together they learn the Japanese language and culture, and also about each other.

A course unit lasts 4 weeks, more than one may be taken at a time.

Eurocentres is a non-profit foundation devoted to the teaching of languages to adults. We teach English, French, Italian, Spanish, German, Russian and Japanese in the countries where it is spoken.

For a brochure please write to:

EUROCENTRES

ユーロセンタージャパン
EUROCENTRES JAPAN

東京都千代田区神田駿河台 2-12 深井ビル4F
Fukui Building 4F, 2-12 Kanda Surugadai
Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo 101
Phone: (03)3295-5441 Fax: (03)3295-5443

BABEL Translation Contest Winners

The results of the Third BABEL International Japanese/English Translation Award from issue #25 are in. Over 400 people vied for one first, one second, and five runner-up positions. The grand prize goes to Akiko Shimada, of West Hurley, New York. Below is the original Japanese essay and Akiko's winning English translation.

On the following page are the judge's comments and the complete list of prize winners. We at MANGAJO thank all of those who entered and congratulate the winners. We also encourage those who didn't win to study the judge's comments and keep honing their translation skills.

① 専業主夫

② 先日、三十歳になったばかりの仕事がバリバリできる男性と話をしていたら、彼は肩を落として、「もう仕事をするのは嫌になってしまいました」

という。男性では彼くらいの年齢から四十歳くらいまでが一番激務を強いられる年まわりではないかと思う。仕事を覚えきれない後輩の面倒を見つつ、上からはあだこうだといわれる。

「まだまだ君は若いんだから」

などといわれて、地方への1人出張をいい渡される。難しい仕事をこなすと、鼻の先に昇進、出世をちらつかされる。こういう環境にはもう疲れてしまったというのである。

③ 彼の一番の望みは結婚退職して専業主夫になることである。同じ会社の結婚退職する女子社員が、うらやましくて仕方がないのだそうだ。

「女性には結婚が決まると祝福されて退職するのに、男性にはそれがない」

と怒っている。話しを聞くと彼はちゃんと部屋も掃除し、自炊もしている。縫い物もやるし、自分でアイロンもかけて、いつもきちんとした身なりをしている。

④ 「ミシンかけや、スカートやズボンの裾上げも得意です。フランス刺繍もできます」

となかなかたのもし。親がかりの甘ったれ女よりも、ずっと家事能力にたけているし、ぜひ育児にも挑戦したいと意欲満々なのである。ところが相手の女性がなかなかみつからない。ほとんどが男性依存型で、自分たちは給料を海外旅行や衣類にお金を注ぎ込みながらも、

「結婚生活は男性の収入で」

という。

⑤ 「とても僕をお嬢にもらってくれそうもない」

と彼は嘆く。なかには男のくせにだらしないと非難する人までいるのだそうだ。いつ彼が念願の専業主夫になれるのかはわからないが、退職祝いに花束をもらって、ポツと頬を染めている男性の姿もなかなかいいものだ。彼が栄えある結婚退職の男性第一号になれるように、私は陰ながら応援している。

⑥ 毎日新聞社刊 藤ようこ著「街角小走り日記」より

① A Full Time House Husband

② by Yoko Mure from Machikado Kobashiri Niku (Mainichi Shimbun)

③ The other day I was talking with an energetic businessman who had just turned thirty "I don't feel like working any more," he told me. I understand that a man from this age to forty is pressed to work very hard at his job. While taking care of younger subordinates who have not yet learned their jobs very well, he has to put up with his boss's demands one after the other. The boss will say "you are still young," and order him off on a one-day business trip to some remote area. When he does manage to complete a difficult task, the company will lead him on with promises of promotional opportunities waved in front of his nose. He says he has become fed up with such an environment.

④ His ultimate wish is to quit working and become a full-time house husband. He envies the female workers who leave his office to get married. "It's not fair that only women are congratulated for leaving the office for married life," he said angrily. After all, according to him, he keeps his room clean and cooks for himself. He also sews and irons his own clothes. No wonder he always looks so neat.

⑤ "I am also good at machine sewing and stitching up the bottoms of my trousers. I can even do French embroidery," he boasts convincingly. He believes he is far more skilled at housekeeping than the spoiled young women who cannot do anything without their parents and he ambitiously looks forward to the challenge of raising children. The problem, however, is that he cannot find a mate. Most women are financially dependent on men and, even though they spend most of their salary on clothing and traveling abroad, once they get married they think living expenses should be covered by their husbands' earnings.

⑥ "Nobody would be interested in marrying me," he says with a sigh and some people have actually criticized him for not having a manly attitude. I don't know when his wish to be a full-time house husband will come true, but I like to picture him bashfully flushed with happiness as he receives flowers from his colleagues on his last day of work. Privately, I am praying for his success in becoming the first man who honorably leaves his job for the married life.

Judge's Comments:

The art of translation forces the translator to draw on every facet of his or her knowledge of two languages. Grammar and vocabulary are important, but so are style and tone, qualities that are elusive and less easily quantifiable. The Babel International Translation Award challenges would-be translators to show more than a grasp of the basics of translation from Japanese to English; the judges look for sophistication and skill in converting the tone of the original into the target language.

This year's essay for translation, Mure Yoko's "Sengyo shufu" (Househusband), drew over 400 entries from all over the United States and Japan. The winning entry, which appears on the preceding page, was judged to be the most successful of this large group of submissions in handling the difficulties, both grammatical and stylistic, that this essay posed. We congratulate the 1st place winner and runners-up for their fine accomplishment, and we encourage others to persevere in their studies. We look forward to seeing improvement in next year's entries.

Even the winning translation has imperfections, in the spirit of improvement, we will discuss them briefly here. The first possible improvement might be to the title. Since "housewife" (and, likewise, "househusband") implies full-time engagement in the task, it might be best to translate "sengyo shufu" as simply "househusband." The translation reads well and is highly accurate until the third paragraph, where we read: "I am also good at machine sewing and stitching up the bottoms of my trousers." But the original says "skirts and trousers." Perhaps the translator thought it odd that a man would have the opportunity to hem a skirt, and decided to eliminate the word "skirt," but such deletions should be avoided except when necessary. In addition, the bottom of a trouser leg is usually called a cuff, so the sentence would be improved by replacing "bottoms" with "cuffs."

The next problem is in rendering "tanomoshi" as "boasts convincingly." The original suggests how the writer of the essay responds to this list of the man's accomplishments: that he seems to her to be reliable and she is convinced of his suitability as a mate, simply by the persuasiveness of his words. This translation problem affects the next line, which begins "He believes..." In fact, it is the writer who is commenting again on her response to the man; it is the writer who believes the man is more skilled than a spoiled young girl, not the man himself who believes it.

These comments aside, the winning translation shows a subtle and masterful grasp of the tone of Mure Yoko's essay. The greatest pitfall in the other attempts was to inject irony into the writer's attitude toward her subject, but the original has no irony. Rather, it is a straightforward and heartfelt statement about changes the writer hopes to see in the way women and men function together in Japan's workaday world. The winning entry captures the deceptive simplicity of that statement with considerable subtlety and skill.

Paul Gordon Schalow
Associate Professor of Japanese
Rutgers University

First prize winner Akiko Shimada now works part-time as a liaison between Japanese and American companies involved in the fashion industry.

Prize Winners

First Place:

Akiko Shimada

West Hurley, NY

Trip to Japan, $1,000, Brother 2600Q Word Processor, Hardcover copy of The Essence of Modern Haiku, 1-year subscription to Honyaku no Sekai, Dictionaries, 1-year subscription to MANGAJIN, Certificate and Plaque. Ms. Shimada will be asked to make a report in English on her trip to Japan.

Second Place:

Jon B. Bernard

New York, NY

$700, Brother Fax 600, Softcover copy of The Essence of Modern Haiku, 6-month subscription to Honyaku no Sekai, Half-year subscription to MANGAJIN, Certificate and Plaque.

Honorable Mention:

Fred Harris

Honolulu, HI

Jason G. Karlin

Champaign, IL

Linda M. Lau

Honolulu, HI

Steven Myers

Shiraoka, Saitama, Japan

Massato Otsuka

New York, NY

$200, Brother P-Touch 10 Labeling System. Half year subscription to MANGAJIN, Certificate and Plaque.

Prize money funded by Japan Foundation
(国際交流基金)

Calvin and Hobbes

by PATTERSON

1

2

3

4

- 1 Calvin-Rex: "Behold the terrible thunder lizard, tyrannosaurus rex!"
 → 恐るべき 雷 トカゲ、ティノノサウルス レックス を 見よ!
Osorubeki kanunari tokage, tiranosaaurus rekkusu o miyoi terrible/formidable thunder lizard tyrannosaurus rex (obj.) look at/hoc
- behold (文語的) 拝観する / 拝観せよ、見る / 見よ。
  - miyo is a literary command form of the verb miru.
  - the name tyrannosaurus actually means "tyrant lizard," while "thunder lizard" refers to a broniosaurus.
- 2 Calvin-Rex: "The fiercest dinosaur of all, he is twenty tons of bone-crushing muscle and razor-sharp teeth!"
 → この 最も とう猛な 恐竜、ティノノサウルス は 重さ 20トン、
Kono mottoo dōmō-na kyōryū, tiranosaaurus wa omosa nijūton, this most/extremely fierce/savage dinosaur tyrannosaurus as-for weight 20 ton(s) 骨 を も 砕く 筋肉 と、かみそりのごとく 鋭い 歯 の 固まり hone o mo kudaku kinniku to, kamisori no gotoku surudoi ha no katumari bone (obj.) also crush muscle and razor as/like sharp teeth (=) cluster
- 3 Calvin-Rex: "Always the victor, he lets out a triumphant roar!"
 → 常に 勝者 となる ティノノサウルス は、勝ち誇ったうなり声 を とどろかせる!
Tsune ni shōsha to naru tiranosaaurus wa kachihukotta unarigoe o todorokaseru!
 always winner to become tyrannosaurus as-for triumphant scold/growl (obj.) let rumble/roar
- let out (声を) あげる、出す。
- 4
- Door: Library
 → 図書館 Toshokan
 library
- Sound FX: Boot
 → ドン!
doshun!
 thunk
- boot 名詞としては「ブーツ」の意味だが、動詞として「蹴飛ばす」という意味もある。ここでは擬態語風に使われている。

Calvin & Hobbes, copyright © 1990 Universal Press Syndicate. All rights reserved. Reprinted/translated by permission of Editors Press Service, N.Y.

calvin + hobbes

by BILL WATSON

1

2

3

4

Calvin-Rex: "Oh, no! There's a tyrannosaurus in the grocery store!"

→ ウー、大変だ! このスーパーにティラノザウルスがいる!
Uwā, taihen da! Kono sūpā ni tiranozaurusu ga iru!
 you terrible is this supermarket in tyrannosaurus (subj.) exists

- tyrannosaurus (Tyrannosaurus Rex) 『恐竜に属し、』 大なる肉食恐竜
- grocery store 食料雑貨店、特にスーパーマーケット

Calvin-Rex: "The dinosaur heads for the meat department and devours the butcher!"

→ 恐竜は肉売場の方へ向かって、肉売場の店員を餌食にした!
Kyōryū wa niku-uriba no hō e mukatte, niku-uriba no em'in o ejiki ni shita!
 dinosaur as-for meat dept.'s direction to face/head toward meat dept. + store clerk (obj.) prey/victim made into

- heads for ... へ向かう。
- devour むさぼり食う、呑み込む。
- butcher 肉屋の人。

Calvin-Rex: "Shoppers everywhere flee for their lives! It's mayhem, destruction, and carnage in the aisles!"

→ 買い物客はみな、命からがら逃げだす!
kaibmono-kyaku wa mina, inochi karagara nigedasu!
 shopper(s) as-for everyone escape with bare life run away 店内は暴力と破壊、殺戮の場と化したのである!

tennai wa bōryoku to hakai, satsuriku no ba to kashita no de aru!
 inside the store as-for violence and destruction massacre/slaughter of place to changed into (explan.) is

- mayhem 傷害、破壊行為、暴力。
- carnage 大量殺傷、殺戮
- aisles (店内の) 通路。

Mother: "Oh, no! Calvin can't I take you ANYWHERE?!"

→ まア、大変! カルヴィン、これじゃどこにもあなたを連れて行けないじゃない!
Mā, taihen! Karubin, kore ja doko ni mo anata o tsurete ikenai ja nai!
 ah terrible Calvin this with anywhere you (obj.) can I take you along isn't it

Calvin: "Now the tyrannosaurus wants cookies!"

→ ティラノザウルス、今度はクッキーを欲しがっている!
Tiranozaurusu, kondo wa kukkii o hoshigatte iru!
 tyrannosaurus this time/now as-for cookie (obj.) is wanting

- can't I take you anywhere?! 疑問形が質問ではなく修辭的に使われている。

Lesson 30 • Maitta

Whenever you hear someone say maitta as an interjection, you know they are somehow in trouble or distressed. Maitta can be used to admit defeat, like “Uncle/I give up” in English – including cases of a good humored defeat. It can be a mild exclamation of chagrin like “Geez/Darn it all/What a bummer!” Or it can be similar to komatta (see Basic Japanese #15) in indicating that you are in a fix, worried, at a loss for what to do or say.

Maitta comes from mairu (参る), which refers to the act of approaching or moving close to a superior and is used as a humble verb for “(I) go” or “(I) come.” One of the idiomatic uses stemming from this is “(go) worship/pray at a shrine.” So the word has always been associated with submission/supplication. Considering these implications of maitta, it’s not hard to see certain connections with the meanings in the examples we present here, but we haven’t been able to find any theories about just how these usages might have evolved.

When maitta is used as an interjection, an emphatic particle almost always follows it (na, wa ne, yo, etc.). As some of our examples show, it can also be used as the verb of a regular sentence to convey essentially the same meaning.

“What a Bummer”

This hostess bar (referred to as a クラブ [kurabu, “club”] in the story) is having a rough time because of the poor economy

© Kunihito Yasuyuki / Para para, Shogakukan

Proprietress: まいったわねー。全然客来ないわよ。
Maitta wa ne. Zenzen kyaku konai wa yo.
 in a fix/ined (fem.) (colloq.) at all customer(s) don't come (fem.) (emph.)
 “What a bummer. No customers at all.” (PL2)

“Sound” FX: がらん
Garān
 (effect of being empty/deserted)

Hostess: ああ、バブルの時代がなつかしい。
Aa, baburu no jidai ga natsukashii.
 ah bubble 's time/era (subj.) is fondly remembered
 “Ah, I miss the bubble (economy) era.” (PL2)

- the Japanese word for “bubble” is awa (泡), but a katakana rendering of the English is used when referring to the “bubble” economy of the late 80s and early 90s.

“What to do?”

This section chief (kachō) usually gets someone else to make copies for him, but this time he is at the office by himself

Kachō: あれ、/ この ボタン でない とすると
Are, / Kono botan de nai to suru to huh this button is not when you consider that “Hub? Well if it isn’t this button, then...” (PL2)

Sound FX: カチャ カチャ
kacha kacha
 (clicking sound of pushing a button)

Kachō: まいった なあ、
Matta na
 in a fix (colloq.)
 “What do I do now?”

“Dang”

The hero of this story about shōgi, or Japanese chess, fell asleep in his room and is now late for an important game. His laid-back style shows in this situation where you might expect him to be in a near panic trying to find the game room.

Shōsuke: まいった な... どこ の 部屋 だった っけ か?
Matta na... Doko no heya datta kke ka?
 be at a loss (colloq.) where 's room was it ?
 “Dang, which room was it now?”

みんな 同じ よう で、わかんねえ な、
Minna onaji yō de, wakannē na.
 all same appearance are-and can't tell (colloq.)
 “They all look alike; I can’t tell.”

- datta kke (or often da kke) is used after a question word (doko, “where” in this case) when you can’t bring to mind something you used to know or are trying to remember
- wakannē is a contraction/corruption of wakaranai, the negative plain past of wakarai, “know/understand.”

© Nōjō Jun-ichi / Gekka no Kishi, Shogakukan

Physical distress

Maitsu can also be used when you're hot or tired. In this scene, Muraki has just returned from running some company errands on a blisteringly hot day

© Hayashi & Takai / Yamaguchi Roppita, Shogakukan

Muraki: いやー まいった す。暑くて 暑くて nā maitsu su, atsukute atsukute well worn out I/you am hot hot
 "Wow, I've had it, it's so hot." (P12-3)

- iya (sometimes lengthened to iya) is actually a statement of disgust or chagrin, but here is used more as a verbal warm-up
- maitsu su is a contraction of maitsu desu, a kind of colloquial/informal alternate to the P1.3 murimashita. Muraki almost always shortens desu to su

A star jockey has been getting threatening letters, and then receives a package containing a small voodoo doll of him with a pin through the chest. Understandably worried, he is negotiating with some professional body guards.

© Kurotsuchi & Minoyama / Yajima Urinara, Shogakukan

Ikore: だから 僕、 Dakara boku
 because I/me 夜も ロクに 眠れない んです
 yoru mo roku ni nemurenai n desu night also sufficiently/well can I sleep (explan.) is 実際 参っています
 Jissai maitsu imasu really am in a bind
 "So I can't even sleep well at night. It's really getting to me." (P12)

- roku means "good" or "well," but is usually used with a negative to mean "not well" ~ "bad/poor/etc."

At a loss for words

Former college rugby star Naoto heads out for a late night snack after putting his son to bed. The proprietress recognizes him from an old magazine article.

Azakami: あなたのことね、提さん。
Anata no koto ne, Tsutsumi-san.
 you 's thing isn't it (name-hon.)
 "This is you, isn't it, Tsutsumi-san."

Magazine: 堤 直人
 Tsutsumi Naoto

- anata no koto looks like "the fact/thing of you," but means "(about) you."
- the kanji jō in Azakami's dialog balloon is apparently a misprint, and should be 堤, as it appears in the magazine she is holding

Naoto: まいった な、その通りです。
Maatta na, sono tōri desu.
 don't know what to say (colloq.) just like that is
 "This is embarrassing. It's just as you say."
 (PL3)

Etsuko was ready to marry this man five years ago, but broke up with him because she saw him in a love hotel district with another woman. She now finds out that the woman was his sister, who worked in the area of the hotels. She had thought that he was just toying with her affections, but he was actually hoping to marry her. Now she decides to pretend that she was never serious about him.

Etsuko:
 アハハハ。
A ha ha ha.
 (laugh)
 "Ah, ha ha ha."

そっかア、参っちゃったな。

Sokkā, maitchatta na.
 is that so don't know what to say

あなたがそこまで私に本気だったなんて。

Anata ga soko made watashi ni honki datta nante.
 you (subj.) that much/far time about serious was the very idea

"Is that so? What can I say? I never knew you were so serious about me." (PL2)

- the sokkā and the na after maitchatta give her speech a somewhat rough tone which serves to mask her disappointment

“I lose/give up”

Yoshii is negotiating the price of a catered party with Akiba. It was supposed to cost ¥25,000 per person, but now Akiba says ¥30,000, with all drinks included. Yoshii reluctantly agrees when Akiba makes a rather high-pressure pitch.

Akiba: ありがとうございます、では 一人 三万円 で Arigatō gozaimasu, dewa hitori sanman-en de thank you! with that one person 30,000 yen at “Thank you. Then 30,000 yen apiece it is.” (PL3-4)

Yoshii: まいった な。 かなわない よ Maista na. Kanawanai yo.
 give up (colloq.) am no match (emph.)
 “Ok, I give up, I’m no match for you.” (PL2)

Imano works at the front desk of a hotel, and has recently heard from his co-workers that it is important to scrutinize people as they leave the hotel to figure out whether they were pleased with the service or not, and then take measures to set things right with the guests who weren’t happy. The old pros can tell how the hotel guests feel just by looking at their posture from behind, but Imano can’t seem to get the hang of it.

Imano: まいった な。 Maista na.
 in a bind (colloq.)
 “I give up.” (PL2)

後ろ 姿 なんて いくら見ても わかんない や。
 Ushiro sugata nante ikura mite mo wakannai ya.
 back/behind figure/shape something like no matter how much I look don’t get it (emph.)
 “No matter how hard I look at them from behind, I just can’t tell anything.” (PL2)

- wakannai is a contraction of wakaranai, the negative plain past of wakaru (“understand”).

A taunt

Commodore Bell has come to Japan on a trading mission, but first wants to experience the finer points of having a good time. The local magistrate (bugyō) has taken him out drinking with the famous Japanese carouser Haguregumo, and they order some sake. The bugyō takes his neither hot nor cold, but hitohada, or “skin temperature” (See Mangajin #5 for the complete story.)

Bell: 熱くもなく冷たいのでもなく人肌?
Atsuku mo naku tsumetai no demo naku hitohada?
 hot also not cold (explan.) also not human: skin
 “Neither hot nor cold, skin-temperature?” (PL2)

Bugyō: ゲジンはな、熱いか冷めてえかだけだろ。
Gējin wa na, atsuka tsumete ka dake daro foreigner(s) as-for (colloq.) hot-or cold-or only right

こっちはな、 Kotchi wa na,
 this direction/as as-for (colloq.)

人肌 っつてのもあるんだよ。
hitohada tte no mo aru n da yo.
 human:skin called (=) also have/exist (explan.) is (emph.)
 “Foreigners have only hot or cold, don’t they. We have what’s called ‘skin temperature’ too.” (PL2)

まいったかこのバカ。
Maitta ka kono baka.
 give up ? this idiot
 “Do you give up, you idiot?” (PL1-2)

- The bugyō uses a kind of rough speech/dialect in which the word tsumetai becomes tsumete, and gējin becomes gējin.

© Akiyama Jōji / Haguregumo, Shogakukan

“You’ve got me there”

One of his drinking buddies comments that Haguregumo is a man who has a good feel about him. The accompanying barmaid pipes in about what she thinks gives a man that certain saura.

Barmaid: うちにしたらです よ、
Uchi ni shitara desu yo,
 me town-for is (emph.)
 “Well, as for me, you know,”

気持ちのいい男 っつてのは、勘定を kimochi no ii otoko tte no wa, kanchō o feeling (subj.) good man (quote) (=) as-for account (obj.)

きちっと払ってくれる人のことですね。 kichutto harutte kureru hito no koto deshite ne properly pay (favor) person (s) case is (colloq.)
 “a man with a good feel about him is one who keeps his tab paid up.” (PL3)

Haguregumo: ありや、こりや まいった。
Arya korya maitta
 well as for this you’ve got me
 “Oops, guess you’ve got me there.”

- arya* is a variation of are, an expression of surprise or bewilderment.
- korya* is a contraction of kore wa (“as for this”).

© Akiyama Jōji / Haguregumo, Shogakukan

いいひさいち選集

Ishii Hisaishi Senshū

SELECTED WORKS of ISHII HISAICHI

Sound FX: ルンルンルン

Run run run

La la la (sound of humming as he packs his bag)

Secretary センセ は 高級 ホテル で Sense wa kōkū hōteru de teacher/mr-as-for high class hotel at 「カンヰメ」だ そうですね。

"kanzume" da sō desu ne.

"canned" is/will be (hearsay) (colloq.)

"I hear Mr. Hirooka is going to be 'canned' in a luxury hotel." (PL3)

Editor え? 「カンヰメ」?

E? "Kanzume?"

what?/huh? "canned"

"Huh? 'Canned?'" (PL2)

- sense is a colloquial abbreviation of sensei, most familiar as the word for "teacher," but used also as a term of address/reference for other people considered worthy of respect, including doctors, politicians, and writers. As is often the case in Japanese, the secretary uses sensei in a situation where an English speaker would generally use a name, "Mr. Hirooka."
- kanzume literally means "packed in a can" (kan = "can," and zume is a suffix form of tsumeru, "pack") and usually refers to canned food, but it has the figurative meaning of a person being "bottled up" in some confined place like food in cans. When Japanese writers have missed (or are about to miss) their deadlines, publishers sometimes "can" them incommunicado in a hotel room so they can work undisturbed until the manuscript is finished.
- da sō desu indicates she is repeating information she has heard from someone else, and ne shows she is seeking confirmation of that information.

Editor: 「箱詰め」なんだよ、実は。

"Hakozume" nan da yo, jitsu wa.

"boxed" (expln.) is (emph.) actually

"Actually, it's (more like) 'boxed.'" (PL2)

Secretary: え?

E?

what?/huh?

"What (do you mean)?" (PL2)

- paralleling kanzume, hakozume means "packed in a box."
- usually jitsu wa (lit. "as for the truth" → "actually") comes at the beginning.

Editor: 予算が、

Yosan ga.

budget (w/ty.)

"(I'm sorry we don't have) the budget (for a better hotel.)" (PL unclear)

Hirooka: わしは 箱男 か!

Washi wa hako-otoko ka!

I/me as-for box-man ?

"Am I the Box Man?" (PL2)

Upper Left: カプセル

Kapsuru

capsule

Capsule Hotel

Neighbor: うるせ そ

Urusē zo.

noisy (emph.)

"Be quiet." (PL2)

- yosan ga implies yosan ga nai ("not have the budget") as an explanation for the nature of the accommodations, along with an apology
- in the 1970s, the "existentialist" Japanese author Abe Kōbō had a best-seller called Hako-otoko ("The Box Man," available in English) about a man who lives with a large cardboard box over his head.
- urusē is a slang version of urusai, "noisy." The vowel combination ai changes to e or ei in certain dialects and masculine slang

いしいひさいち選集

Ishii Hisaichi Senshū

SELECTED WORKS of ISHII HISAICHI

Editor: 暗い ですね、村山 センセ。
Kurai desu ne, Murayama Sense
 dark is, isn't it (name) teacher/master
 "It's dark, isn't it, Mr. Murayama?" (PL3)

Editor: 明 を つけない んですか?
Shōmei o tsukenai n desu ka?
 lights/lighting (obj.) not turn on (explan.?)
 "Don't you turn your lights on?" (PL3)

- sense is a colloquial sensei, here used as a respectful title because Murayama is an author
- shōmei is a more formal word for denki/tokari ("light"). Shōmei o tsukeru, like denki o tsukeru, means "turn on a/the light(s)." Tsukerai is the negative form of tsukeru

Murayama: 手元 が 見えればそれで よい。
Temoto ga miereba sore de yoi vicinity of hands (subj.) if can see with that is good/okay
 "If I can see the vicinity of my hands, that is enough."
 "All I need to see is my hands." (PL2)

Editor: そりゃ、ま、そう です が。
Sorya, ma, sō desu ga
 as for that well that way is but
 "Well that's certainly true, but . . ." (PL3)

- temoto refers to a fairly limited area "by one's hands/at one's fingertips" or "within easy reach"
- miereba is a conditional "if" form of mieru ("can see").
- sore de yoi is an alternative form of sore de ii (lit. "it's fine with that"), an expression meaning "That's adequate/all one needs."
- sorya is a contraction of sore wa ("as for that"). Sore wa sō desu (lit. "as for that, it is that way") is essentially an emphatic "That's true" → "That is certainly/indeed true," and it's frequently followed by ga ("but") implying that, however true it may be, the speaker still wishes to differ somehow
- ma (or ma) is used as a kind of "verbal pause," like "well/you know/I mean/let's see"

Murayama: できた ぞ
Dekita zo.
 is finished (emph.)
 "It's done." (PL2)

Editor: ごくろうさま でした。
Gokurō sama deshita.
 (hon.) hardship-(hon.) was
 "Thank you." (PL3)

- dekita is the plain/abrupt past form of dekiru ("be finished/done/ready").
- zo is a rough masculine particle for emphasis.
- gokurō-sama (desude/datta) comes from the word kurō, meaning "trouble/suffering/hard work," with the honorific prefix go- and ending -sama. It's a polite expression for thanking someone for their labors.

Sound FX: バチッ
Pa! ts!
 Click (sound of switch for helmet light)

Murayama: わし の 前 で 読むな。
Washi no mae de yomu na
 I/me of from at/in don't read
 "Don't read it in front of me." (PL2)

Editor: はい はい。
Hai hai
 yes/okay yes/okay
 "Okay/Yes sir." (PL3)

- washi is a word for "I/me" used mostly by middle-aged and older men.
- one use of the particle de is to mark the location (in this case washi no mae, "in front of me") where an action (in this case yomu, "reading") takes place.
- na directly following the "dictionary form" of a verb makes a fairly strong prohibition/negative command, "don't /stop ~" yomu na = "don't read."

ガルシア君

Garcia-kun

by 竹内章
Takeuchi Akira

1	Man: 毎日 毎日 残業 ばかり。  Mainichi mainichi zangyō bakari  everyday everyday work late/overtime only/always  "Day after day, I always have to work late." (PL2) 私の人生はこんなんで終わっちゃうのかなあ。  Watashi no jinsei wa konna n de owaichau no kana.  I/me 's life us-for this kind of (nom.)thing with will end-(regret) (explan.) I wonder if?  "I wonder if my life will end with this kind of thing?"  "Is this all my life is ever going to be, I wonder?" (PL2) • zangyō (literally "remaining work") usually implies one has to work late on forced/unwanted overtime
2	Boss: ガルシア君、おつかれ。  Garushia-kun, o-tsukare.  (name-hon.) (hon.)-tiredness  "Thanks for your help, Garcia." (PL2) Garcia: さよなら。  Sayonara.  "Goodbye." (PL2) • o-tsukare is short for otsukare-sama (deshita), which is from tsukareru, "become tired." The expression is a standard form used to thank a person for efforts that are presumed to have tired him out. Typically, though not necessarily, it also doubles as a "goodbye."
3	Garcia: フウ。  Fū. (sigh of exhaustion) Man: あれが 噂 に聞く 外国人 労働者か  Are ga uwasa ni kiku gaikokujin rōdōsha ka  that (subj.) gossip-/rumor talk in hear foreigner laborer ?  "So that's one of those foreign laborers we hear so much about these days." (PL2)
4	Man: そう だ。私なんてまだいい方だよなあ。  Sō da. Watashi nante mada ii hō da yo nā.  so/that way is I/me the likes of still good side am (emph.) (colloq.)  "That's right. Someone like me is still really on the good side/among the better off, I guess"  "That's right. I should count my blessings." (PL2) • nante can mark the topic like wa, and implies that the thing/situation in question is in some sense insignificant or of lesser concern.
5	Man: 家に帰れば自分の家と家族が待ってるんだもんね。  Uchi ni kaereba jibun no ie to kazoku ga matte ru n da mon ne.  home to if/when go home own house and family (subj.) are waiting (explan.) because (colloq.)  "(Because) after all, when I go home, I have a house and family waiting for me." (PL2) Sound FX: ガチャ  Gacha (rattle of gate latch) Nameplate: 木村  Kimura • 家 can be read either ie or uchi, and can mean either "house/home" or "family." ie is the preferred reading in sociological discussions of the family and legal references to a house as property. Otherwise the two are generally interchangeable, but in situations like this where several kinds of references to a house/home are mixed, ie tends to be favored for referring to the building itself.
6	Man: ただいま! みんな元気か?  Tadaima! Minna genki ka?  just now everyone healthy/well ?  "I'm home. Is everyone doing OK?" (PL2) • tadaima literally means "right now/just now," but it's the standard greeting used when returning home, like "I'm home!"
7	Wife: じゃ、またあとでね。  Ja, mata ato de ne.  well then again later (colloq.)  "Bye, I'll talk to you later." (PL2) Son: 元気な訳ないだろ。  Genki-na wake nai daro.  well/healthy reason/situation not exist probably/surely  "How could I possibly be doing OK?" (PL2) Sound FX: ピコピコ  Piko piko (sound of computer game) Arrow: 不倫 をしてる妻  Furin o shite-ru tsuma  immorality/affair (obj.) doing wife  Wife who is having an affair Arrow: 不登校 の息子  Futokō no musuko  not go (to school) (=) son  Son who stays home from school • furin ("immorality") commonly refers to extramarital affairs
8	Man: ハハハ 父さんがんばるぞ。  Ha ha ha Tōsan ganbaru zo.  (laugh) father/dad will strive hard (emph.)  "Ha ha ha. Dad's gonna keep working hard." (PL2) Arrow: 死ぬまで払うローンの家。  Shinu made harau rōn no ie  die until pay loan/mortgage (=) house  House with mortgage he will be paying till he dies. • ganbaru means to be "dogged/persistent/unflagging" in working toward some goal. Zo is a strong masculine particle for emphasis.  • shinu made harau ("pay until one dies") modifies rōn ("loan/mortgage").

西村 宗
by Nishimura Sō

1

Daughter 1: 今日 は 父さんに 休養 をあたえましょう
Kyō wa Tōsan ni kyūyō o ataemashō, today as-for dad to rest/relaxation (obj.) shall give/provide
 "Today let's give Dad a (day of) rest." (PL3)

- within the family, the father is typically addressed or referred to as tōsan or otōsan (the o- is honorific, showing respect for his status within the family); when speaking to someone outside the family, one's own father should be referred to as chichi and the other person's father as otōsan (the honorific o- is obligatory in this case, out of respect for the other person). Papa is also widely used within the family, but should not be used with others.
- one of the most common uses of the particle ni is to mark the target/destination/direction of an action — in this case the action of giving/providing
- ataemashō is the PL3 equivalent of ataeyō, the volitional ("let's/I shall") form of ataeru ("give/present/provide").

2

Daughter 1: 本 は ダメ。頭 も 休んでいただきます。
Hon wa dame. Atama mo yasunde itadakimasu.
 book as-for must not head/mind also require to rest
 "No books. We need to have you rest your head, too." (PL3)

- dame ("no good/useless/vain/unacceptable") is commonly used as a word of prohibition ("must not").
- yasunde is the -te form of yasomu ("rest/take time off"), and itadakimasu is the PL3 form of itadaku ("receive" — polite). Itadaku after the -te form of a verb can be literally translated as "receive the favor of (the action)," but the combination is often used by persons of authority to state what they require of the listener. In this case the family members are assuming authority over the father's day off.

3

Daughter 2: 目 も 休養 をあたえましょう
Me ni mo kyūyō o ataemashō eyes to also rest/relaxation (obj.) shall give/provide
 "Let's rest our eyes, too." (PL3)

Sound FX ブチッ

Puchi!

Click (sound of TV on/off switch, here being turned off)

- volitional forms (-mashō/-yō/-ō, "let's/I shall") normally express what the speaker intends/plans to do, but they can be used to encourage/command the listener to do something instead — essentially like English "Let's", "shall we?" might be used to tell someone to do something.

4

Wife: 肝臓 も お休み。
Kanzō mo o-yasumi.
 liver also (hon.)-day off
 "Your liver gets a day off, too." (PL2)

- yasumi is the noun form of yasomu ("rest/take time off")

© Nishimura Sō. All rights reserved.
 First published in Japan in 1992.
 English translation rights arranged
 through Nishimura Sō.

サライ君 Sarari-kun

西村 宗
by Nishimura Sō

© Nishimura Sō. All rights reserved.
First published in Japan in 1992.
English translation rights arranged
through Nishimura Sō

1

Sign: サミット 会場 Samitto kayō
summit meeting place
Summit Hall

Flag: ストップ Sutoppu
Stop

- samitto and sutoppu are both katakana renderings of the English words.
- kayō is literally "meeting place," and it can refer variously to a single room, several rooms, an entire building, an outdoor facility, etc., depending on the nature of the meeting.

2

Guard: トランクの中を調べさせていただきます。
Toranku no naka o shirabesasete kudasai.
trunk of inside (obj.) please allow to check/examine
"Please let me check the inside of your trunk."
(PL3)

- toranku is a katakana rendering of English "trunk."
- no can reflect a wide variety of relationships between two nouns, but basically makes the first noun into a modifier for the second. Here no can be thought of as possessive ("the trunk's inside") or as equivalent to "of" ("inside of the trunk").
- shirabesasete is the -te form of shirabesaseru, the causative ("make/let do") form of shiraberu ("check/examine/look into"). The -te form of a verb plus kudasai makes a polite request, so shirabesasete kudasai = "please allow (me) to examine."

4

Delegates: ニッポン製品 バッカリッ。
Nippon seihin bakkari!
Japanese products only/all
"They're all Japanese products!" (PL2)

- bakkari! is a colloquial variation of bakari, "only/all."

Letters

(continued from page 4)

worth noting, though, that your "trusty" Nelson's (copyright 1962 and 1966) does give it as a second reading for 探 after sagu(ru), and the character is listed in Nelson's or kun index under sagasu as well as saguru. The same holds for every other kana dictionary we've looked at. Basically, this reflects actual long-standing usage, as does inclusion of this reading on the 1973 list we mentioned above.

Careful writers might still choose to make a distinction between 探す and 探る, using the former when looking for something that is lost/has disappeared (e.g., a lost wallet, a fugitive) and the latter when seeking out/attempting to discover a particular object (e.g., an apartment, a specific book in a book store). In the latter use, sagasu has essentially the same meaning as 探る saguru ("search/explore/probe/sound out"), but the expression for looking for an apartment is apāto o sagasu, not apāto o saguru. Since the apartment was never lost, perhaps you can see why some people might have objected to using 探す in such a phrase—though it does remain officially acceptable to do so.

Standardization necessarily takes a toll on nuance, and writers still don't stick entirely to the Jōyō Kanji chart, but if it's any consolation, things were much worse before the Ministry of Education moved to standardize usage. We should all be grateful for what the chart has accomplished.

オバタリアン

OBATARIAN

1

Narration: オバタリアンは口から出まかせをいう。
Obatarian wa kuchi kara demakase o iu.
 (Obatarian as-for mouth from random speech(obj.) say)
Obatarians run off at the mouth.

Signs: サイン会 Sain-kai
 signature meeting/session
Autograph Session

Obatarian: あらっ、あたしも いい かしら？
Ara! atashi mo ii kashira?
 (utter.) I/me also good/nice I wonder
"Oh! I wonder if I could have one, too?" (PL2)

Celebrity: どうぞ。 Dōzo.
 please
"Certainly." (PL3)

- demakase refers to something said without thinking or without any real knowledge, and kuchi kara demakase o iu is an idiomatic expression for "talk off the top of one's head/make irresponsible remarks."
- sain is a katakana rendering of English "sign." Its verb form sain suru means "inscribe one's signature," so as a noun sain means "signature/autograph." Sain can also refer to signboards or to signs of the kind given in baseball.
- atashi is a colloquial wasashi ("I/me"), used almost exclusively by women.
- dōzo means "please" in the sense of granting permission or a favor ("please go ahead/please feel free to...") rather than of asking a favor.

2

Obatarian: きー、夢みたい。今日 きてよかった..
Kee yume mitai. Kee kite yakatta!
 (equal of delight) dream is like today came and am glad
"Wow! It's like a dream. I'm (so) glad I came today!" (PL2)

Sound FX: サラサラ
Sara sara (effect of writing smoothly)

- kite is the -te form of ku ("come"), and yakatta is the plain/abrupt past form of the adjective yoi ("good/fine"). The expression ...-te yakatta means "I'm glad I... I'm happy to have..."

3

Obatarian: うれしいっ。家族中 でファンですの
Ureshii! Kazoku-juu de fan desu no.
 delighted/happy entire family (scope) I/me is/are (explan.)
"I'm so happy! Our whole family are fans." (PL3)
 家宝 にします わーっ。
Kahō ni shimasu wa!
 family treasure to will make (em. onlinq.)
"We'll make it a family treasure!" (PL3)

Celebrity: ハハハ
Ha ha ha. (pleased/gratified laugh)

- -ju is a suffix meaning "throughout ~" so kazoku-ju = "throughout the family" = "our entire family."
- desu no is a feminine equivalent of the explanatory form na no desu, which follows nouns to mean literally "the situation is that I am/we are/it is..."
- shimasu is the PL3 form of suru ("do/make").

4

Obatarian: これなんて読みますの？
Kore nante yomimasu no?
 this what (quote) read (explan.-?)
"How do you read this?" (PL3)

- nan is a contraction of nanu ("what") and te is a colloquial variation of quotative to. Nan te (yomu) = "(read) as what" → "how (do you read)."
- yomimasu is the PL3 form of yomu ("read"). Asking a question with explanatory no after a PL3 verb sounds distinctly feminine, though men frequently ask questions with no after plain/abrupt (PL2) verbs.
- the fact that Obatarian can't read the celebrity's stylized signature shows that she doesn't even know who he is.

オバタリアン

OBATARIAN

by 堀田かつひこ / Hotta Katsuhiko

1

Narration: パンフレット Pamfuretto
A pamphlet

Sound FX: バタ バタ
Pata pata
Flap flap (effect of thin, light object fluttering/flapping in the air or slapping against something)

- pamfuretto is a katakana rendering of the English word "pamphlet."

2

Narration: ハンカチ Hankachi
A handkerchief

Sound FX: バタ バタ
Pata pata
Flap flap

- hankachi is the most commonly used katakana rendering of English "handkerchief," shortened from the original hankachifu, which is almost never heard today

3

Narration: メニュー
Menyū
A menu

Sound FX: バタ バタ
Pata pata
Flap flap

Narration: オバタリアンは なんでもうちわにする。
Obatarian wa nandemo uchiwa ni suru.
obatarians as-for anything fan into make Obatarians will turn anything into a fan,

- menyū is a katakana rendering of English "menu."
- uchiwa refers to a flat fan rather than a folding one, which is called ōgi / sensu or ōgi.
- ... ni suru is an expression meaning "make (something) into"

4

Sound FX: ベチャクチャ Pecha kucha
(effect of animated talk)

Arrow: この人の名刺
Kono hito no meishi
this person's business card
This person's meishi

Sound FX: バタ バタ
Pata pata
Flap flap

- it is rude to treat meishi with anything other than the utmost care and respect

A selection from the series

FFA-0 • After Zero

by 岡崎 二郎 • Okazaki Jirō

EPISODE 1

小文美しい神

Chiisaku Utsukushii Kami The Little and Beautiful Spirit

- chiisaku here is an abbreviated version (or literary form) of chiisakute (the te form of chiisai ("small/little")). The -te form of an adjective is used when linking to another adjective to make a compound modifier: chiisakute utsukushi = "little and beautiful."
- kami is usually translated as "god(s)," but in this story we see that it also refers to what would be called "spirits" in English.

© Okazaki Jiro. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1996 by Shogakukan, Tokyo. English translation rights arranged through Shogakukan.

- 1 Narrator:
Mō, kono kai ni wa dare mo nokotte-nakatta sō desu.
 They say there wasn't anyone (else) left on this floor at the time. (PL3)

Sound FX:
Kata kata kata kata kata
 Click click click click click (sound of keys being pushed on electronic calculator)

- mō ("already") followed by a negative becomes "not... anymore."
- kai refers to the "floors/stories" of a building, both as an independent word and as a counter suffix: ikkai = "first floor" (from ichi ("one") + kai); gokai = "fifth floor" (from go ("five") + kai); kono kai = "this floor"
- nokotte-(i)nakatta is the past form of nokotte-masu, negative of nokotte-iru ("be remaining/remain"), from nokaru ("remain/be left over").
- sō desu after the plain form of a verb indicates the information is hearsay.

- 2 Employee:
Fū.
 "Whew." (sigh of fatigue)

- 3 Voice:
Jarapachi nē ka?
 "No jarapachi?" (Pl.2)

Employee:
N?
 "Huh?"

- It's not clear at this point in the story what jarapachi means, but nē ka looks like a dialect/slang version of... nan ka, which literally means "does...not exist?" and is used idiomatically to mean "Do(n't) you have...?" The vowel combination ai frequently changes to ē or ei in certain dialects and masculine slang.

- 4 Sound FX:
Kata kata kata
 Click click click (sound of calculator keys)

- 5 FX:
Gikul
 (effect of suffering in fright) capacity of ... and mo = "even" → "even as the general affairs section ..." (implying something like "not merely personally/individually on the part of the workers involved, but even as a section, officially").

- hoshite oku = "leave as is/ignore"
- ... wake ru wa ikanaku natta is from the expression ... wake ru wa ikanai, meaning "... is out of the question" or "can't very well ...," followed by the past form of naru ("become"), so it literally means "has become out of the question to ..." → "is no longer possible to ... / can't very well ... anymore."
- hā is a very tentative sounding "yes/I see."

† Sound FX:

6000000

Re-o-o-o-o-o

Employee:

Wooooo!!

"Yikes!" (exclamation/scream of fear)

2 Narrators:

*Mae o miru to, ōki-na medamu ga
kochira o nurang.*

When he looked in front of him, huge eyeballs stared back at him, and . . .

somo shain wa hōhō no tei de nupedashimashita

the employee beat a hasty retreat.
(PL3)

- ōki-na is an alternate form of the adjective ōku ("big/large").
- madama 目玉 is written with kanji that literally mean "eye" and "ball."
- kochira = "this direction," here meaning the direction of the worker in question.
- nirami is a continuing form of niramu ("stare/gaze [at]"); the past tense of the verb at the end of the sentence makes nirami past tense too → "stared and . . ."
- shain 社員 is written with kanji meaning "company" and "member" → "employee."
- hito no sei de is an expression for modifying flight/escape/retreat implying "as fast as possible/in utter frenzy."
- nigedashomashita is the PL3 past form of nigedasu, from nigeru = "run away/escape." The verb suffix -dashu often has the meaning of "begin (doing)," so nigedasu = "take off running/get out of there."

3 Kachō:

to in hanayū da.

“...and that’s the story.” (PL2)

- to iro is quotative, essentially making all the frames before this the content of hanashi ("story/situation")
- kachō is literally "section chief," roughly equivalent to "manager" in U.S. corporate structure

4 Kuchūk:

Sōmu to shite mo hōte oku wake ni wa
ikanaku natta n da.

"It's gotten to the point where we in (the) general affairs (section) can't just ignore it anymore." (PL-2)

Okido:

H2

"I see." (PL3)

- sōmu refers to sōmu-ka, “the general affairs section” of the company
- to shite is an expression meaning “as/in the

- 1 Kachō:
Okido-kun, Hanamura-kun, hōhō wa makaseru kara futari de kangaete kuren ka.
 “Mr. Okido (and) Ms. Hanamura, I will leave the method up to you, but I’d like you to think (about a solution) together.” (PL2)

Okido:
Hai. “Yes sir.” (PL3)

Hanamura:
Kono isogashii no ni, honto ni mō.
 “When we’re so busy, really, (what a pain) already!” (PL2)

- kuren ka = kurenai ka, which after the -te form of a verb makes an informal request or gentle command
- honto ni mō (literally “truly/indeed” + “already/now”) is an expression of exasperation.

- 2 Narrator:
Yūrei no hanashi de mochikari no, koko Taiyō Denki wa,
 This company, Taiyō Electric, where the talk is of nothing but ghosts ...
gyōkai de mo goshi ni hauru hodo no daikigyō desu.
 is, in the industry, a large enterprise that fits within five fingers. → is an enterprise large enough to be counted among the top five in the industry. (PL3)

- 3 Narrator:
Ima made ni kiki-rashii kiki mo naku, hitasura seichō shu-tsuzuketa chō-yūryō kigyō.
 An ultra-excellent enterprise that until now, without a crisis-like crisis, continued solely to grow. →
 A blue chip enterprise that until now has continued its inexorable growth without encountering anything that could be called a crisis.

Sign:
(Dai) Rokujūkai Taiyō Denki Kabushikigaisha Kabunushi (Sōkai)
 The Sixtieth Taiyō Electric Shareholders’ Meeting

- X rashii X makes an expression for “a truly X-like X” or “an X worthy of the name.”

- 4 Narrator:
Sore mo kaichō no Matsumura Shōzō-shi ga Iwate yori jōkyō shi, tatta ichidai de koko made kizukiageta no deshita.

And what's more, Chairman Matsumura Seizō came up to Tokyo from Iwate (prefecture) and built it up to this (its present size) in only a single generation. (PL2)

- sore mo (lit. “that also”) as a conjunction can have the meaning of “and moreover”
- tatta emphasizes the smallness/minuteness of a number or amount

- 5 Narrator:
Sore mo kaichō mo sakanen kyūsei shi,
 The Chairman died suddenly last year, and ...

Sound FX:
Kan kan kan
 (sound of heels echoing hollowly through the hall)

Narrator:
sono koro kara yūrei sōdō ga okori-hajimeta no deshita.
 it was from around that time that the ghost incidents began to occur. (PL3)

1 Sound FX: Katchu!
Click (sound of elevator button)

2 OL:
Fū~
“Whew.” (sigh of fatigue)

3 Voice:
Jarapachi nē ka?
“No jarapachi!” (PL2)

4 Sound FX:
Chu~n
Dinging (sound of bell indicating elevator’s arrival)

5 Sound FX:
Goro goro goro
(slight “rumble” of elevator doors opening)

6 OL:
Kyaaaaa!
“Aaaaaack!” (scream)

7 Kachō:
A~, hai hai, wakatte-masu yo.
“Oh, yes, yes, I know.” (PL3)

Kachō:
Yūrei desho. Chan-to te wa uchimasu kara.
“A ghost, right? We’ll take appropriate action, so (don’t worry).” (PL3)

- wakatte-(i)masu is the PL3 form of wakatte-iru (“know/be aware of”).
- yūrei can refer to a wide variety of ghosts/apparitions/phantoms, but in strict use it refers to the spirit of a dead person which appears in a form resembling that person
- chan-to = “properly/duly.”
- uchimasu is the PL3 form of utsu (“hit/strike”). Te o utsu (lit “strike hands”) is an idiom for “take action/steps (toward resolving a problem)”; using wa instead of o adds emphasis.

8 Okido:
Mō shinpai irimasen yo, Kachō
“There’s no need to worry anymore, Chief.” (PL3)

Tonari yōnei jinja buddaku kara, o-fuda o atsumete kimashita.
“We went and gathered talismans from famous shrines and temples all over Tokyo.” (PL3)

Talisman:
Chūni Kōfuku
Goblin Surrender
→ Defeat to the Goblin

- irimasen is the PL3 form of iranai, negative of iru (“need”).

- it is standard custom for Japanese employees to refer to and address their superiors by title rather than by name
- 都 to means “metropolis/capital,” and 内 nai means “inside/within”; tonai is often the preferred way to refer to Tokyo, especially when actually in the city
- jinja = “(Shinto) shrines” and buddaku = “(Buddhist) temples.”
- o-fuda (almost always with the honorific o- in this usage) refers to rectangular slips of paper that can be purchased at shrines and temples as “charms/talismans” to ward off evil or bring good fortune/health. They usually have the name of a deity written on them, along with a word referring to their purpose, and they are most typically placed in family altars or on doorways. Essentially the same thing intended for carrying on one’s person are called お守り o-mamori.
- atsumete is the -te form of atsumeru (“gather/accumulate”), and kimashita is the PL3 past form of kuru (“come”). The -te form of a verb followed by kuru literally means “(do the action) and come,” but its actual meaning often corresponds to English “go do (the action).”
- chūni refers to a “goblin,” a spirit (sometimes that of an animal) that takes on the guise of a human and leads people astray

- 1 Narrator:
Tsugi no hi...
The next day...

Talisman in back:
Mamono Taisan
Demonic Presence Withdraw

Sound FX:
Wai wai wai
(a standard FX word for lots of talking)

Man 1:
Arya, sakasama da.
"Hey! It's upside down." (PL2)

- arya is a variation of are!, an interjection of surprise, or a contraction of are wa ("that is").

- 2 Okido:
Sonna baka-na. Chun-to haita no ni!!
"That's impossible! I placed them right-side up!!" (PL2)
- baka = "idiot/fool" and baka-na = "idiotic/foolish/crazy," so sonna baka-na implies koto, "such a crazy thing." As an exclamation, sonna baka-na means "That's crazy/impossible!"

Hanamura:
Hoka no kuu mo zenbu sakasa ni natteru wa!
"(The ones on) the other floors have all been turned upside down, too." (PL2)

- sakasa is an alternate form of sakasama ("inverted/upside down").

- 3 Hanamura:
Marude kodomo no itazura ne
"It's just like a kid's prank, isn't it." (PL2)

- 4 Okido:
Kodomo?!
"A kid?!" (PL2)

- 5 Man 2:
Kachō, korya shanai no mono no shiwaza ja nai desu ka?
"Chief, this must be the handiwork of someone inside the company, don't you think?" (PL2)

Kachō:
U-n. "Hmmm." (PL2)

- 6 Narrator:
Konna koto mo atte, masu-masu sawagi wa hiroimatte ita no deshita.
With incidents like this, the uproar spread wider and wider. (PL3)

- masu-masu = "more and more," and hiromatte ita is from hiromaru ("spread/disperse over a wide area")

OL 1:
Hasegawa-san ga mita ite.
"Hasegawa-san said she saw it." (PL2)

OL 2:
Uso-.
"Lie." → "You're kidding?" (PL2)

OL 4:
Hie!
"Yikes!" (PL2)

OL 5:
Watashi, zangyō shinai wa!
"I'm not going to work any overtime!" (PL2)

Man 4:
Ano ne.
"Now listen..." (PL2)

OL 3:
Kowa-i wa ne-
"It's so-o sca-a-ry." (PL2)

Man 3:
Oto ga suru n da yo.
"It makes noises." (PL2)

1 Sign on Door:
Shachō-shitsu
President

- shachō literally means "company head" + "president." The suffix -shitsu means "room/office," but in English, signs on office doors typically give just the occupant's title

Shachō:

Wakatte-ru n desu ka?!

"Do you (really) understand?!" (PL3)

Mō sugu kabunushi sōkai desu.

"The shareholders' meeting is coming up soon." (PL3)

Shachō:

Konna koto ga gaibu ni hiromattara, mata sōkai de tsitsukareru.

"If word of something like this gets out, I'll get picked apart at the shareholders' meeting again." (PL2)

- kabunushi = "shareholder," and sōkai is "general assembly," referring to a meeting of the entire membership rather than of a representative group or executive board → "shareholders' meeting."

2 Shachō:

Isaku wa dekite-ru n deshō ne

"I presume you have some kind of plan ready." (PL3)

- isaku, frequently translated as "counter-measure(s)," is the word most commonly used for referring to "plans/planning" directed at resolving a problem of some kind.

3 Kachō:

Ha, hai! Jitsu wa sōmu ichūdō de yūrei taiji o keikaku shite-irinashite...

"Y-yes sir. In fact the entire general affairs section is planning a ghost hunt." (PL3)

Shachō:

Ii deshō. Tonikaku sōkyū ni te o utte kudasai.

"All right then. In any case, please take action immediately." (PL3)

- taiji = "subjugation/eradication (campaign)" → "hunt"

4 Sound FX:

Kata kata kata kata kata

Click click click click click (sound of computer keys)

5 Kachō:

Hontō ni arawareru ka ne?

"Do you really think it'll appear?" (PL2)

Okido:

Ee, kore dake jōken o sorotte yareba, esa ni tsurarete kanarazu kimasu.

"Yes, if to this extent we line up the conditions, it will be drawn by the bait and come for sure."

→ "Yes, we've set up all the right conditions, and I'm positive it'll take the bait." (PL3)

6 Hanamura:

Esa de warukutta wa ne

"Well, excu-u-se me for being bait." (PL2)

Arrow:

Esa

Bait

Sound FX:

Kata kata

Click click (computer keys)

- ( de ) warukutta wa ne (for men, ( de ) warukotta na), spoken sarcastically, is a common comeback to a derogatory/insulting remark, something like "So what if am?" or "Well excu-u-se me." Warukutta is the past form of waru ("bad"), so the expression literally says "that was bad of me, wasn't it?" The leading... de, which repeats a key word or phrase of the insult, is optional.

1 Hanamura:
Ha!
 (catching breath from being startled)

2 Ghost:
Jarapachu nē ka?
 "No jarapachi?" (PL2)

3 Hanamura:
De... de de de... de de... de... de
 (terrified stuttering over the beginning of her cry in the next frame)

4 Hanamura: Deta~
 "It appeared!" → "It's here!" (PL2)
 • deta is the plain/abrupt past form of deru, "emerge/come out/appear." It's the standard exclamation/cry/scream when you think you see a ghost/apparition/etc

5 Man:
Matte-mashita!
 "We've been waiting!" →
 "Let's do it!" (PL2)

Kachō:
Kono yarō!
 "You S.O.B." (PL1)
 • the exclamation matte-mashita! is essentially a contraction of matte-imashita, the PL3 form of matte-iru ("am/is/are waiting") from matsu ("wait"), so it literally means "I/we have been waiting (for this)." Its use as an exclamation really doesn't have a PL3 feeling in spite of the -mashita ending. English equivalents range from "All right!/Let's go!/What're we waiting for?" when spoken as the speaker springs into action, to "All right!/Bravo!/Now we're talking!" when a star performer or athlete makes his appearance.
 • yarō is an informal word for "guy/fellow," so kono yarō looks benign enough in its literal meaning of "this guy/fellow", but it is in fact an insult.

6 Man:
Uwa~!
 "Yow!"

Sound FX:
Baki Baki
 Crack! Crunch! (sound of bats/clubs hitting home)

Man:
Huee!
 "Yikes!"

Sound FX: Gashan
 Crash (sound of glass or office machinery being smashed)

OL:
Kyā!
 "Aaack!" (scream)

Sound FX: Doshin
 Thud (sound of something heavy hitting the floor/ground)

To be continued...

New Anime and Manga Monthly Magazine Bridges Pacific Rim!

ANIME & Manga Monthly ANIMERICA

If it's Anime in America, It's Gotta be ANIMERICA!

SUBSCRIBE NOW!!

ANIMERICA: THE UNPRECEDENTED ANIME AND MANGA MONTHLY MAGAZINE
Featuring news and reviews on the latest anime and hot new manga, CD's and video games, plus two serial comics in each issue!

ANIMERICA ANIME FEATURE: COMPLETE COVERAGE

ANIMERICA: TWO MANGA EPISODES IN EACH ISSUE

ANIMERICA: THE HOTTEST ANIME NEWS SECTION IN NORTH AMERICA

ANIMERICA: VIDEOS, MANGA, CD'S, VIDEO GAMES—WE COVER THEM ALL!

ANIMERICA, Anime & Manga Monthly
(Monthly 64 pages)
$4.95 USA/$6.50 CAN

ANIMERICA SUBSCRIPTION FORM

- 1 Mark one box for the subscription period
- 2 Make your check or money order payable to Viz Communications, Inc
- 3 Print your name and shipping address legibly below.
- 4 Enclose this form and your money order or check in an envelope and mail to:
Viz Comics
PO Box 77018
San Francisco, CA 94107

Yes! I Want

One Year Subscription
12 issues $48.00 (save 11.40)
Two Year Subscription
24 issues $89.00 (save 29.80)

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Day Phone No. ( ) _____

The subscription to ANIMERICA is available only in the U.S.A. and Canada.

The series: HOTEL is an ongoing feature in the bi-weekly magazine ビッグコミック (Biggu Komikku = Big Comic), from Shogakukan. As is the case with most popular manga series, collections of the stories are also published in separate volumes called 単行本 (tankōbon). The story we present here is from Vol. 21 of the tankōbon series, published in 1993.

The artist: Ishinomori Shōtarō is one of the top manga artists in Japan. He is known in the US for his economics text-manga Japan, Inc., an English translation of 日本経済入門, Nihon Keizai Nyūmon, "An Introduction to Japanese Economics" (Japan Inc. is available through MANGAJIN, see page 85). Ishinomori was a "disciple" of the late Tezuka Osamu, the man generally credited with developing the format of the modern Japanese story-comic. Many consider Ishinomori to be Tezuka's successor.

Arrangements have been made for a MANGAJIN interview with Ishinomori, but it was not quite in time for this issue. Look for it in No. 31, along with Part II of this story.

The stories are set in the fictional 一流 (ichū-ryū "first class") Tokyo hotel プラトン (Puraton, "Platon"), and revolve around the hotel staff (as regular characters) and the guests.

HOTEL

by 石森章太郎
Ishinomori Shōtarō

The main character in this particular story is Dr. Jinbo, a promising physician who left the staff of a prestigious university hospital to take charge of the clinic at the Platon. She made that career change partly because she had doubts about the way patients were treated in a big hospital—at the hotel she can take a more personal, human approach. Now, some of her former associates and teachers think her talents are being wasted at a hotel clinic, and are trying to lure her back to the university.

Dr. Jinbo

The video: HOTEL has been made into a "TV drama," miniseries, and rental videotapes are available through some Japanese markets. Ask for Hoteru no terebi dorama.

© Ishinomori Shōtarō. All rights reserved. First published in Japan in 1992 by Shogakukan, Tōkyō.
English translation rights arranged through Shogakukan.

1

第186話

クリニック

1

Title: 第 186 話 クリニック
Dai Hyaku Hachijūroku Wa Kurinikka
 No. 186 story clinic
Story 186: The Clinic

Doctor どう なさいました?
Dō nasaimashita?
 what/how did
 "What seems to be the problem?" (PL4)

- * nasaimashita is the polite past form of nasaru, a PL4 verb meaning "do." Dō nasaimashita is the PL4 version of dō shita ("how/what" + plain/abrupt past of suru, "do"), which has the idiomatic meaning of "What's wrong?/What's the matter?/What happened?"

Feature Story

(continued from page 13)

• Shukubō (宿坊, temple lodgings): Staying at a 1,000-year-old temple can be a wonderful only-in-Japan experience, but the traveler ought to realize that the accommodations will probably be bare-bones (a spot on a tatami mat in a common room) and the wake-up call, early (temple bells have a way of going off at the crack of dawn). Temples and shrines have long provided lodging for pilgrims, and even today, you may share your tatami with elderly pilgrims, dressed in white, who are on the traditional tour of the 88 temples of Shikoku. Some temples offer outsiders a chance to experience a bit of the religious life in the form a meditation session or retreat. But even the non-religious traveler, who quails at the thought of the evening "get-acquainted" meeting, might consider temples simply because the prices are, at ¥1,500 and up, among the lowest around.

• Saunas (サウナ, Sauna): Though not usually considered all-night accommodations, saunas offer visitors "quiet rooms" where they can stretch out for a few hours (or a night) on mats or lounge chairs. On weekends they are often crowded with salarymen trying to sweat out or sleep off the excesses of the evening. In addition to the quiet room and an "authentic" Scandinavian sauna room (birch switches optional), many saunas provide whirlpool baths, showers, Japanese-style ofuro, coffee shops, restaurants, bars, and the services of trained masseurs. The laid-back atmosphere will be a revelation to the newcomer whose image of the average Japanese is work-work, rush-rush. They may also be a disappointment to women; for some reason, women's saunas tend to be smaller and less luxuriously appointed than men's. The price of the whole package, not counting the post-sauna beer, is about ¥5,000 to ¥7,000.

• Gaijin Houses (外人ハウス, gaijin hausu): Another only-in-Japan phenomenon is the gaijin house. Essentially rooming houses or apartments that specialize in accommodating foreigners, dozens of gaijin houses have sprung up over the last decade in Tokyo. Their residents are mainly world traveler types who want to stay in Japan longer than the average tourist, but don't want (or can't afford) the apato or manshon of the average resident. Usually located at the fringes of the central city, they offer the advantages of a short commute, reasonable rent, no key money and no encounters with the real estate agents who suck wind through their teeth every time a foreigner walks in the door. Some even offer dirt-cheap accommodations by the day or week, usually in dorm-style rooms. The disadvantages include living conditions that sometimes give a new, unpleasant spin to the term "gaijin ghetto." "If all you want is cheap rent, fine, but at some of these places you'll have to live with cockroaches and rats—the level of cleanliness is really low," says Togo Ken'ichi, the owner of the Tokyo English Center, a pioneer gaijin house in Fupmigaoka. Perhaps because of the recession, or perhaps because they got tired of setting out Gokiburi Hothor (a popular brand of roach trap), more gaijin have been moving out than moving in. "We've had a 10 to 20 percent drop in the last year alone," said the manager of several gaijin houses in the Tokyo area. "We've even had to close one down recently. It's a bad situation."

Foreigners interested in staying in a gaijin house can begin by checking the listings in English-language city magazines or listening to the gaijin grapevine. Some gaijin houses, like Tokyo English Center, also welcome Japanese. "By staying here, Japanese students can improve their English—and by rooming with them foreigners can improve their Japanese," says Togo. Travel may be broadening, but internationalism can also begin at home.

(If you would like more specific information about lodging in Japan, contact JNTO [Japan National Tourist Organization] in N.Y. at 212 757 5640.)

Mark Schilling is a free-lance writer living in Tokyo.

* quail = しりごみする shurigomu suru = sleep off the excesses of the evening = 寝てその夜飲みすぎた酒の酔いをさます nete sono yoru nomisugita sake no yoi o samasu • authentic = 本物の/本場の honmono no/honba no • trained masseurs = 訓練を受けたマッサージ師 kunren o uketa massaji-shi • short commute = 通勤(通学)時間が短い tsukin (tsūgaku) jikan ga mijikai • suck wind through their teeth = (詰ったように) 歯の隙から息を吸いこむ (komatta yō ni) ha no aida kara iki o tsukomu • grapevine = クチコミ kuchikomi

2

Patient: ちょっと胃の調子がおかしいんです。薬をもらえますか?
Chotto i no chōshi ga okashii n desu. Kusuri o moraimasen ka?
 a little stomach's condition/state (subj.) strange/abnormal (explan.) is medicine (obj.) couldn't I receive ?
"My stomach is feeling a bit strange. Could I have some medicine?" (PL3)

Doctor: 日本へはお仕事ですか?
Nihon e wa o-shigoto desu ka?
 Japan to as-for (hon.)-work is it ?
"Did you (come) to Japan on business?" (PL3)

- moraimasen is the PL3 negative of morau ("receive"). Making a request with a negative question makes it more polite.
- the particle e is used to mark a destination, so "come (to)" is understood.
- the horizontal lettering, called yokomoji 横文字 (literally "horizontal letters/writing," an idiom for "European languages"), in some of the dialogue here presumably implies they are speaking in English or another Western language.

3

Patient: ええ、初めてのビッグビジネスなんです。
Ee, hajimete no biggu byjinesu nan desu.
 yes first time (=) big business (explan.) is
"Yes, it's my first big business venture (in Japan)." (PL3)

- hajimete = "for the first time" and hajimete no = "the first -."

4

Doctor: 薬は必要ありません。きっと長旅と初めての仕事で緊張したせいでしょう。
Kusuri wa hitsuyō arimasen. Kitto nagatabi to hajimete no shigoto de kunchi shita sei desho.
 medicine as-for necessity not exist Surely long trip and first time (=) work (cause) tensed up result is probably
"You don't need any medicine. You're probably just tense from the long trip and (your concern about) your new venture." (PL3)

- hitsuyō arimasen is the PL3 form of hitsuyō (wa/ga) nai ("the necessity doesn't exist" → "is not necessary"), negative form of hitsuyō (ga) aru ("the necessity exists"). Hitsuyō can also be used with da/desu ("is/are") in which case the negative form is hitsuyō de (wa) nai or hitsuyō ja nai (lit. "is not a necessity").
- kitto can range in meaning from a wishful/not very confident "maybe/perhaps," to a "probably/surely/certainly/un-doubtedly" spoken with a high degree of confidence, but it stops short of absolute certainty. It's often echoed by a conjunctural form at the end of the sentence, like desho ("is probably") here.
- nagatabi to hajimete no shigoto de kunchi shita is a complete thought/sentence ("[you] got tense from the long trip and your first time venture") modifying sei, which is a noun meaning "consequence/result/effect" → "the result/effect of getting tense from..."

5

Doctor: 今晚 一晩 ゆっくりお休みになれば、すぐ元気になるよ!
Konban hitoban yukkuri o-yasumi ni nareba, sugu genki ni narimasu yo!
 tonight one night leisurely if (then) take rest soon/immediately strong/healthy will become (emph.)
"If you get a good night's sleep tonight, you'll feel better in no time." (PL3-4)

Patient: 本当ですか?
Hontō desu ka?
 truth is it?
"Really?" (PL3)

- yukkuri is literally "slowly/leisurely/without haste," but in idiomatic use it's often closer to the English meanings, "quietly/gently/peacefully/at one's ease."
- o yasumi ni nareba is a conditional "if" form of o yasumi ni naru, a PL4 form of yasumu ("rest/sleep").
- genki is a noun referring to good spirits or a vigorous state of health/energy, and genki ni narimasu is the PL3 form of genki ni naru, lit. "become genki" → "become well/return to health."

6

Doctor: きっと商談もうまく行くことでしょう。
Kitto shōdan mo umaku iku koto desho.
 surely business talks also well will go thing is probably
"And your business talks will go well, too, I'm sure." (PL3)

Patient: ありがとう。あなたのようなドクターがこのホテルにいてくれて助かった!
Arigatō. Anata no yō-na dokutā ga kono hoteru ni ite kurete tasukatta!
 thank you you like doctor (subj.) this hotel at exists for me was saved/helped
"Thank you. Because there is a doctor like you for me at this hotel, I have been saved!"
"Thank you. What a relief it is that (they) have a doctor like you at this hotel!" (PL3)

- umaku is from umai ("good/skillful"), and umaku iku = "(will) go well."
- koto is literally "thing," but here refers more abstractly to "situation/outcome," and desho = "is probably." The expression koto desho literally means "the situation/outcome will probably be that."
- ite is the -te form of iru ("be/exist [in a place]" for people and animate things), and kurete is the -te form of kureru ("give (to me)"). A form of kureru after another verb implies the action of that verb benefits the speaker (or someone he identifies with) in some way. The -te form of kureru indicates he is giving the cause/reason for stating tasukatta ("I have been saved").

- 7 Akagawa: 神保先生、お客様です。
Shinbo Sensei, okyakku-sama desu.
 (name-title) (hon.)-guest/visitor-(hon.) is
 "Dr. Jinbo, you have a visitor." (PL3)
- Dr. Okabe: なるほど、ここが神保くんの仕事場か。
Naruhodo, koko ga Shinbo-kun no shigotoba ka.
 aha/I see here/this place (subj.) (name-hon.) 's workplace ?
 "Aha, so this is Jinbo's workplace, is it?"
 "Aha, so this is where you work." (PL2)
- Dr. Jinbo: 岡部先生!
Okabe Sensei!
 (name-title)
 "Dr. Okabe!" (PL3)
- kyaku is here used for "visitor," but it can also be used for referring to hotel "guests" in general, or to "customers/clients" of almost any kind of business. O- and -sama are honorific.
  - naruhodo expresses one's understanding of what one has heard/observed/experienced: "aha/I see/indeed/really."
  - in Japanese it is quite common to refer to one's listener by name when an English speaker would say "you," so Shinbo-kun = "you" in this case. kun is typically used with the names of young males, but it can also be used with women by their superiors. Especially when used by a superior, it feels quite a bit less formal than san, so in most cases it seems better not to translate it as "Mr./Ms."
  - the question indicated by ka is strictly rhetorical. The question form is often used like this as a kind of self-confirmation when the speaker has just observed/figured out something, with the feeling of "So it's... is it?/I guess/it seems."
- 8 Sign: 日本医師会 会場
Nihon Ishikai Kaijō
 Japan doctor's association meeting place
Japan Medical Association Conference Room
- kaijō is literally "meeting place" and it can refer variously to a single room, several rooms, an entire building, an outdoor facility, etc., depending on the nature of the meeting.
- 9 Dr. Jinbo: 日本医師会の会合が今日だって事、忙しくてすっかり忘れていました!
Nihon Ishikai no kōgō ga kyō da tte koto, isogashikute sukkari wasurete-imashita!
 Japan Medical Association's meeting/conference (subj.) today is (quote) thing because busy completely had forgotten
 "I was so busy that I completely forgot that the Japan Medical Association Conference was today." (PL3)
- tte koto is a colloquial version of to iu koto, a quotative form like "the fact that..." which essentially turns the preceding complete thought/sentence ("The Japan Medical Association conference is today") into a noun. The particle o, to mark that noun as a direct object, has been omitted after koto.
  - isogashikute is the -te form of isogashiru ("be busy"); again, the -te form is used to indicate the cause/reason for what follows.
  - wasurete-imashita is the PL3 form of wasurete iru ("had forgotten"), past of wasurete iru, from wasureru ("forget").
- 10 Dr. Okabe: ハハハ 久しぶりに仲間や恩師に会う日を忘れるなんて...
Ha ha ha Hisashiburi ni nakama ya onshi ni au hi o wasureru nante
 (laugh) for first time in long time friends and teachers/mentors with meet day (obj.) forget (quote)
 "(I laugh) To forget the day of meeting your friends and former teachers for the first time in a long time (is ridiculous/silly)."
 "Ha ha ha. How can you forget the day when you're to see the friends and former teachers you haven't seen in so long?" (PL2)
- onshi refers to a respected teacher under whom one has studied. Though a person could refer to any of his teachers as his onshi (just as he might call them sensei) more typically the term is used for those most central to his training in his chosen field of specialization → "major professor/mentor."
  - hisashiburi ni nakama ya onshi ni au is a complete thought/sentence ("meet friends and former teachers for the first time in a long time") modifying hi ("day"). O marks this as the direct object of wasureru ("forget").
  - nante is a quotative form that implies the action described is somehow inappropriate — i.e., ridiculous/astounding/etc.

11

Dr. Okabe

しかも 君の ホテル でやる ん だよ! ふふ
 Shikamo kimi no hoteru de yaru n da yo! Fufu furthermore your hotel at do (explan.) (emph.) (chuckle)
 "Especially when it's being held at your hotel! (chuckle)" (PL2)

私は 優秀な 教え子 が とんな 仕事 をしている か 心配 たった が ね。
 Watashi wa yūshū na oshuego ga donna shigoto o shite-iru ka shinpai datta ga ne.
 I/me as-for superior/best student (subj.) what kind of work (obj.) is doing ? was worried/concerned but (colloq.)
 "I was worried about what kind of work one of my best students was doing." (PL2)

Akagawa

へー、神保先生 ってそんなに 優秀 だった んですか?
 He, Jinbo Sensei te sonna ni yūshū datta n desu ka?
 (exclam.) (name-title) (quote) that much superior was (explan. ?)
 "Wow! Were you really that good, Dr. Jinbo?" (PL3)

Dr. Jinbo

そんな 事 ない わ よ。
 Sonna koto nai wa yo.
 that kind of thing not exist (form colloq.) (emph.)
 "Not at all." → "He's exaggerating." (PL2)

- kimi is an informal "you," generally used only by males to address equals or subordinates. Kimi no = "your"
- oshuego, from oshiuru ("teach") and ko ("child") is a term used by teachers and professors for somewhat endearingly referring to their "students/disciples/academic proteges."
- shite-iru is the progressive ("is -ing") form of suru ("do")
- yūshū-na oshuego ga donna shigoto o shite-iru ka is a complete question ("What kind of work is [one of my] best students doing?"), and shinpai datta is the past form of shimpai da ("am/was worried"). Shinpai datta after a question makes a sentence like "I was worried what/who/when/how/etc. . ."
- he is a light exclamation, like "Circ/Wow," giving the feeling that the speaker is at least mildly impressed.
- te here is a colloquial equivalent of to wa no wa, which is often just a fancy wa ("As for . . .").
- yūshū datta is the past form of yūshū da ("is superior")
- sonna koto nai is an idiom for denying the accuracy of something that has been said, especially for modestly playing down compliments.

12

Dr. Okabe

神保くん、ホテルの クリニック も いい が、
 Jinbo-kun, hoteru no kuriniku mo n ga,
 (name hon.) hotel 's clinic also good/fine but うちの 大学 に 戻って来る 気 は ない か ね?
 uchi no daigaku ni modotte kuru ki wa nai ka ne?
 my/our university to return/come back desire/intent as-for not exist ? (colloq.)
 "Jinbo, (working at) a hotel clinic is fine, too, but wouldn't you like to come back to our university?" (PL2)

Dr. Jinbo

え 大学 病院 に?
 E Daigaku byōin ni?
 huh university hospital to
 "What? To the university hospital?" (PL2)

- modotte is from modoru ("go/come back"), and kuru = "come." A form of kuru after the -te form is often used when speaking of actions that move toward the speaker in some sense (in this case toward the speaker's workplace), especially with words like modoru where the direction is otherwise ambiguous.
- uchi no daigaku ni modotte kuru is a complete thought/sentence ("come back to our university") modifying ki ("desire/intent").
- ki wa nai ka is the negative form of the expression ki ga aru, literally "have a desire/will/intent." The expression ki wa nai ka (lit. "don't [you] have the desire to . . .") is equivalent to "Wouldn't you like to . . .?"
- asking questions with ka ne is mostly reserved for superiors speaking to subordinates. Using only the abrupt ka can sound quite rough, so ne softens the question.

13

Dr. Okabe

私 としては 君 のような 優秀な 医者 を、
 Watashi to shite wa kimi no yō-na yūshū-na isha o,
 I/me as-for you like superior/excellent doctor (obj.)
 このままだにしておく の は 残念 なんだ よ。 kono mama ni shite oku no wa zannen nan da yo.
 leave as is (nom.) as-for disappointment/regret (explan.-is) (emph.)
 "From my point of view it's a disappointment to leave an excellent doctor like you as you are."
 "I hate to see an excellent doctor like you just keep going as you are now." (PL2)

- watashi to shite wa is literally like saying "as for on the part of myself," but here you can think of it as just a formal wordy wa, to set up the topic (watashi wa = "As for myself, . . .") + "If you ask me/from my point of view, . . ."
- kimi no yō-na ("like you") modifies the combination yūshū-na ("superior/excellent") + isha ("doctor").
- shite is the -te form of suru ("do") and oku means "set down/leave," so the combination literally means "do and leave." Kono mama ni shite oku is an expression meaning "leave as is." No is a "nominalizer" that turns this action into a noun and wa makes it the topic: "Leaving you as you are (is a disappointment)."

14

Dr. Okabe: なす、柴田くん。
Nā Shibata-kun.
 right? (name-hon)
 “Don’t you agree, Shibata?” (PL2)

Dr. Shibata: ええ、医学 は めざましく 進歩している んだ。
Ee igaku wa mezamashiku shinpo shite-iru n da!
 yes medical science as-for very rapidly + advancing (explan.)
 “Yes, medical science is advancing very rapidly.” (PL2) 君 は もっと 勉強したい と 思わない の かい?
Kimi wa motto benkyō shitai to omowanai no ka?
 you as-for more want to study (quote) not think (explan.) ?
 “Don’t you think you’d like to study some more?” (PL2)

Dr. Jinbo: もちろん 勉強 は したい けど
Mochiron benkyō wa shitai kedo...
 of course study as-for want to do but
 “Of course I’d like to study, but ...” (PL2)

- nā is a masculine nē, which can be used all by itself to seek agreement/confirmation from a third party other than the person you are directly addressing.
- mezamashiku is the adverb form of mezamashii (“striking/spectacular/splendid/brilliant”).
- shinpo shite-iru is from shinpo suru (“to progress/advance”).
- n da is a contraction of the explanatory no da, here used simply for emphasis.
- benkyō shitai is the “want to” form of benkyō suru (“to study”).
- omowanai is the negative form of omou (“think”).
- no is the explanatory no, essentially asking for her to explain her thoughts/views on the matter, and ka is an informal equivalent of the question particle ka, with a “softer/friendlier” tone.
- the wa (は) after benkyō (勉強) in Dr. Jinbo’s response implies that there is something else she’d like to do besides or in addition to studying.

15

Dr. Okabe: もし 君 に その 気 が あるなら、明日 14時 頃 私の 部屋 へ 来なさい。
Moshi kimi ni sono ki ga aru nara, ashita yoji goro watashi no heya e kinasai.
 if you within that desire/interest (subj.) if exists tomorrow 4:00 about my room to come
 “If you’re interested, come to my room around 4:00 tomorrow.” (PL2) 内科 の 権威 加名教授 を 紹介する から。
Naiku no ken i, Kana Kyōju o shōkai suru kara.
 internal medicine of authority (name title) (obj.) will introduce because/so “(Because) I’ll introduce you to Professor Kana, the (great) authority on internal medicine.” (PL2)

- moshi is almost always echoed later in the sentence by a conditional (“if”) form. In this case aru nara (“if [it] exists/if [you] have”).
- goro (or kuro) follows words indicating a point in time to give the meaning “about (the stated time).” For amounts of time (as well as other things) the word for “about” is gurai (or kurai).
- kinasai is a relatively gentle command form of kuru (“come”).
- naiku combines “na (also read uchi “inside/within”) with the suffix 科 ka, which designates departments/speculations of study and medical practice → “internal medicine.” Naiku no ken i (“authority of internal medicine”) could also be translated “the famous internist.”

16

Akagawa: 神保先生 は 本当に 大学病院 に 戻る つもり なの かな?
 (thinking) Jinbo Sensei wa hontō ni daigaku byōin ni modoru tsumori na no kana?
 (name-title) as-for truly/really university hospital to return intent (explan.) I wonder
 “As for Dr. Jinbo, is she really of the intent to return to the university hospital, I wonder?”
 “I wonder if Dr. Jinbo really intends to go back to the university hospital.” (PL2)

Sign: 受付
Uketsuke
 Registration

- daigaku byōin ni modoru is a complete thought/sentence modifying tsumori (“intent”).
- na no is the form explanatory no takes after nouns.
- ku na asks a conjectural question, “I wonder if ... /Is it perhaps that ... ?”
- uketsuke can refer to a “receptionist/reception desk” or to the act of “checking in/registering” for an event.

17

Kurata: エ プラトン を やめる?
Ei Puraton o yameru?
 what? (hotel name) (obj.) quit
"Wha-a-at? Quit the Platon?!" (PL2)

18

Akagawa: それは / まだ はっきりとは わからない けど .
Sore wa / mada hokkuri to wa wakaranai kedo that as-for still/yet clearly as-for do. know but
"I don't know that for sure, yet, but..." (PL2)

- mada followed later by a negative means "not yet."
- wakaranai is the negative of wakaru ("come to know") as well as of wakatte-iru ("know").

19

Kurata: だって、神保先生 は ずっと この ホテル に いる っ て...!!
Datte, Jinbo Sensei wa zutto kono hōteru ni iru tte...!!
 but (name-title) as-for all along this hotel at be (quote)
"But Dr. Jinbo will stay on indefinitely at this hotel, she said/I thought."
"But I expected Dr. Jinbo to stay at this hotel forever." (PL2)

Matsuda: しかし 東堂さんの 話 によると、 Shikashi Tōdō-san no hanashi ni yoru to,
 but (name hon.) 's story/narrative according to 神保先生 は 大学病院 でも かなり 期待されてた ようだ。
Jinbo Sensei wa daigaku byōin de mo kanari kutai sarete-ta yō da.
 (name-title) as-for university hospital at also considerably be expected/anticipated seems to be
"But according to what Mr. Tōdō said, it seems Dr. Jinbo was regarded with great expectations at the university hospital, too."
"But according to Mr. Tōdō, it seems the university hospital had great expectations for Dr. Jinbo as well." (PL2)

- datte has several uses as a conjunction, including the meaning of "but."
- zutto means "all through/throughout (a period of time)," and when no period of time is specified it means "all along/ indefinitely/for the foreseeable future/forever."
- tte is a colloquial equivalent of the quotative particle to, implying to iru ("said [that]") or to omotta ("thought [that]") or another equivalent. She could mean that Dr. Jinbo herself told her so, or that she has some other reason to think so.
- yoru = "be based/founded/grounded (on)," and to after a verb can have a conditional "if/when" meaning, so ni yoru to is literally "if (my conclusion) is based/founded on" + "based (on)/according to."
- kutai sarete {ikta is a passive past form of kutai suru, "to expect/anticipate" → "was regarded with anticipation/expectations." Preceding this with kanari ("considerably") makes it literally "was considerably regarded with expectations" → "was regarded with considerable/great expectations."

20

Matsuda: もし 医者として勉強したい の なら / 戻る かもしれん な。
Moshi isha to shite benkyō shitai no nara / modoru kamo shiren na.
 if doctor as want to study (explan.) if return might (colloq.)
"If she wants to study as a doctor, she might go back."
"If she wants to study medicine some more, she just might go back." (PL2)

- ... to shite is an expression meaning "as/in the capacity of."
- kamo shiren is a contraction of kamo shirenai ("might/maybe").

21

Kurata: そんな 事 になったら プラトンの クリニック は、どー なる んです か??
Sonna koto ni nattara Puraton no kurinikku wa dō naru n desu ka?
 that kind of thing/situation to if became (hotel name) 's clinic as-for what/how will become (explan. ?)
"If that happens, what's going to become of the Platon's clinic?" (PL2)

Matsuda: こ、後任 を 探す ... しかない だろう な。
Ko, kōnin o sagasu ... shika nai darō na.
 su- successor (obj.) look for have no choice but to probably (colloq.)
"We'll have no choice but to find a successor, I imagine." (PL2)

- koto is literally "thing," but is often used more abstractly to mean "situation/circumstance."
- nattara is a conditional form of naru ("become"); the preceding ni marks the result or "destination" of the "becoming."
- shika + a negative ( nai) basically means "only"; shika nai after a verb (sagasu = "search for") implies that doing that action is the only option: "have no choice but to (do the action)."
- と is a non-standard spelling of どう dō; writers may use the katakana long mark with hiragana for any number of reasons, but here it's perhaps to indicate the sharpness of her tone, which is also reflected in the final small na.

(continued on following page)

(continued from previous page)

22

Kurata: そー 簡単に みつかる 訳 ない じゃないですか?
Sō kantan-m mitsukaru wake nai ja nai desu ka?
 that much/so easily be found reason/situation not exist is it not that?
 "There's no reason (a successor) will be so easily found, is there?"
 "And that's not going to be so easy, is it?!" (PL2)

松田さん、なんとか引き止めてください!!

Matsuda-san, nantoka hikidomete kudasai!
 (name-hon) somehow stop/bring to a halt please

"Mr. Matsuda, please stop her somehow!"

"You've got to do something to stop her, Mr. Matsuda!" (PL2)

Matsuda: 人を 事 言ったって...

N-na koto itatte
 that kind of thing even if say

"Even if you say that kind of thing → "That's easy for you to say, but..." (PL2)

Akagawa: 神保先生 一体 どうするつもり なん だろう?

Jinbo Sensei itai dō suru tsumori na n darō?
 (name-title) (emph.) what/how do intend (explain) I wonder

"I wonder what in the world Dr. Jinbo intends to do." (PL2)

- wake means "reason/cause," so a verb followed by the expression wake (wa/ga) nai literally says "there's no reason that action will take place" i.e. makes a strong denial that that action could occur.
- ja nai desu ka is often a rhetorical question that in fact serves as a strong assertion: "Isn't it so? Of course it is!" — especially when spoken as forcefully as it is here.
- hikidomete combines hiku ("pull/draw") and tomeru ("stop/bring to a halt"), so it conjures the image of pulling/hanging onto a person to prevent him/her from going.
- te kudasai usually makes a fairly polite request, but her sharp tone here makes it more of an insistent demand.
- n-na is a contraction of sono, "that kind of," and itatte is a colloquial equivalent of the conditional ite mo, "even if (you) say."
- wa to mark the topic has been omitted after Jinbo Sensei.
- itai is an emphatizer for question words: "(What) in the world?/(How) on earth?/etc."

23

Sign: 社団法人 日本 医師会 学会 '92
Shadai Hōjin Nihon Ishikai Gakkai Kyūjūni
 non-profit corporation Japan Medical Association Conference '92
Japan Medical Association Conference '92

- shadai hōjin is one of quite a few classifications of hōjin ("juristic persons" → incorporated bodies) under the Japanese Civil Code. Hōjin classifications include the legal "personalities" of organizations, such as whether they are for-profit or nonprofit, private or public, charitable, religious, cultural, professional, etc.

24

Dr. Jinbo: 柴田くん が 助教授?
Shibata-kun ga jokyōju?
 (nai ie-hon) (subj) assistant/associate professor
 "You're an associate professor?!" (PL2)

Dr. Shibata: いやあ、君 だってあのまま 大学 に 残ってれば、
iyā, kimi datte ano mama daigaku ni nokotte-ireba, no you also as you were university at if had stayed 今頃 助教授 ぐらい になっていた さ!

imagoro jokyōju gurai natte ita sa!
 about now associate professor about would have become (colloq.)

"It's nothing. If you had stayed at the university, you'd easily be an associate professor by now, too." (PL2)

- her use of kun in addressing Dr. Shibata shows she regards him as a peer rather than a superior; from that and from what he says, we can surmise they were in the same "class" of Dr. Okabe's proteges.
- jokyōju (written with the kanji for "assist" and "professor") come under kyōju ("full professors") in the Japanese system for ranking university faculty, but beyond that it is difficult to establish a clear correspondence with American faculty rank. Since "assistant professor" is an entry level rank in America, though, "associate professor" is clearly the more appropriate translation for jokyōju in this context.
- iyā (lit. "no") here serves as a self-deprecatory "it's nothing" in response to her surprise and implied praise.
- datte is a colloquial equivalent of mo, "also/too."
- mama = "as is/unchanged," so ano mama = "unchanged from that" or "as you were."
- nokotte-ireba is a conditional ("if") form of nokotte-iru ("has remained/stayed"), from nokoru ("remain/stay").
- gurai (or kurai) literally means "about/approximately," but it can be used idiomatically to downplay the significance of the thing/action mentioned just before it, so jokyōju gurai feels a little like "a mere jokyōju" — implying she would easily have reached that rank by now, too.
- natte-ita is the past form of natte-iru ("has become") → "would have become."
- sa is often used to authoritatively/assertively emphasize something you think your listener doesn't know.

25	Dr. Jinbo: まさか。  Masaka.  "Come now." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>masaka indicates disbelief/incredulity and can either stand alone as an exclamation ("No!/Impossible!/Hardly!") or serve as emphasis within a more specific statement of disbelief ("it can't possibly be that /you surely don't mean to tell me that ...").</li> </ul>
26	Dr. Shibata: あの時、  Ano toki  "That time..."
27	Dr. Shibata: 君 が 突然、 大学病院 を やめる って、 った 時 は 驚いた よ。   kimi ga totsuzen, daigaku byōin o yameru tte itta toki wa odoroiu yo.  you (subj.) suddenly university hospital (obj.) will quit/resign (quote) said time as for was surprised (emph.)  "when you suddenly told me you were quitting the university hospital, I was really surprised."  (PL2) Dr. Jinbo: そう ね、 あの 時 は  So ne, ano toki wa  that way (colloq-as) that time as-for  "Yes, at that time..." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>tte is quotative and itta is the plain/abrupt past form of iu ("say"). Kimi ga totsuzen daigaku byōin o yameru tte itta is a complete thought/sentence ("you suddenly said you were quitting the university hospital") modifying toki ("time/the time when").</li> <li>odoroiu is the plain/abrupt past form of odoroku ("be surprised").</li> <li>ne by itself often replaces desu ne ("is, isn't it?") or deshita ne ("was, wasn't it?"), especially in feminine speech, so so ne here literally means "it was that way wasn't it." She is not confirming the fact that he was surprised, but that he had good cause to be.</li> </ul>
28	Dr. Shibata: えッ、 やめる?  E! yameru?  "What? Quitting?!" (PL2) Dr. Jinbo: ええ、 ホテル の クリニック で 働く ことにした の!  Ee, hōteru no kurinikku de hataraku koto ni shita no!  yes hotel is clinic at work decided to (explan.)  "Yes, I've decided to work at a clinic in a hotel." (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>one use of the particle de is to mark the location where an action takes place</li> <li>koto ni shita is the plain/abrupt past form of koto ni suru an idiomatic expression for "decide to" (literally "thing/situation" + "to" + "do/make" → "make it the situation that...").</li> <li>no indicates she is offering an explanation. Omitting desu after no is common in colloquial speech, especially among females.</li> </ul>
29	Dr. Shibata: ホテル? / なぜ そんな 所 に?  Hōteru? / Naze sonoa tokoro ni?  hotel why that kind of place at  "A hotel? Why at a place like that?" (PL2)
30	Dr. Jinbo: 大学病院 で 医者 を 続ける 事 が / 嫌 になった の かしら ね。  Daigaku byōin de isha o tsuzukeru koto ga / iya ni nana no kashira ne.  university hospital at doctor (obj.) continue thing/act (subj.) disagreeable in became (explan.) is it perhaps? (colloq.)  "Continuing as a doctor at the university hospital has become disagreeable (to me), perhaps."  "I guess the idea of continuing as a doctor at the university hospital no longer appeals to me."  (PL2) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>koto, literally "thing," is here being used as a "nominalizer" to make the preceding clause into a noun: daigaku byōin de isha o tsuzukeru koto = "(the act of) continuing as a doctor at the university hospital."</li> <li>iya ni nana is the past form of iya ni naru, "grow tired of/come to dislike/get fed up with."</li> <li>kashira makes a (mostly feminine) conjectural question, "Is it perhaps/I wonder if ...?" It is often used at the end of a sentence to seek agreement/confirmation from the listener, but here it just adds light emphasis.</li> </ul>

31

Dr. Shibata: だって君はずっとここで医学の勉強をしたいって言ったじゃないか?
Datte kimi wa zutto koko de igaku no benkyō o shitai tte ite-ka ja nai ka?
 but you as-for all along here at medicine st. study (obj.) want to do (quote) were saying were you not?
"But weren't you saying you wanted to study medicine here indefinitely?" (PL2)

Dr. Jinbo: たしかに 前は そう 思っていた わ。
Tashika ni mae wa sō omotte-ita wa.
 certainly before as-for that way was thinking (form. colloq.)
"It's certainly true I thought that way before." (PL2)

でもこの病院の治療のあり方が疑問に思えてきたのよ!
Demo kono byōin no chiryō no arikata ga gimon ni omoete kita no yo!
 but this hospital's patient treatment's state/manner (subj.) questionable came to think (explan.) (emph.)
"But I've come to have doubts about the way patients are treated in this hospital." (PL2)

- chiryō refers to "medical treatment" rendered to patients, and arikata is literally "way/manner of being," so chiryō no arikata = "the manner/state of treatment" → "the way patients are treated."
- gimon is a noun for "question(s)/doubt(s)," and omoete kita is from omou ("think"). Gimon ni omou is an expression for "think questionable/have doubts," and adding te kuru (from kuru, "come") makes it "have come to think (it) questionable/have come to have doubts."

32

Dr. Jinbo: 先生はまるでベルトコンベアで物を修理するように、次から次へと治療していく。
Isha wa marude beruto konbēa de mono o shūri suru yō ni tsugi kara tsugi e to chiryō shite iku.
 doctor-as-for just like conveyor belt on things (obj.) repair like one after another (quote) proceed with treatment
"The doctors go from one patient to the next just as if they were repairing objects on a conveyor belt." (PL2)

フー / 本当にそれでいいのかしら?
Fū / Hontō ni sore de ii no kashira?
 (sigh) truly/really with that good/fine (explan.) I wonder
"(sigh) I really wonder if that's the way it should be." (PL2)

- marude + yō ni makes an expression meaning "just/much/almost like." Yō ni essentially turns the preceding into an adverb for chiryō shite iku (from chiryō suru ["treat patients"] + iku ["go," implying a progressive or repeated action]).
- tsugi = "next," and tsugi kara tsugi e (lit. "from next to next") is an expression for "one after another." The to makes this also an adverb modifying chiryō shite iku.
- sore de ii, literally "is good/fine with that," can mean either "that is enough" or "that is the way it should be."

33

Dr. Shibata: 多数の患者を治療する事は、先生にとって当然の事じゃないか?
Otai no kanja o chiryō suru koto wa / isha to shite atarimae no koto ja nai ka.
 many (people) patients (obj.) treatment doing/giving thing as-for doctor as natural/matter of course thing isn't it?
"Treating many patients is a matter of course for a doctor, isn't it?"
"But it's only natural that a doctor should treat lots of patients." (PL2)

- ja nai ka can be a rhetorical question that feels more like an assertion, and his expression indicates such a case here.

34

Dr. Jinbo: そうかもしれないけど、私は自分なりにもう一度外に出て考えてみたいの。
Sō kamo shirenai kedo, watashi wa jibun nari ni mō ichido soto ni dete kangaete mitai no.
 that way might be but I/me as-for in my own way one more time outside to go out-and want to try thinking (explan.)
"That may be so, but I want to go outside again and try thinking about it in my own way."
"That may be true, but I want to get away (from the university) and think it through again for myself." (PL2)

- kangaete mitai is the "want to" form of kangaeru ("think about") and miru ("see"). Miru after another verb can mean either "try/attempt (the action)" or "do (the action) and see what results" — here the latter.

35

Dr. Jinbo: あの頃は私も若かった / あ
Ano koro wa watashi mo wakakatta. / Fu in those days as-for I/me also was young (single chuckle)
"I was young then. (chuckle)" (PL2)

ずいぶん生意気な事を言っちゃったわ。
Zuibun namaiki-na koto o uchatta wa.
 very/quite audacious/brazen things (obj.) said-(regret) (form. colloq.)
"I said some really audacious things." (PL2)

Dr. Okabe: まあ君も当時は離婚直後だったし、精神的にもいろいろあったんだろう。
Mā, kimi mo tōji wa rikon chokugo datta shi, seishun-teki ni mo yoroiroatta n darō.
 well you also at the time as-for divorce right after was and psychologically also various things existed (explan.) probably
"Well, that was just after your divorce, and you probably had all kinds of things weighing on your mind." (PL2)

- uchatta is a contraction of itte shimatta, from iu ("say"); shimatta after another verb implies the action was undesirable/regrettable.

- 36 Dr. Shibata: やっぱり 大学病院 を やめた 本々の 理由 は
Yappari daigaku byōin o yameta hontō no riyū wa
 after all/as suspected university hospital (obj.) quit true reason is-for 離婚 が 原因 だった のかい?
rikon ga gen'in datta no kai?
 divorce (subj.) cause was (explan.?)
 "So was the real reason you quit the university hospital because of the divorce after all?" (PL2)
- 37 Dr. Jinbo: 少し は ね。 / でも プラトン で 働いてみて、
Sukoshi wa ne / Demo Puraton de hataruite mite,
 a little at least (colloq.) but (hotel name) at having worked 医者として だけでなく、人間 として たくさんの 事 を 学んだ わ。 isha to shite dake de naku, ningen to shite takusan no koto o mananda wa
 doctor as not only human being as many things (obj.) learned (form colloq.)
 "To some extent. But working at Platon, I've learned many things not only as a doctor, but also as a human being." (PL2)
- the particle wa after a number/quantity often has the emphatic meaning of "at least," so sukoshi wa literally means "at least a little," but it's also used idiomatically to mean "to some extent."
  - hataruite* is the -te form of hataraku ("to work/labor [at a job]"). Unlike English "work," hataraku cannot be used to refer to "working" as a hobby or other pastime.
  - mite* is the -te form of miru, and since it follows another verb it implies "try (the action)" or "do (the action) and see what happens." Here, though, the past-tense verb at the end of the sentence makes it past tense, so it becomes "did (the action) and found that..." or "having done (the action) I found that..."
  - dake de naku* is an expression for "not only... but also..."
  - mananda* is the plain abrupt past form of manabu ("learn").
- 38 Dr. Okube: た たら もう 大学 に 戻 ってきたまえ。
Dattara mō daigaku ni modotte kitemae
 in that case already/now university to come back
 "Then come on back to the university." (PL2)
- 私 は 今でも 君 を 高く 評価 している んだ。
Watashi wa ima demo kimi o takaku hyōka shite iru nda.
 I/as for even now you (obj.) highly evaluate/regard (explan.)
 "I still think very highly of you." (PL2)
- 39 Dr. Jinbo: どう した の、 こんな 早く から、お目覚め?
Dō shita no, konna asa hayaku kara, Shibata-kun?
 what/how did (explan.?) this much/to early morning from (name-hon.)
 "Shibata, what's up, so early in the morning?" (PL2)
- dō shita* asks for an explanation of something that seems out of the ordinary "what happened?/what's wrong?/what's going on?" Asking a question with no is common in colloquial speech, more among females than males.
  - konna* is an abbreviation of konna ni ("this much/to this extent") here. Asa hayaku means "early in the morning." Since hayaku is the adverb form of hayai ("early"), it implies an action is being done/taking place early.
  - her syntax is inverted; normal order would place dō shita no after konna asa hayaku kara. The name of the person being addressed can come either at the beginning or the end of the sentence.
- 40 Dr. Shibata: 昨夜 は 岡部教授 が いた から 言えなかったが
Sakuya wa Okabe Kyōju ga ita kara ienakatta ga
 last night as-for (name-ttle) (subj.) existed/was present because/so could not say but 僕は あの時、君 に プロポーズ を する つもり だった んだ。 boku wa ano toki, kimi ni puropōzu o suru tsumori datta nda.
 I/me as-for that time you to proposal (obj.) definite intent was (explan.)
 "I couldn't say this last night because Professor Okabe was there, but I intended to propose to you then [before you quit the hospital]." (PL2)
- Dr. Jinbo: プロポーズ?
Puropōzu? proposal
 "Propose?" (PL2)
- sakuya* is a somewhat formal word for "last night" (cf. yūbe, kinō no ban).
  - ita* is the plain abrupt past form of iru ("be/exist [in a place]" for people and other animate things).
  - ienakatta* is from iu ("say") → ieru ("can say") → ienai ("cannot say") → ienakatta ("could not say").
  - puropōzu* from English "propose," means "marriage proposal" in Japanese. The verb form is purupōzu (o) suru (lit. "do/make a proposal"; the o is optional).

41

Dr. Shibata: その 気持ち は 今でも 変わらない。Sono kimochi wa ima demo kawaranai that/those feeling(s) as-for even now not change

“Those feelings remain unchanged even now.” (PL2)

だが、それ以上に / 君の 医者としての 才能 を、
Daga, sore ijō ni / kimi no isha to shite no sainō o, but that more than your doctor as talents/gifts (obj.)こんな ホテル なんかで 終わらせる の は 惜しい と 思ってる kanna hōteru nanka de owaraseru no wa oshii to omotte ru this kind of hotel (be/like) as let/end/finish (trns.) as for regrettable/wasteful (quote) think/believe

“But even more than that, I think it would be a waste to let your gifts as a doctor reach their end in a mere hotel (clinic) like this.” (PL2)

Dr. Jinbo: 柴田くん、ホテルの クリニック は、Shibata-kun, hōteru no kurinikku wa...
(name-hon.) hotel 's clinic as-for

“Shibata, a hotel clinic...” (PL2)

Sound FX: R R R R...

(sound of phone ringing)

- kawaranai is the negative form of kawaru (“change”), and it can mean either “doesn’t change” or “hasn’t changed.”
- kimi no (“your”) modifies the combination, isha to shite no (“as a doctor”) + sainō (“abilities/talents/gifts”).
- nanka is a colloquial nado (“a thing/things like”), and is often used to belittle/put down/deride the item mentioned. Here he is not deriding the Platon as a hotel, but rather belittling the place of hotel clinics among medical institutions.
- owaraseru is a causative (“make/let do”) form of owaru (“end/finish”).
- no is a “nominalizer” that turns the entire preceding clause into a noun (“[the act of] letting your gifts as a doctor end in a mere hotel [clinic] like this”), and wa makes that noun the topic of the rest of the sentence (“I think is wasteful”).
- omotte-ru is a contraction of omotte iru (“think/believe”) from omou (“think/believe/feel”) when speaking of a belief or opinion. omotte iru usually does not take the progressive “am/is/are -ing” form in English.

42

Dr. Jinbo: 337号室 ね。すぐ 行きます。Sanbyaku sanjūnana-gōshitsu ne. Sugu ikimasu.
r. num 337 right? immediately will go

“You said Room 337? I’ll be there right away.” (PL3)

- -go = “No.” and shitsu = “room”; gōshitsu is the suffix for indicating room numbers.
- ikimasu is the PL3 form of iku (“go”).

43

Dr. Jinbo: ごめんなさい。すぐ 戻る から ちょっと 待っててくれる?Gomennasai. Sugu modoru kara chotto matte-te kureru?
(apology) immediately return because/so a little will you wait for me?

“I’m sorry. I’ll be right back, so would you (please) wait for me?” (PL2)

- matte-te is a contraction of matte te, the te form of matte iru (“be waiting”), from matau (“wait”). Kureru after the -te form of a verb makes a gentle, informal request, “would you (please) ...?”

44

Akagawa: えー? 神保先生 いない んですか? 困った な。E? Jinbo Sensei inai nderu ka? Komatta na.
what? (name-title) not present (explan.-?) be troubled/distressed (collec.)

“Wha-a-? Dr. Jinbo isn’t here? Oh, no.” (PL2)

Sound FX: ズー

Zu (sound of sniffing)

- komatta is the plain/abrupt past form of komaru, “to be faced with a problem/caught in a tight spot,” and na adds light emphasis. Komatta na serves as an exclamation of distress/uncertainty when faced with a problem you’re not immediately sure how to solve: “Oh no!/What a fix!/Now what?!/Bummer!”

45

Akagawa: すみません。すぐ 先生 を 呼んで来ます から。Sumimasen. Sugu sensei o yonde kimasu kara.
(apology) immediately doctor (obj.) will go call/summon because/so

“I’m sorry. I’ll go get the doctor right away, so (please) wait here.” (PL3)

- sumimasen is a more formal apology than gomennasai, which is most often heard from children — though adults may use it in informal situations when speaking to someone of equal or lower status.
- yonde is the te form of yobu (“call/summon”), and kimasu is the PL3 form of kuru (“come”). Tei-de kuru has a variety of meanings, including “go to do the action and come back.”

46	Dr. Shibata: 待ちなさい。 / 私 が 診てあげよう。  Machinasai. / Watashi ga mite ageyō.  <small>wait I (subj.) shall see/examine</small>  "Wait, I'll examine him." (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• machinasai is a relatively gentle command form of masu ("wait").</li> <li>• mite is the te form of miru, which when written with the kanji 診る means "see/examine" in the sense of a doctor examining and attending to a patient's complaint.</li> <li>• ageyō is the volitional ("let's/I shall") form of ageru ("give"). Ageyō after the te form of another verb implies the speaker intends/is offering to do the action for someone else's benefit.</li> </ul>
47	Akagawa: え? でも  E? Demo...  "What? But..."
48	Dr. Shibata: 熱 があるが、たいした事 はない。ただの風邪 だ。  Netsu ga aru ga, tashita koto wa nai. Tada no kaze da.  <small>fever (subj.) exists but serious thing as for not exist plain cold/flu is</small>  "You have a fever, but it's nothing serious. Just an ordinary cold." (PL2) すぐに 家 に 帰って 寝なさい。  Sugu ni uchi ni kaette nenasai.  <small>immediately home to return-and go to bed</small>  "Go home right away and go to bed." (PL2) Patient: しかし 五時 から 大切な 商談 がある んです。  Shikashi goji kara taisetsu-na shōdan ga aru n desu.  <small>but 5 o'clock from important business talks (subj.) have/exist (explan.)</small>  "But I have some important business talks at 5:00." (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• tada no before a noun means "a plain/ordinary/common..."</li> <li>• kaette is the te form of kaeru, "go/come home," and the te form here functions like "and."</li> <li>• nenasai is a relatively gentle command form of neru ("go to bed/sleep").</li> <li>• kaze is usually translated as "(a) cold," but also includes influenza, which is probably why the doctor's advice seems a bit drastic.</li> <li>• goji kara is literally "from 5:00" → "(beginning) at 5:00"</li> </ul>
49	Dr. Shibata: そんな もの は し を 改めれば いい。とにかく 早く 帰ちなさい。  Sonna mono wa hi o aratamereba ii. Tonikaku hayaku kaerinasai.  <small>that kind of thing as-for day/date (obj.) if reschedule is good/fine anyhow/at any rate quickly go home</small>  "Something like that you can just reschedule for another day. Anyhow, you must hurry up and go home (today)." (PL2) Patient: そんな 事 は できません。私の 会社 は 九州 なんです。  Sonna koto wa dekimasen. Watashi no kaisha wa Kyūshū nan desu.  <small>that kind of thing as-for cannot do my company as-for (place name)(explan.) is</small>  "I can't do that. My company is in Kyūshū." (PL3) だから 今日中に 契約 を 済ませなければならぬ んです。  Dakara kyōjū ni keiyaku o sumasenakereba naranda n desu.  <small>so/therefore within today contract (obj.) must finish/complete (explan.)</small>  "So I have to get the contract signed today." (PL3)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• aratamereba is a conditional form of aratameru ("modify/revise") and the expression hi o aratameru means to "re-schedule (an event/appointment)."</li> <li>• ii means "good/fine" and ba ii makes an expression meaning "it is enough to do /all you have to do is -"</li> <li>• hayaku is the adverb form of hayai ("quick/early"), and kaerinasai is a command form of kaeru ("go/come home").</li> <li>• dekimasen is the PL3 negative form of dekiru ("can do").</li> <li>• jū ni suffixed to a time word means "within (that time frame)."</li> <li>• sumasenakereba naranda is a "must/have to" form of sumasu ("finish/bring to a close").</li> <li>• dakara = "because it is so" → "so/therefore"</li> </ul>
50	Dr. Shibata: 患者 は 医師 の よう 事 を 聞く もんだ!  Kanja wa isha no yō u koto o kiku mon da!  <small>patient as-for doctor (subj.) says thing (obj.) should listen</small>  "A patient should do as his doctor says." (PL2) そうでなければ いつまでも 治る も ない。  Sō de nakereba itsu made mo naoran zo!  <small>that way if is not forever won't get better (emph.)</small>  "If you don't, you'll never get better!" (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• ku koto o kiku is literally "listen to what (someone) says," but it has the idiomatic meaning of "obey/do as (someone) says."</li> <li>• mon da (or mono da) after a non-past verb implies that the action or situation indicated by the verb is "common/standard/the way things are or should be."</li> <li>• itsu made tatte mo is followed by a negative to mean "(something won't happen) no matter how much time passes" → "will never happen."</li> </ul>
51	Patient: だったら、もう 治してもらわなくても 結構 です!  Dattara, mō naoshite morawanakute mo kekkō desu!  <small>in that case already/anymore if don't fix me fine/okay is</small>  "Then it's fine if I don't have you give me treatment anymore."  "In that case, you don't have to treat me anymore." (PL2)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• mō ("already") followed by a negative becomes "no longer /not anymore"</li> <li>• naoshite is the te form of naosu ("to fix"), which when written with the kanji 治す refers to giving medical treatment/a cure.</li> <li>• morawanakute mo is a negative conditional form of morau, which after another verb means "have (the action) done (for/to me)." → "even if (I) don't have (the action) done for me." Naoshite morawanakute mo = "even if (I) don't have you give me treatment."</li> <li>• kekkō often replaces ii ("good/fine/okay") in the expression -te mo ii (desu), (lit. "it is fine/okay if...").</li> </ul>

52

Akagawa: ここ は ホテル なんです。
Koko wa hōteru nante desu.
 here/this place as for hotel (explan.) is
 "This is a hotel." (PL3)

もっと お客さん の 事 を 考えてあげてください!!
Motto okyakusan no koto o kangaeete agete kudasai!!
 more (hon.)-guest-(hon.) of thing/situation (obj.) think for them please
 "Please think more about our guests!"
 "Please be more considerate of our guests!" (PL3)

Dr. Shibata: お客さん?
Okyaku-san?
 "Guests?" (PL2)

- no koto is literally "things of/about" (in this context "things" = "situation"), or simply "about"
- kangaete is the -te form of kangaeru ("think about/consider"), and agete is the -te form of ageru. After another verb, ageru means "do for (someone else)"
- kudasai after the -te form of another verb makes a fairly polite request

53

Dr. Shibata: なに を、バカなッ。患者 だろう!
Nani o, baka na! Kanya darō!
 what (obj.) foolish/ridiculous patients surely
 "What in... (Don't be) ridiculous! You mean patients, don't you?" (PL2)

Dr. Shibata: 私は 医者として 当然の 事 を 言 っている んだ。
Watashi wa isha to shite atarunae no koto o iu-iru n da.
 I/me as for doctor as natural/matter of course thing(obj.) am saying (explan.)
 "I'm saying what is only natural as a doctor"
 "I'm only saying what any doctor would say." (PL2)

Akagawa: だ、だからこそ 考えてほしい んです!
Da, dakara koso kangaeete hoshii n desu!
 so/therefore all the more want you to think/consider (explan.)
 "That's the very reason why I ask you to be considerate!" (PL3)

- nani o, which often occurs in fights, is an expression that reflects a flaring temper. Here it could also be taken as the beginning of a sentence like Nani o baka-na koto iite-iru n da ("What kind of ridiculous thing are you saying?").
- atarunae = "natural/proper/matter of course" and atarunae no koto = "what is natural/a matter of course"
- the explanatory n da in this case also provides emphasis.
- koso is an emphatic particle, and dakara koso is like "al. the more because that is so" • "that's the very reason why"
- hoshii after the -te form of a verb means "(I) want (you/someone) to do (the action)."

54

Dr. Jinbo: そうですね。それじゃ 帰りたくても 帰れません ね。
Sō desu ka. Sore ja kaeritakute mo kaeremasen ne.
 that way is it? In that case even if want to go home cannot go home can you?
 "I see. In that case you can't go home even if you want to, can you?" (PL3)

Patient: ええ。ですが こんな 病人 の 顔 で 金 いたくはないし。
Ee. Desu ga konna byōnin no kao de aitaku wa nai shi.
 that's right is so but this kind of sick person 's face with don't want to meet and
 "No. But I really don't want to meet (my clients) with such a sickly face either." (PL3)

- sō desu ka literally asks "Is it so?" but it has the idiomatic meaning of "I see."
- sore ja is a contraction of sore de wa, literally, "if it is that" → "in that case."
- kaeritakute mo is a conditional form of kaeritai, the "want to" form of kaeru ("come/go home") → "even if (you) want to go home." Kaeremasen is the PL 3 negative form of kaereru ("can go home"), the potential form of kaeru.
- ne here doesn't so much seek agreement/confirmation as it offers sympathy
- ee indicates agreement, usually "yes," but since Dr. Jinbo asked a negative question, agreement becomes "no."
- aitakunai is the negative of aitai, the "want to" form of au ("meet"); inserting wa adds emphasis.

55

Dr. Jinbo: わかりました。それじゃ 四時 までに 少しでも
Wakarimashita. Sore ja yoji made ni sukoshi demo understood In that case 4:00 by even a little 体 が 回復する ように 治療 しましょう。 karada ga kaifuku suru yō ni chiryō shimashō.
 body (subj.) will recover so that let's treat
 "I understand. In that case, let's treat (you) so that your body will at least recover a little by 4 o'clock." (PL3)

- wakarimashita is the PL3 past form of wakaru. Since wakaru means "come to know/understand," its past form is often equivalent to English "understand" rather than "understood."
- made = "until," but made ni = "by"
- yō ni after a verb can mean "so that (the action takes place)" kaifuku suru yō ni = "so that (you) recover"
- shimashō is the PL3 volitional ("let's/I shall") form of suru ("do").

56

Patient: そんな 事 が できる んですか?
Sonna koto ga dekiru n desu ka?
 that kind of thing (subj.) can do (explan.?)
 "Can you do something like that?" (PL3)

57

Dr. Jinbo: そのかわり、私のいう事をきちんと守ってください。
Sono kawari, warashi no iu koto o kichin-to mamotte kudasai.
 in exchange for that I (subj.) say things (obj.) exactly/fully obey/adhere to please
 “But please adhere exactly to what I say.” (PL3)

まず薬を飲んで時まで部屋で休んで、
Mazu kusuri o nonde toki made heya de yasunde, first medicine (obj.) drink-and 3:00 until room in rest/sleep-and
 “First of all, take that medicine and rest in your room until 3:00, (then) at 3:30 come back here for another examination.” (PL2)

3時半にもう一度ここへ来て診察を受ける。 sanjihan ni mō ichido koko e kite shinsai o ukeru.
 3:30 at more once here to come-and examination (obj.) receive

帰ったら後で必ずかかりつけの医師で診てもらおう事
Kaettara ato de kanarazu kakaritsuke no isha de mite morau koto.
 when go home afterward without fail family doctor at receive examination thing
 “When you get back home, be sure to have your family doctor examine you.” (PL2)

Patient はい、ありがとうございます。
Hai, arigatō gozaimasu.
 yes/okay thank you
 “Okay, thank you very much.” (PL3)

- sono kawari is an expression meaning “in return/in exchange for that.” She is essentially saying that she will do what she can to improve his condition (e.g., by giving him some medicine), but, “in exchange,” he must do his part — i.e., it will only work if he does his part.
- mamotte is the -te form of mamoru (“obey/abide by [rules/instructions]”). Kudasai makes a relatively polite request — though the firmness with which she speaks here makes it close to a command.
- nonde is the -te form of nomu (“drink,” or in the case of medicine, “take”); yasunde is the -te form of yasumu (“rest/sleep”); and kite is the -te form of kuru (“come”). Each of these -te forms indicates an action that precedes the next mentioned action in chronological sequence.
- kaettara is a conditional “when” form of kaeru (“go home”).
- kakaritsuke is used in speaking of doctors (and other health care professionals), referring to those one goes to regularly — “(one’s) regular/family doctor.” Kakari is from the verb kakaru, which is used in the expression isha ni kakaru for the meaning “put oneself under the care of a doctor,” and tsuke is from the verb tsuku (“stick/be attached to”).
- koto (lit. “thing”) added to the end of a non-past declarative sentence can make a gentle command/admonition.

58

Dr. Shibata: ずいぶん患者を甘やかしているじゃないか
Zuibun kanja o amayakashite iru ja nai ka!
 very/much patient (obj.) are pampering/spoiling are you not?
 “You certainly pamper your patients, don’t you?” (PL2)

Dr. Jinbo: 甘やかしている訳じゃないわ。これがホテルの治療なのよ。 Amayakashite iru wake ja nai wa. Kore ga hoteru no chiryō nano yo.
 am pampering/spoiling situation is not (firm, emph.) this (subj.) hotel’s treatment (explan.) (emph. ex)
 “It’s not pampering. That’s the way you do treatment at a hotel.” (PL2)

- amayakashite-iru is from amayakasu (“pamper/coddle/spoil”). Ja nai ka is literally a question, but as his scowl suggests, he is saying it more as an accusation.

59

Dr. Shibata: 君がこんな所でこんな患者のこんな治療をしてはいけない!
Kimi ga konna tokoro de konna kanja no konna chiryō o shite-ite wa ikenai!
 you (subj.) this kind of place at this kind of patients of/for this kind of treatment (obj.) must not go on doing
 “You must not go on doing this kind of treatment for this kind of patient at this kind of place!” (PL2) やはり大学病院へ戻るべきだ!

Yahari daigaku byōin e modoru beki da.
 after all/really university hospital to should/must return
 “You really must return to the university hospital!” (PL2)

- konna (“this kind of”) can be quite neutral, but it can also be spoken in a derogatory/belittling tone, which is the case here.
- shite-ite wa ikenai after the -te form of a verb means “must not continue (doing the action).”
- beki da/desu follows verbs to give the meaning “should/ought to/must.”

60

Dr. Jinbo: こんな患者?
Konna kanja?
 “This kind of patient?” (PL2)

To be continued . . .

From Calvin and Hobbes, p. 26

暴力	bōryoku	violence
餌食	ejiki	prey/victim
破壊	hakai	destruction
砕く	kudaku	crush (v.)
恐竜	kyōryū	dinosaur
殺戮	satsuriku	massacre/slaughter (n.)
鋭い	surudoi	sharp

From Basic Japanese, p. 28

泡	awa	bubble
人肌	hitohada	human skin
本気	honki	serious(ness)
時代	jidai	time/era
勘定	kanjō	account/bill
なつかしい	natsukashii	fondly remembered/longed for
同じ	onaji	the same
姿	すがた	figure/shape
冷たい	tsumetai	cold/cool
後ろ	ushiro	back/behind
夜	yoru	night

From Selected Works, p. 34

箱	hako	box
カンズメ	kanzume	packed in a can
カプセルホテル	kapuseru hoteru	capsule hotel
暗い	kurai	dark/dim
照明	shōmei	lights/lighting
読む	yomu	read
予算	yosan	budget (n.)

From Garcia-kun, p. 36

小僧	furin	immorality/affair
私う	harau	pay (v.)
人生	jinsai	(human) life
家族	kazoku	family
毎日	mainichi	every day
労働者	rōdōsha	laborer
噂	uwasa	gossip/common talk
訳	wake	reason/situation
残業	zangyō	overtime work

From Sarari-kun, p. 38

頭	atama	head/mind
会場	kaijō	meeting place
肝臓	kanzō	liver
休養	kyūyō	rest/relaxation
サミット	samitto	summit (meeting)
製品	seihin	product(s)
調べる	shiraberu	check/examine/look into
休む	yasumu	rest/take time off

From Obatarian, p. 40

ハンカチ	hankachi	handkerchief
家宝	kahō	family treasure
名刺	meishi	business card
パンフレット	panfuretto	pamphlet
サイン会	sain-kai	autograph session

From After Zero, p. 42

集める	atsumeru	gather/accumulate
仕度	bukkaku	(Buddhist) temple
エサ	esa	baat/(animal) feed
放っておく	hōite oku	leave as is/ignore
神社	jinja	(Shinto) shrine
株主	kabunushi	shareholder(s)
階	kai	floors/stories
神	kami	god(s)/spirit(s)
危機	kiki	crisis
目玉	medama	eyeball(s)
逃げる	nigeru	run away/escape
残る	nokoru	remain/be left over
ひさま	sakasama	upside down
騒ぎ	sawagi	uproar
幽霊	yūrei	ghost/apparition/phantom

From HOTEL, p. 51

ぐちゃぐちゃ	amayakasu	pamper/coddle/spoil
病人	byōnin	sick person
働く	hataraku	work (v.)
引き止める	hikitomeru	stop/restrain
胃	i	stomach
医者	isha	doctor
助教授	jokyōju	associate professor
ト復する	kaifuku suru	recover
患者	kana	patients
かぜ	kaze	cold/flu
緊張する	kinchō suru	tense up/become nervous
期待する	kitai suru	expect/anticipate
薬	kusuri	medicine
守る	mamoru	obey/abide by/adhere to
めざましい	mezamashii	striking/spectacular/brilliant
戻る	modoru	return/come (go) back
長旅	nagatabi	long trip
内科	naka	internal medicine
仲間	nakama	friends/associates
生意気な	namaiki-na	audacious/brazen
治す	naosu	cure/fix (v.)
驚く	odorku	be surprised
教師	onshi	teacher(s)/mentor(s)
教え子	oshiego	student (of a teacher)
惜しい	oshii	regrettable/wasteful
離婚	rikan	divorce (n.)
探す	sagasu	look for
才能	sainō	talents/gifts
精神的	seishin-teki ni	psychologically
進歩する	shinpo suru	progress/advance
診療	shinryō	(doctor's) examination
商談	shōdan	business talks
修理する	shūri suru	repair (v.)
済ます	sumasu	finish/bring to a close
助ける	tasukeru	save/help
突然	totsuzen	suddenly
つもり	tsumori	intent
続ける	tsuzukeru	continue
優秀な	yūshū-na	superior/excellent
残念	zannen	disappointment/regret

The Vocabulary Summary is taken from material appearing in this issue of MANGA JIN. It is not always possible to give the complete range of meanings for a word in this limited space, so our "definitions" are based on the usage of the word in a particular story.

Japan Related

Japan Related is an effort to correct the knowledge imbalance among people who need to know about Japan the most—Americans working day-to-day with Japanese bosses, colleagues, subordinates, suppliers and customers. Japan Related's mission is to provide Americans with the information they need to relate comfortably to the Japanese and succeed in a Japanese management environment.

- Interviews
- Case Studies
- Cultural Problems and Solutions
- Communication Tips
- Intercultural Manners and Advice
- Book Reviews
- Information about Japan, its people and the language

710

Japan Related, Inc.
1046 Vance Ave. NE
Atlanta, GA 30306

JAPAN BUDGET TRAVEL

The lowest fares to Asia and beyond.

Going to Japan, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan or Europe is easy and economical when you turn to Japan Budget Travel.

Whether you're traveling for business or pleasure, our highly-trained agents have the experience and expertise to assist you with all of your travel needs. We offer a complete range of travel services, including the Japan Rail Pass and Eurail Pass.

So when you want fast, dependable service—and the lowest prices around—call Japan Budget Travel.

Call any of our offices toll free:

- New York... 800-722-0797 • 212-686-8855
 ■ Chicago.... 800-843-0273 • 312-236-9797
 ■ Boston..... 800-638-0024 • 617-353-1010
 ■ Houston.... 800-445-5265 • 713-789-6633
 ■ Atlanta..... 800-782-7781 • 404-231-4333
 ■ Tokyo..... 03-504-0698*

The Future of Information Management Requires Local Computing

Partial List of Japanese Products:

- |   |  |           |
|---|--|-----------|
|  | Japanese PostScript Printers                 |           |
|  | Apple's Japanese Language Kit for System 7.1 | 日本語       |
|  | FontWorks PostScript Fonts                   | 日本語       |
|  | Adobe AJM & PostScript Fonts                 | عربي      |
|  | Kanjii PageMaker-J 4.0                       | Español   |
|  | FreeHand-3.1J & FreeHand-3.1A                | עברית     |
|  | TurboWriter Japanese 2.0 & Shasta            | Русский   |
|  | SoloWriter                                   | 中國語言      |
|  | TwinBridge Japanese for MS Windows 3.1       | Ελληνικός |
|  | Microsoft Japanese Windows 3.1               |           |
|  | JALM & KanjiMaker                            |           |
|  | POS-V  |           |

Pacific Rim Connections

1838 El Camino Real, Suite # 109,
Burlingame, California 94010, USA

Tel: 1-(415) 697-0911

FAX: 1-(415)697-9439

Santa Claus is Coming to Town . . .

Toys for All Ages

- A. Daruma ladder. He descends the ladder with the speed of an acrobat. Ladder folds out to 21". $14
- B. Pagoda. A unique gift for puzzle lovers. 6". $14.95
- C. Daruma Otosh. How many blocks can you knock out without toppling the daruma? 6 1/2". $8
- D. Maneki Neko. This bright ceramic "good luck" cat makes an attractive ornament bank, 9". $35
- E. Pata-Pata. A toy easily mastered by the very young. 13". $8
- F. Daruma Bank Puzzle. discontinued
- G. Megane Koma (Top). This brightly colored top is the perfect stocking stuffer or party favor. 3 1/2". $9
- H. Whistling Top. A spectacle of sight & sound. 5". $16

Daruma Ornament

The Daruma brings good luck to your endeavor—at the start of a venture or a new year, one eye is painted and a wish is made for good luck. When the goal has been reached, the other eye is painted as a sign of gratitude. This keepsake paper mache ornament is 2" high. $4.50

Gong

This brass temple gong rests on its red and yellow pillow, 4 1/2" high, beautiful long mellow tone. $49

Card Games

Playing cards are reproductions of Ukiyo e woodblock prints on both sides. $12

Hanafuda game cards feature colorful scenes of trees, fields, flowers. $12

Back Hanafuda The Flower Game, $14.95

Noren

Cotton Noren. Noren are hung inside homes between rooms or in entryways, also in front of restaurants and shops.

Noren-birds on blue, $15

Noren-kanji on black, $15

Noren-fans on blue, $15

Chopsticks

Inlaid chopsticks with different patterns of mineral specs and gold-colored underlay, each pair is unique in style and color. Boxed in a lacquered tray with sliding lid. $12

Masu

The .80cc masu (measure) is made of natural finished wood. (Comes without salt in the corner.) Traditional cup for drinking cold sake. $9

Lantern

Iron fish lantern lights your deck or patio. Black cast iron lantern stands 7 1/2" tall and 13 1/2" long, with bottom opening for a candle. $39

Geta

Japanese clogs made with a flat wooden sole raised on two wooden slats. Choose 9 9/10 inches in length, red or black, $39

Karate Kid

Hachi-maki symbolizes determination and commitment to spiritual, mental and physical effort. Hand-screened 100% cotton.

Matsuri (Festival), $11

Kamikaze (Divine Wind), $9

Banzai (Huray), $9

Hissho (Never Beaten), $9

Fa La La La . . . How About a Gift Subscription to The Nihongo Journal?

1992 Nihongo Journals Available:

- 2: Studying Abroad in Japan from SE Asia, Essay: Inside the Car
- 3: Pachinko, Stylish Female Office Workers, Modern Japanese: Introduction
- 4: Katakana: An Initiation, Vocabulary Building: The Fun Method, Business Writing
- 5: The Liberal Democratic Party: Ghouls, Goblins & Imaginary Beings, Symbols in Kanji
- 6: Job Hunting in Japan, Wedding Fads, JLPT: Grammar & Listening
- 7: Phones for New Age: Game Arcades, Japanese Through Linguistic Functions
- 8: Whaling Controversy, Festivals: Delights, Beginning Japanese
- 9: JLPT, Amusement Parks, PKO Bill
- 10: Attending a Japanese University, Horse Racing, Negotiating a Price Increase
- 11: Preparing for Disasters: Ogasawara Village: Tokyo, Modern Japanese: Integrated Course
- 12: Stepping Up Your Japanese, Practicing Arts & Hobbies, JLPT: Practice Test

1993 Nihongo Journals Available:

- 1: Promoting Recycling, Off to Kamakura, Beginning Japanese: New Year's Day
- 2: Studying in Japan: Contemporary Kimono, News Nihongo: The LDP: Ultra-Rightists and the Yakuza
- 3: A Guide to Modern Fortune-Telling, Fortune-Telling: Young People's "Gods", Intro: Rocky-kun
- 4: Japan's Imperial Family, Teikoku Market, Please Take Care of Yourself
- 5: A Guide to Job Hunting, Japan Now: Street Performances, Intro to Katakana: Let's Learn the Rules
- 6: Using Dictionaries, Japan Now: J. League Kicks off, Writing Letters
- 7: The Japanese Language Proficiency Test, Theme Parks, News Nihongo: The Lower House Dissolution
- 8: Will Politics Change? Staying at Japanese Inns, Going Up Against JLPT: Practice Test Level 3

Dai Tokyo Binbo Seikatsu Manyaru

A series of episodes in the life of a young man who combines a laid-back philosophy with traditional values. (Original Japanese, sold in set of 5 only) $35.00, subscriber price $32.00

O-jama Shimasu

Popularly known as the "sheep-counting manga," the humor in this series is reminiscent of The Far Side. Three volume set, original Japanese edition. $19.50, subscriber price $17.55

Obatarian

Obatarian's obnoxious ways & selfishness have endeared her to thousands. Five volume set, original Japanese $31.50, subscriber price $28.35

A Reader of Handwritten Japanese

A collection of actual handwritten correspondence received by the author illustrating kanji "shortcuts," cursive, and general differences in handwriting. Each appears in original Japanese, romaji, and English translation from beginning to advanced. 266 pages. $27.00, subscriber price $25.00

Read Japanese Today

Read 300 of the most common characters in a few hours whether or not you have any knowledge of the grammar or spoken language. Reviewed in Mangajin #1. $7.50, subscriber price $6.75

A Guide to Reading and Writing Japanese

Gives easy-to-follow stroke order diagrams for 881 "essential characters," plus hiragana/katakana. Also a simple listing for 969 more, for a total of 1,850 kanji. Indexed by romaji reading, stroke count. Reviewed in Mangajin #1. $14.00, subscriber price $12.50

楽	𠂔	𠂔	𠂔	GAU, music; RAKU, comfort, ease; tano(sha) , pleasant
𠂔	𠂔	𠂔	𠂔	楽しみ tanoshimi , pleasure
𠂔	𠂔	𠂔	𠂔	音楽会 ongakukai , concert, musical
331 13 strokes	𠂔	𠂔	楽	気楽 kiraku , ease, comfort (水 15)

日本語ジャーナル The Nihongo Journal

Nihongo Journal
Subscriptions: 12 issues for $100,
$95 for subscribers

Nihongo Journal
Back Issues $9.00 each subscriber price $8.10

Komikku Nichi-Bei Masatsu: Waratte bakari wa iraremasen: "Comic Japan-US Friction: Not Just a Laughing Matter"

Ono Kosei, translator
Not Just a Laughing Matter has 100 political cartoons on Japan from newspapers and magazines around the world. Everything from the contents to the notes is presented in English and Japanese (no language notes or grammar explanations, though). Priority was given to those comics that evoked a chuckle. Reviewed in Mangajin #28. Price $17.00 subscriber price $15.00 sample n. n. 日本 見本 (見本) (見本)

$1.50 (5.00)

Kenkyusha's Furigana E-J Dictionary

This dictionary gives readings in hiragana for all kanji used in definitions and explanations. 980 pages, 49,000 headwords, heavyweight paperback. $24.00, subscriber price $21.60

Essential Japanese Grammar

A summary covering all the grammar needed for speech and comprehension. Not a textbook, but you can learn plenty by browsing through. $4.50, subscriber price $4.05

Japanese for Busy People I

Created by the AJLT, this course offers 30 lessons of survival Japanese with emphasis on vocabulary and grammar with practical value. Dialogs presented in both kana and romaji. 213 pages. $20.00, subscriber price $18.50. Tapes (four 30-minute cassettes): $50, subscriber price $47.50

Japanese for Busy People II

Sequel to JBPI combines vocabulary and grammar in realistic situations, opening dialogs, practice sections, exercises, quizzes. Kanji are introduced along with hiragana, katakana and romaji. 420 pages. $20.50, subscriber price $19.00. Tapes (six 60-minute cassettes): $90, subscriber price $85

The Perfect Gifts for Giving!

MANGAJIN Gift Subscriptions:

$35 for 10 issues (two year subscription for $65), still the best deal in town for that Japanophile you love so much! We'll even send a letter announcing the gift! Don't forget the T-shirt - it's the perfect conversation piece to wear around town (no matter what the weather)!

MANGAJIN T-Shirts: 'Tis the season! If you

shirt just states what you believe more simply! Both available sizes L or XL.

want our shirt for a present, the trick is to buy two because once you see it you're going to want one for yourself. Our Classic Samurai 100% cotton six color T-shirt costs $10.00 for subscribers $12.50 if not. Our Clean-Cut Logo shirt black logo on white 50/50 heavy blend is only $6.50 if you're a subscriber, $8.00 otherwise. This

MANGAJIN's Basic Japanese Through Comics

A completion of the first 24 Basic Japanese lessons from Mangajin, the next best thing to a complete set of Mangajin back issues! The lessons cover a wide array of expressions and illustrate usage and cultural context. Beginners will find the concepts and explanations easy to understand while pros can expand their knowledge. 160 pages, softcover $14.95

DUE OUT JANUARY 1, 1994!
Advance orders being taken now!

The Essence of Modern Haiku

Breaking free from centuries of poetry limited to nature themes, Seishi has added modern touches while retaining the elegant beauty of the classics. The unique approach of this collection has appeal for students of Japanese language & culture as well as haiku lovers everywhere. 368 pages. Hardcover $24.95, Softcover $19.95

MANGAJIN Back Issues: Still only $6.00 each or $5.40 each for subscribers. To all MANGAJIN collectors (and isn't that You?): We've just gotten a handful of #11s in from Japan. First come-first served!

- #6: Matsumoto Profile, Ginga Tetsudō 999 (I), Da! Tōkyō, Pocket Story Tanaka-kun
- #9: The Manga Market, San-pun-kun no Dekigoto, Galaxy Express 999 (Part IV), Unser Yatsura, Oyuku (III)
- #10: Japanese Movies (with Subtitles) or Videotape, Sex & Violence in Manga, Donald Richie on Subtitling Japanese Films, Obatarian, OL Shinkaron, Sarari-kun, Da! Tōkyō, Ginga (V), Pocket Story
- #11: Computerized matchmaking, Tanaka-kun, Da! Tōkyō, Ningen Kōsaten, What's Michael, Sararai-kun
- #12: Japanese Beer Brands, A Tale of Two Translations, The Far Side, Tanaka-kun, Da! Tōkyō, Ningen Kōsaten (II)
- #13: Controversial Submarine Saga, Chermoku no Kantai, Chūō Saikyō no Jinru, Korobokkuru-kun, What's Michael
- #16: Eating Cheap in Tōkyō, Results from Our Reader Survey, Ojama Shimasu, Bono Bono, Sararimen Senka, Oishinbo
- #17: Tezuka Osamu: Japan's "God of Manga," Mad Ad, Konnichi-wa Kuriko-san, Oishinbo (II), The Phoenix (I)
- #18: Kūyō Senshi, The Corporate Warrior, Eigyō Tentoku Nisshi (I), The Phoenix (II), Sararimen Senka, Calvin and Hobbes
- #19: Translators Talk, Tezuka Controversy, Sumō, Mad Ad, Obatarian, Eigyō Tentoku Nisshi (II), The Phoenix (III)
- #20: So You Want to Learn Japanese, Kana Learning Programs, Mad Ad, Ningen Kōsaten (I), Beranimai Tōchan, Sarari-kun,
- #21: Tonic eiyo drinks, Salaryman's Secret Weapon? Mr. Baseball, Kuriko-san, Ningen Kōsaten (II), Beranimai Tōchan, Sarari-kun
- #23: Educational Manga, Takahashi/Rie Wedding, Microsoft: Selling Software in Japan, Taste of Culture, Wasabi, OL Shinkaron, Tanaka-kun, Crayon Shinchan, Senshiro no Koi, Tsuri-Baka Nisshi
- #24: Bers, Cabarets, and the "Water Trade," Fūryū Manga, Odaib ni, Japan's Choco-Mania, Sarari-kun, Furiten-kun, Crayon Shinchan, What's Michael, Midori-san, Tanaka-kun
- #25: Sake Special: brands, terminology, mythology, manga, The "Japanification" of American Fast Food, Kuriko-san, Bea Lemon Hart
- #26: An Interview with Journalist Sam Jameson, Outrageous Japanese with Jack Seward, Beranimai Tōchan, Furiten-kun, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! (I), Bimbō Seikatsu Manyuan, OL Shinkaron, Calvin and Hobbes, The Far Side
- #27: Japan's Wedding Industry, Jack Seward's Outrageous Japanese, Brand News, Manga Business Manners, Yawara! (II)
- #28: Japan's Vending Machines, Japanese for PCs, Kachō Shima Kōsaku (I), Katsu-Shika Q, Beranimai Tōchan, Furiten-kun
- #29: Japanese Software Special, Interview with Takeuchi: creator of Garcia-kun, Political Cartoon, Book Review: What Is Japan?, Kachō Shima Kōsaku (II), Senshiro no Koi, OL Shinkaron

Making A List . . .

Checking It Twice . . .

In the Realm of a Dying Emperor

by Norma Field

Set in the final year of the Showa Emperor's fatal illness, Realm examines the dark side of Japanese nationalism. By giving detailed portraits of three people who have taken unpopular stands against a government-endorsed nationalist symbol, a nation is revealed that is far more diverse than most people realize. 273 pages, softcover $11.50, subscriber price $11.00

Slugging It Out in Japan

by Warren Cromarte with Robert Whiting

This Montreal Expo turned Tokyo Giant gripes about everything from soulless cities to gutless players, but by the end of the story admits his respect for Japan. Reviewed in Mangajin #14. 277 pages, hardcover $18.50, subscriber price $17.50

The Job Hunter's Guide to Japan

by Terra Brockman

If you want to work in Japan, this book is for you. Each chapter focuses on a specific industry (computers, English teaching, etc.) and gives you complete information on that field. The first and last chapters provide an overview. 232 pages, softcover $12.00, subscriber price $11.50

Manga! Manga!

by Frederik L. Schodt

Tracing manga from its 6th-century roots through its function as propaganda during the war to the billion yen industry of the present. Manga! Manga! includes more than 200 illustrations and translated sections of four classic manga works. 260 pages, softcover $18.50, subscriber price $17.00

Gateway to Japan

by J. Kinoshita & N. Palevsky

(Revised) One of the best Japan travel guides on the market. Place names written in English and Japanese characters. With food, lodging, transportation & shopping details, maps, etc. Suitable for high or low budget travelers. 541 pages, softcover $14.00, subscriber price $12.00

Japan, Inc.

by Ishinomori Shotaro

English translation of the Japanese educational manga Nihon Keizai Nyumon. The story involves fictional Mitsutomo Trading Co., the kind of company that has presided over Japan's economic expansion during the past century, providing insight into how the Japanese view business and their political economy. 312 pages, softcover $13.00, subscriber price $12.50

Doing Business with Japanese Men

by C. Branner & T. Wier

Defining problems women have with Japanese businessmen and offering solutions as well. Doing Business explains why misconceptions occur (on both sides) and would be helpful to anyone dealing with Japanese businessmen. Reviewed in Mangajin #26. 174 pages, softcover $8.95, subscriber price $7.95

The Way of the Urban Samurai

by Kasumi

There is no saving face when Japan insider Kasumi takes off the gloves and challenges you to get to know the truth about the Japanese male. Reviewed in Mangajin #24. 113 pages, softcover $9.50, subscriber price $8.50

☐ CHARGE IT! CALL 1-800-552-3206 WITH VISA OR MASTERCARD!

☐ renewal

Description

Quantity

Unit Price

Total

If this form isn't big enough just continue your order on a regular piece of paper!

All prices include shipping & handling (available only in US). Georgia residents please add 5% sales tax. Please allow 2-4 weeks for delivery. Extra charge for rush orders.

Tax if applicable

TOTAL

Name _____

Street _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Telephone _____

Signature _____

Acct. Number _____

Exp. Date _____

Charge It!

Mastercard ☐ Visa ☐

MANGAJIN, P.O. Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065-1119 Tel: 404-590-0091 Fax: 404-590-0890

• Classifieds •

Classified ads are free for individuals and non-profit groups (up to 30 words). Commercial ads are $2.00 per word, $3.00 per word bold-faced, $3.00 minimum charge or $80/inch for display ads. Discounts available for size and/or frequency (2 1/4" width, camera ready). Send to: MANGAJIN Classifieds, P.O. Box 7119 Marietta, GA 30065. Categories: • Pen Pals • Notices & Events • Books & Publications • Computers & Software • Job Seekers • Clubs • Consulting • Employment • Travel • Miscellaneous (MANGAJIN reserves the right to edit or reject any classified advertisement)

日本語のclassified OKです!

日本語のclassified OKです!

日本語のclassified OKです!

Computers & Software

Master Hiragana & Katakana
 • Jotted & Sound Keyboard
 • Flash Card Printer
 • Stroke Order
 • Kana Definitions
 • Windows Desktop Favorite File

かな な

Kana Helmsman

$25 Requires HyperCard 3.0 or higher
(800)859-NOVA
 Via MC & AmEx
 Nova HyperCard
 6317 Phoebe Ave. Northridge, CA 91324

Miscellaneous

To all non-native Japanese language teachers in America! Let's share our difficulties and good ideas to make our job more efficient. Write to: Gabriel Ferrans, Carabobo 1755, (1704) Ramos Mejia, Buenos Aires, Argentina (or fax 01 650 5894)

SUMO VIDEO 100 matches from latest tournament (Sept.). 2-hour subtitled. Entertaining, addictive. $39 complete. Edgewood Productions, Box 250243, Franklin, MI 48025

Looking for cassette tapes with English and Japanese, for learning in car? V. Murray, PO Box 666R, Marietta, GA 30065

Teachers: Mangajin has discounted subscription rates for your students! Send your name, School/College/University name, address & number of Japanese language students to Mangajin, PO Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065 (We'd also like to know how you use Mangajin in class and what (if any) changes to the magazine you would find useful.)

... Asian Studies ...

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY JAPAN Tokyo

Spend a semester or academic year in Tokyo at Temple University Japan. Enroll in Asian studies courses taught in English, and Japanese language courses, including Intensive Language at the beginning level. Courses fully integrated with Japanese students. Arranged housing.

For more information contact

Temple University
International Programs
501 Conwell Hall
Philadelphia, PA 19122
Telephone (215) 204-4684

BOSTON

- ア・ムステイをしながら
- 観光、買物、演劇観賞等を満喫し、更に
- 英語の個人レッスンが受けられるこんな欲求を満たすのはいかがですか。どうぞお気軽にこの格下さい。ビデオ教材の無料サンプルもいたします。

98 Saint Rose Street
Boston, Massachusetts
02130-3956 USA

ANIME THIS 'N THAT

Offering a complete line of Anime Products

Model

Video Tapes

Laser Discs

Send $2.00 U.S. for a Catalog for:
Anime This 'n That
P.O. Box 49296
Colorado Springs, Co 80949-9296

Japanese for the Macintosh

Sweet JAM™ 7.0 is a powerful "front-end" processor that allows you to type and print in Japanese using Mac programs, from Microsoft Word to PageMaker. TrueType postscript fonts ensure that your work looks as good as it is. JAM works with System 7. And its extensive dictionaries mean you'll never beat a loss for words. $348. Call toll free for more info. JAM. A lot more than a word processor.

1-800-JAPAN-07
VISA/MC Imported by CIT 'D

Clubs

Mason Otaki: We're a small, sociable, dynamic club in Baltimore into A & M (Anime and Manga), Japanese language and east Asian cultures. Make yourself welcome! (410) 484-6647 or MENDOSAN@AOL.COM

学ぶ Japanese 見る Verbs 読む 遊ぶ for Windows

Over 1000 verb references for the most common verbs with conjugations and 1200 example sentences. View in kanji, hiragana, or romaji. Includes verb study aids such as flashcards, multiple choice, and matching. On-line explanations.

日本語の動詞

KiCompWare
P.O. Box 536
Appleton, WI 54912
Ph 612-773-8621

探す

調べる $99

Books & Publications

TAIWA - Japanese Students: want to know more about the US? Plus: world wide pen pal listings, sports, travel and English tips. for ad subscription info: TAIWA Publishing, Inc., PO Box 621176, Littleton, CO 80162-1176

Now accepting stories, poems, etc. in English and/or Japanese for YOMIMONO #2. Send w/ SASE to Suzanne Kamata, 506 Masuya Mansion, Hiroshima, Matsushige-cho, Tokushima-ken, 771-02 Japan. YOMIMONO #1 is still available

We have an interesting list of educational material (K-12) on Japan. For catalog send US$2 & self-addressed envelope (no stamps) to Pacific-Rim Slide Shows, #302, 131 East 15th Ave, Vancouver, BC V5T 4L3 Canada

Pen Pals

American businessman, 24, seeks female pen pal from Japan. I travel to Japan every month. Please send picture. Write in English. Ben Goodyear, Esq., 16-C Addison Place, Clifton, NJ 07012

I'm contemplating teaching English in Japan and want to correspond with past (or current) Eikaiwa teachers for info., advice, etc. Sheila O'Shea, 1146 Lullwater Rd., Atlanta, GA 30307-1246

American male, 24, seeks Japanese female/male friends for pen pals. Interests include Japanese and American comics and culture. Bill Teichert, 59 Gelston Ave., Apt 4K, Brooklyn, NY 11219

Black American male, 23, graduate student, seeks Japanese female pen pals, 18-30, to discuss Japanese and Black American culture, life, etc., respond in English. Chris Backus, 2569 7th Avenue #31, New York, NY 10039

Want to correspond w/Japanese, any age, esp ladies or students interested in visiting/studying in the U.S. I enjoy the outdoors, correspondence and learning Japanese. Chris Toney, 8165 W. Geddes Ave., Littleton, CO 80123

Japanese single female, 30s, tour conductor, Japanese instructor, cosmopolitan, likes travel, arts, history culture, design, speed racing, language, aircrafts, seeks mature pen friends. Machiko Lematsu, Box 88964, Honolulu, HI 96830

Student in Moroccan University, 19, would like to exchange stamps and banknotes with other collectors. Also want pen pals from around the world. Write in English, French, Arabic. Mr. Ossama Afara, B.P. 4001, Post Alai-Mohammedia, Morocco

I teach English in Perth, Western Australia, and am also studying Japanese at university, hoping to complete a Bachelors in Japanese next year. I would like to correspond with Japanese people. Interests: foreign languages and current affairs. Please write to Rosalita Demario, 19 Benjafield Way, Hamersley 6022, Western Australia

Italian University student, 23, seeks Japanese (and all others) pen pals and friends (f/m). I enjoy books, music, sports, painting, cultural exchange and especially Japanese language and people. If you are interested, please write in English, easy Japanese or Italian. You'll have a sure answer. Michele Marcolin, via San Paolo 14, 56125 Pisa, Italy

American male college student, 19, seeking female pen pals of approximately same age, in Japan. If interested please write Scott Downard, 20385 Osseo Road, Apple Valley, CA 92318

Male, 31, interested in Japanese culture and starting to learn the language, would like to correspond with Japanese female especially (but not necessarily) if interested in Italy. Tiziano Danioth, via O. Limonta 44, 20092 Cinisello B (MI) Italy

Employment Seeker

Experienced J-E translator (financial, pharmaceutical, electronic, computer, steelmaking, other fields) seeks translation work from Japanese and U.S. companies. Formerly employed by Japanese securities house Mori Kasei. 304 Canyon Highlands Dr., Oroville, CA 95966

Employment Opportunity

WANTED-COMIC BOOK EDITOR Part time position in Los Angeles available for individual with experience. Company represents a comic book publisher in Japan. Please send resume and references to the following address: DYNA SLARCH, INC., 11835 W. Olympic Blvd., Suite 825, East Tower, Los Angeles, CA 90064

モ ケ

日本語
ワー ク

KiCompWare

MOKE 2.1 enables anyone with an IBM PC or compatible computer, a hard drive, and a graphics monitor to enter Japanese. Japanese is entered via romaji. MOKE 2.1 can input hiragana, katakana, kanji, and ASCII. Japanese can be printed on Postscript printers, HP LaserJet II, and 9, 24-pin Epson compatible dot matrix printers.

Also available: Kanji Guess 1.0 with flashcard, multiple guess, Kanji fish, and GojuuOnjun quizzes.

MOKE 2.1 - $69.95

Kanji Guess 1.0 - $30.00

Additional $5.00 per copy for shipping and handling in the U.S. (Outside the U.S. and Canada add $10.00 each.)

Please check one format:

☐ 5 1/4 (360K) ☐ 3 1/2 (720K)

Payment made by: ☐ Check or money order

☐ MasterCard ☐ VISA TOTAL $

Acct # _____ Exp. Date _____

Signature _____

Send to: KiCompWare, PO Box 536
Appleton, WI 54912 Tel. 612-773-8621

New Version

Use Your PC to Master Japanese and Chinese

Enjoy learning Asian languages with Smart Characters for Students™ word processor and vocabulary tutor. Unlike other word processors, Smart Characters combines reading, writing, translating, and vocabulary study tools to assist non-native speakers who may have only minimal foreign language skills. The result is an effective tool for word processing and foreign language study.

- ☐ Displays furigana, bpnf, and pinjin in a variety of styles to help you pronounce unknown or forgotten characters.
- ☐ The built-in vocabulary tutor teaches kanji and hanzi rapidly and effectively so you can read without notes. Create your own lessons and contribute to or select from the User's Group library, including each month's vocabulary from Mangajin magazine.
- ☐ Use the word processor to display or create sophisticated interactive hypertext lessons to learn or teach technical topics such as grammar and usage.
- ☐ Write and print any character, over 7700 are included.
- ☐ Handy on-line hypertext references and dictionaries include English notes to speed reading and writing. Optional dictionaries may be added and instantly accessed. The optional radical and stroke dictionary makes a particularly handy rapid reading tool.
- ☐ Version 2.5 provides better typography, more dictionary options, and is easier to use. Just $99.95. Call or write for a free brochure.

知 字

Appropos Customer Service, 8 Belknap St., Arlington, Massachusetts 02174 800-676-4021

日本語ジャーナル

The Nihongo Journal

Subscriptions Now Available!

Until now, Mangajin could only sell back issues of The Nihongo Journal; but now we are proud to offer yearly subscriptions to all Mangajin readers! Forget about monthly trips to the Japanese bookstore. Forget about calling every month and ordering the latest issue. Receive The Nihongo Journal directly at your doorstep, without any hassle or delay!

The Nihongo Journal is a refreshing language aid for both classroom and independent study. All exercises are arranged according to monthly topics and reading levels. Featured subjects cover business language and writing, Japanese Language Proficiency Test preparation, tips for memorizing kanji, and much, much more!

A deal for Mangajin subscribers:
Get $5.00 off your subscription to The Nihongo Journal! Just another bonus for subscribing to Mangajin!

Send your order along with payment to: Mangajin, Box 7119, Marietta, GA 30065. Or call 1-800-552-3206 with Visa or MasterCard orders!

- .....
- ☐ YES! I want to subscribe to The Nihongo Journal. I understand that, as a Mangajin subscriber, I'll get 1 year (12 issues) for only $95.00.
- ☐ I'm not a Mangajin subscriber, but I'd like to get the next 12 issues of The Nihongo Journal for $100.00.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

☐ Check or Money Order enclosed.

☐ I'll pay by... ☐ Visa ☐ Mastercard

Card No. _____ Exp. date _____

Signature _____ Tel. # _____

Sorry, offer valid in the U.S. only.

Phone # required for all credit card orders.

NJSTAR™ Japanese Word Processor

“NJStar demonstrates itself to be the most usable Japanese word processor for DOS... At $50 it's an excellent buy for anyone with a PC and an interest in Japanese.”
—Douglas Horn, Mangajin Magazine

NJStar Features:

- User friendly interface with pull-down menu and mouse support, easy to use.
- Easiest inputs of Japanese Kanji, Hiragana, and Katakana via Romaji
- Automatic Romaji to Kana/Kanji lookup with user definable dictionary.
- Ability to read Kanji and give Japanese pronunciation and English explanation.
- Configurable key strokes, screen color, screen help, and many other parameters.
- Rich editing functions: block operations, macros, search/replace and multi-file editing.
- Supports EGA 19 lines, VGA 25 lines and Super-VGA 30+ line Japanese display.
- Supports most dot matrix printers, Inkjet, and HP, Canon and Postscript laser printers.
- Supports JIS standard, read/write EUC-JIS, New-JIS, Old-JIS, NEC-JIS and Shift-JIS.
- Generates PCX files for FAX transmission or for importing to desktop publishing software.
- It does not require Japanese DOS, and it works under Windows as a DOS application.
- Chinese version is available with same user interface and 20 Chinese input methods.

NJSTAR Japanese V2.1j plus—US $49.95 • NJSTAR Chinese V2.1 plus—US $69.95

To order please include $10 per copy for international shipping and handling. Shareware versions are also available for $10 per copy. Please send your personal US dollar check or US dollar bank check to:

Hongbo Data Systems • PO Box 866 • Kensington NSW 2033, Australia
Telephone/Fax: +61-2-399-9876

南
極 星

The best In Japanese-learning software is now available from MANGAJIN at the lowest prices around!

Power Japanese for the PC with Windows by Bayware, Inc.

List price: $389 • MANGAJIN Price: $239 • Subscriber Price: $219

Power Japanese for Windows is a stimulating, fun, and, above all, effective way to learn Japanese. With Power Japanese, you can learn to speak, read and write basic Japanese in 10 weeks.

What's more, Power Japanese gives you something of lasting value: the foundation of real literacy in Japanese. The program emphasizes total learner involvement—listening, speaking, reading, writing and thinking in Japanese.

By combining graphics, animation and sound, Power Japanese provides a vibrant learning environment that maintains your interest in the materials at hand, while helping you retain what you have learned.

The Power Japanese program consists of four sections: 1. Hiragana covers the phonetic symbols used to write native Japanese words; 2. Katakana introduces the phonetic symbols used to transcribe foreign and imported words; 3. Grammar A provides basic sentence patterns, grammar fundamentals, reading and vocabulary drills; 4. Grammar B covers more advanced sentence patterns and grammatical concepts.

Power Japanese requires a 386 PC or higher with 3 MB of RAM and Windows 3.1. Package includes a PC external sound adapter, plug and headphones. No sound card or special hardware is required to run the program.

"When Microsoft Corp. transfers software engineers for a stint in its Tokyo office, it gives them a computer [program] called Power Japanese..."

—The Wall Street Journal

"The lessons are so elegantly designed and such a joy to complete, you may not even notice how much you're learning."

—PC/Computing

"Power Japanese is clearly a dream product, consisting of a great windows interface with clear, intelligent lessons that draw you right into the Japanese language..."

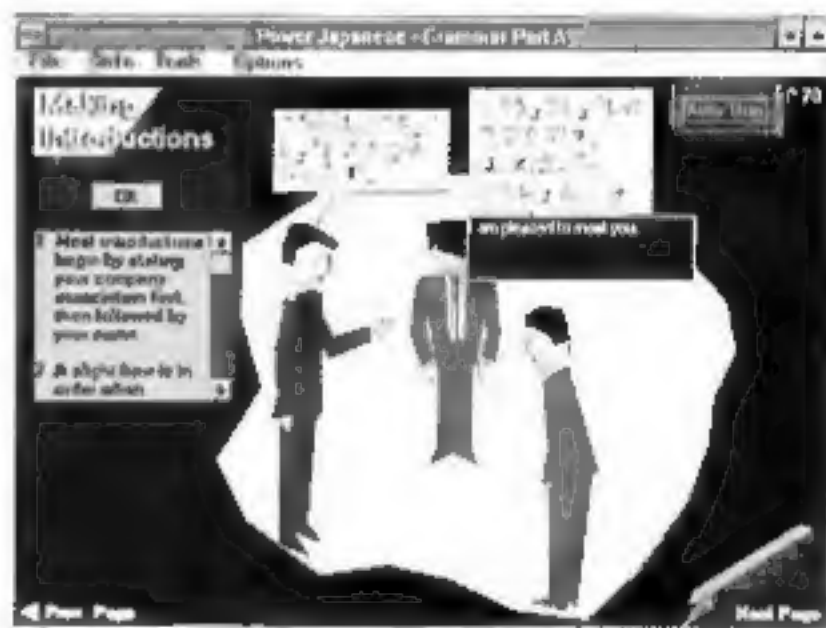

—Multimedia World

"...a tour de force in speaking, reading and writing Japanese."

—PC Magazine

Power Japanese was named MVP (most valuable product) by PC Computing at the 11/92 COMDEX show, and was Multimedia World magazine's 1993 winner for Best Language Software.

JapaneseForEveryone for the Mac by Butler Consulting, Inc.

List price: $325 • MANGAJIN Price: $279 • Subscriber Price: $239

Macintosh CD-ROM CourseWare

Japanese For Everyone

Version 2.0
an unprecedented Interactive approach to learning spoken Japanese

Butler Consulting, Inc.
CD-ROM Language Learning CourseWare
for the Macintosh® Computer
• JapaneseForEveryone - 2.0 CD-ROM
• Let's Speak Japanese - High School CD-ROM
• Speak Japanese PARTICLES
• Total English CD-ROM

JapaneseForEveryone is a CD-ROM interactive approach to learning spoken Japanese using your Macintosh. This program will have you up and running in spoken Japanese in much less time—and at much less expense—than you'd spend in formal language classes.

JapaneseForEveryone is based on situational dialogues with a business slant—greetings, introductions, making appointments, etc. The program consists of 15 lessons, each building on previous lessons. By clicking on a button, you'll hear digitally recorded Japanese sentences spoken by animated faces that appear on the screen.

Study time is 120-150 hours. Use the program for an hour or two each day and speak Japanese in months. Work more intensively and you could be speaking the language in weeks.

Requires a Macintosh computer, CD-ROM drive; 4MB of RAM for System 7 version; 2 MB RAM for System 6 version.

"Butler Consulting is light years ahead of the competition in its Japanese language learning software..."

—Pride's Guide to Educational Software, 1992

To Order Today Call
MANGAJIN at 800-552-3206

New Japanese capability that's all Macintosh.

Introducing the Japanese Language Kit for System 7.1

Add Japanese capabilities to your English system.

WorldScript is Apple's new software technology, included in Macintosh system software version 7.1, that makes it easy to use multiple languages on your Macintosh.

Run Japanese applications.

When you install the software in this kit, applications that have been developed for Japan will display Japanese menu bars and allow you to input Japanese text.

Work with Japanese fonts.

In addition to the Osaka Intmapped font, the Japanese Language Kit includes two Kanji TrueType fonts.

Apple's Japanese Language Kit makes using Japanese on your Macintosh computer easier than ever. Whether you're a native speaker or just learning the language, you can run Japanese applications and include Japanese text in letters, presentations, and reports.

Use the Language Kit to develop Japanese language materials such as brochures, posters, and business cards. Although the Japanese Language Kit does not translate text, it does let you easily input, edit, and print in Japanese.

If you want to improve your Japanese, the Language Kit can help dramatically. It allows your Macintosh to run popular interactive Japanese training materials.

The Japanese Language Kit comes with two

Kanji TrueType fonts, which produce high-quality output from any Macintosh-compatible printer. Documentation is provided in both Japanese and English, and you can type using either the Roman or kana keyboard layout.

As an extension to System 7.1, the Language Kit uses the operating system you already have. There is no need to store an additional system on your hard disk. The Japanese Language Kit also contains Kotenri, the same, easy-to-use input method that is included with KanjiTalk™.

Almost every major software program has a version that has been localized for Japanese. All you need to run them is the Japanese Language Kit and System 7.1. You can even use a non-localized program, such as Nexus 3.4, which takes advantage of WorldScript, Apple's new software technology. WorldScript simplifies the way in which a single operating system can support multiple languages.

Getting started with the Japanese Language Kit is easy, too. You can order it through your Apple authorized reseller or mail-order software suppliers by referring to Apple part number M16591J/A. And, when you purchase a Language Kit you can get support directly from Apple's own technical support staff. For the name of the U.S. Apple software reseller nearest you, call 1-800-533-3131, ext. 500.

See how easily the Japanese Language Kit can give you the power to input Japanese. The power to be your best.

Apple

And you thought we only served Japanese.

You need a global menu of financial services. Expertise in combining sound advice with the most advanced financial engineering. And someone who understands the services you require.

